CHAMBERLAIN REBUKES NAZIS; THEY SNUB HIM

Envoy Boycotts Talk by British Premier.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 13.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, faced with the collapse of his policy of appeasing the dictators by recent events in Tunis and Memel, told uncertain, jittery Europe tonight there would be no relaxation in British rearmament.

Prime Minister Chamberlain.

He went out of his way, also, to stress that the Anglo-American pact signed Nov. 17 was more than a trade treaty. It was something of an alliance, Chamberlain hinted.

The British prime minister spoke to 600 journalists and diplomats of several nations as the guest of honor at the jubilee dinner of the Foreign Press association.

Nazis Boycott Speech.

There were a number of vacant seats at the dinner and considerable confusion because of a Nazi boycott of the function. Herbert von Dirksen, the German ambassador; Gottfried Aschmann, head of the German foreign press department, whom Reichsfuehrer Hitler had sent to London to hear Chamberlain's speech; other German embassy officials, and Nazi newspaper correspondents refused to attend after reading an advance copy of the talk.

The section to which they took offense was a condemnation of Nazi press criticisms of former Prime Minister Earl Baldwin. Baldwin had been called a guttersnipe by the Nazi press after he had appealed for contributions to a refugee fund and criticized Nazi actions.

"I must deplore the present tone of the German press, which in one case has not scrupled to pour out its vituperation upon a most respected of our statesmen, himself but lately prime minister of this country, and in few cases shows any sign of a desire to understand our point of view," Chamberlain declared. The audience cheered enthusiastically.

Still Hopes for Peace.

"Nevertheless," Chamberlain continued, "I am convinced that the wish of our two peoples remains still what it was recorded to me in the Munich agreement—namely, never to go to war with one another again, and to settle any difference that might arise between us by the method of consultation."

The Nazi boycott was announced by the German embassy just a short time before the time set for the dinner—such a short time, in fact, that it was too late to rearrange the dinner places to fill up the gaps. The embassy announcement said that "because of certain sentences in the prime minister's speech" it was "sincerely regretted" that the Germans could not attend. There was one vacant chair at Chamberlain's own table, where Ambassador von Dirksen was to have sat.

The Nazi rebuff was reported to have been ordered by Hitler himself after he had been informed of the context of Chamberlain's speech, and was seen as a new setback to the premier's tottering appeasement policy.

It is considered likely that the incident will be raised in the house of commons tomorrow when Chamberlain faces a barrage of questions on foreign affairs.

Premier Tells Achievements.

Chamberlain in his speech boasted that during the last twelve months his policy had produced five major international agreements, three being between democratic states and totalitarian states.

Chamberlain enumerated these as follows:

FIRST—The British pact with Ireland in April, which ended the British-Irish trade war.

SECOND—The Anglo-Italian pact signed in April, which was designed to settle Mediterranean, African, and near eastern differences between Britain and Italy.

THIRD—The Munich agreement, carving up Czecho-Slovakia, with its

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] of the house committee investigating un-American activities declared in a radio address tonight that the failure of the labor department to deport alien agitators "is becoming a national scandal."

Chairman Dies and other members of the committee have suggested impeachment of Madame Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins because of her refusal to deport Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. leader, and other alien communist revolutionaries.

In his radio address tonight Dies expressed gratitude for the support of "millions of patriotic Americans," who, he said, have not been deceived by propaganda against his committee.

Expects Roosevelt Resistance.

Earlier today he predicted that the Roosevelt administration would exert "its full pressure" to prevent continuation of the committee's investigation. The committee's present authority expires Jan. 2 and its $25,000 appropriation is about exhausted.

Dies said he would seek another $150,000, which would enable his committee to employ counsel and expert investigators for a thoroughgoing investigation of communist, Nazi, and Fascist activities. He predicted that not more than 40 members of the house would vote against a resolution to continue the investigation, despite the opposition of the Roosevelt administration.

President Roosevelt, Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes, Secretary Perkins and other administration spokesmen whom Dies calls "purveyors of hatred" have denounced the committee because of its delving into the communist influences within the New Deal.

Citizens Support Inquiry.

Dies is relying on the generally acknowledged popularity of his investigation with the rank and file of the citizenry to overcome the opposition of the Roosevelt administration. The committee has received almost 50,000 letters, 95 per cent of which are favorable, since the investigation was begun last June. The Gallup poll disclosed that 74 per cent of the voters favor continuing the investigation.

Representative Maury Maverick [D., Tex.], a lame duck New Deal zealot who has no love for his fellow Texan, reported on arriving in Washington from a speaking tour the other day that Dies was becoming a national hero.

In his speech tonight Dies surveyed the evidence before his committee and said it compelled the conclusion that "intolerant ideologies of Europe" have been transplanted to American shores. He described the penetration of a chosen country with spies, propagandists, and trained agitators, and the building up within that country of blocs and sympathetic groups to promote the interests of foreign philosophies, as a new form of undeclared war.

Tells Communist Strategy.

At the last convention of the Communist International in Moscow, he said, the communist parties of all countries were instructed to adopt the "Trojan Horse" policy "to penetrate to the very heart of the enemy's camp." He described communism thus:

"Communism is a world-wide political organization advocating hatred of God and all forms of religion; destruction of private property and inheritance; absolute social and racial equality and the promotion of class

Alimony Spirit Clanks Badge; Seance Ruined

The curtain was rung down yesterday on a drama in three acts which might well have been entitled: "The Spirit of Alimony Knocks Only Once." It went as follows:

ACT I.

The time: Monday evening.

Mr. Struever is seated behind a table. Facing him are Mrs. Bessie McCracken, 6220 Woodlawn avenue, and a Mr. Carl Tufo. Mr. Struever, who doubles as a licensed medium and a WPA worker, is trying hard to break through to the spirit world. Mr. Tufo wants a reading.

Mr. Struever: "I can't do it. There's no harmony here."

Mr. Tufo [rising]: "You bet there's no harmony. But I'll give you a reading. I have an order for your arrest for being in arrears $155 in temporary alimony for your wife."

CURTAIN.

ACT II.

Scene: Judge Robert C. O'Connell's courtroom.

The Time: Yesterday.

Struever's wife, Mary, who lives at 206 West 69th street, is explaining that her husband has failed to keep up $20 a month alimony payments.

Struever is revealed as president of the Bethlehem Spiritual church, 812 West 69th street. He and his wife separated a year ago and she is suing for divorce. Monday night she had Mrs. McCracken, a friend, take Tufo to the seance.

Judge O'Connell: "Did the spirits warn you the law was there?"

Struever: "Your honor, they didn't. They fell down."

Judge O'Connell: "Have they told you what I'm going to do to you?"

Judge O'Connell: "Right!"

CURTAIN.

ACT III.

Scene: The same.

Time: A few minutes later.

Court crowds tensely await verdict. There is a rapping—for order.

Judge O'Connell: "I think I'll make it easy on you. Keep up your alimony from now on and pay $1 a month on the arrears."

IL DUCE IN UPROAR; CZECH PRESS FAILS TO PRINT HIS FICTION

MILAN, Italy, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo d'Italia, reported in a Prague dispatch today that Italy had protested officially to Czecho-Slovakia against the failure of Czecho-Slovak newspapers to reprint a fictitious dialogue which Il Duce himself is believed to have written.

The article, entitled "Dialogue on the Thames," appeared in Popolo d'Italia on Dec. 8. It depicted former President Eduard Benes of Czecho-Slovakia and the defeated Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia as lamenting the fact they had been ruined because they relied on assistance of the democratic powers against the totalitarian states.

The dispatch today said:

"It is obvious that an organized boycott of the most authoritative voices of the Fascist régime could not go without immediate correction."

The official Italian news agency, Stefani, reported that after the Italian minister had made a second protest to Frantisek Chvalkovsky, Czecho-Slovak foreign minister, assurance was given that widest publication of the article in the Czecho-Slovak press would be ordered.

A SHOPPING BAG WIGGLES—AND A MYSTERY CLEARS

When Mrs. Kohout investigated the contents of the bag wriggled and a nursing bottle fell on the floor. She found a baby boy, who, nurses at St. Vincent's orphanage said later, had been born only a few hours before. Pinned to a faded blanket in which he was wrapped was a note, reading: "Please take care of him. I had to do it. God bless him."

Calling Names, by Signs, Costs Deaf Mute a Wife

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Testimony that her deaf mute husband used abusive terms to her—in the sign language—won a divorce today for Mrs. Elizabeth Gage, 30 years old, also a deaf mute. Through an interpreter Mrs. Gage told Judge Sylvain Lazarus that her husband, Arthur, a mechanic, called her names and nagged at her by means of signs.

Gable Wants a Divorce to Wed Miss Lombard

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Clark Gable, film star, announced today he will ask his estranged wife, Mrs. Rhea Gable, for an immediate divorce. Mrs. Gable, he said, probably will file suit as soon as the courts interpret their property settlement, which is scheduled for a hearing tomorrow.

Friends of the actor assert he will marry Carole Lombard, movie glamor girl, immediately after the divorce becomes final. Miss Lombard has been his frequent companion at social and sports events and fishing excursions during the last two years. The two enjoy and dislike the same things and act as a tonic for each other in their work, friends say.

Has Paid Her $286,000.

Gable and his present wife, his second, separated in 1935, four years after their marriage at Santa Ana, Cal. Under a property settlement effected at the time of their separation, Gable has paid his wife approximately $286,000.

The court hearing on the matter is to obtain a ruling on differences of opinion as to the manner in which more payments are to be made. Mrs. Gable said she had no complaint concerning the agreement.

Attorneys for the couple are scheduled to appear before Superior Judge Reuben Schmidt tomorrow in a preliminary trial of the action instituted originally by Gable.

Films Blamed for Trouble.

At the time of their separation Mrs. Gable said their differences arose over the fact her husband had to work so long and so hard. They had separated the year before, but became reconciled after a few months. Gable is 37 years old and his wife is 46.

The actor's first wife was Josephine Dillon Gable, whom he married here in 1924. They were divorced in 1929. The first Mrs. Gable, formerly an actress, later became a dramatic coach and Gable was her pupil.

Miss Lombard, whose real name is Carol Jane Peters, was married to William Powell, the actor, in 1931. They were divorced two years later.

Gable and Miss Lombard must wait at least a year after Mrs. Gable obtains a divorce before they can wed, California law requiring an elapse of that length of time between an interlocutory and a final decree.

State Hits Blonde Slayer's Story

Witnesses Tell of Shots Fired by Office Wife

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Joseph, Mich., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The state sought to show today that if Fern Patricia Dull killed William Holbrook in self-defense she had to catch him first.

Prosecuting Attorney E. A. Westin told the jury of two housewives and ten married men that Mrs. Dull shot Holbrook in the back. Assistant Prosecutor Robert P. Small introduced witnesses who swore that Holbrook was shot as he was running, crying "Help, help!"

Another witness struck at the defense contention that Mrs. Dull was dazed with the assertion that she seemed "awfully mad" instead.

Relatives Cheer Defendant.

Mrs. Dull, who was Holbrook's secretary, is on trial before Judge Mark D. Taylor of Hillsdale on a charge of the murder of Holbrook. She had lived with Holbrook, a Benton Harbor attorney who was estranged from his wife, for eight years, and Benton Harbor knew her as Mrs. Holbrook. Selection of the jury was completed today.

Mrs. Dull, a silver blonde, sprightly in black and white, was cheered in her fight for liberty by the arrival of her mother and other kinsmen. But at times her mother wept as she heard the story of the shooting. And Mrs. Dull's daughter, Gloria, 16 years old, bit her knuckles under the strain.

Robert Zook, night watchman on a street improvement project near the scene of the slaying, told the most detailed story of the shooting.

Tells of Hearing Shots.

"I heard an argument," he said. "I saw a man running. Then I heard shots. I ran up. The woman started to leave and looked toward me. Then she came back and fired two more shots, standing over the man. He was lying in the street. She beat him with his hat and cursed him."

William J. Pugh, gray haired Benton Harbor merchant-policeman, testified that he also heard the shots and ran up to the woman, who he explained was Mrs. Dull.

"I grabbed her by both hands," Pugh continued, "and said, 'Give me the gun.' She had her purse in her hand, open. I looked in it to see if the gun was there, and took the purse.

"She said, 'Give me the purse and I'll give you the gun.' I did and she gave the gun to me.

"She was carrying a black eye and had a lump over it. She was bewildered, didn't seem to know what she was talking about."

Strikes Victim with Hat.

Pugh also testified that Mrs. Dull struck Holbrook with his hat. On cross-examination Attorneys George B. Gould and H. T. Dewhirst of the defense tried to show that she was

POOL STRENGTH TO BRING NEW CHICAGO BOOM

400 Form Congress to Push Plan.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Four hundred leaders of the building industry in Chicago set plans in motion last night for the revival of building construction and large scale reclamation of slum areas in the city. The occasion was the organization of the Chicago Building Congress, Inc.

Thomas Holden predicts revival of building industry.

Present were the heads of scores of concerns and associations interested in the industry. It was the first time in Chicago's history that all the various factors in the building industries have pooled their efforts in the gigantic task of Chicago's reconstruction. The congress includes not only building construction firms, architects, and real estate men, but representatives of labor groups, supply manufacturers, engineers, and planning agencies.

E. C. Jensen Elected President.

The response to the invitations sent out by the organization group was so heavy that the clubrooms in the Palmer House were too small to accommodate the crowd. Several hundred applicants were turned away.

Elmer C. Jensen, head of the Illinois Society of Architects, who was elected president of the Chicago Building congress, sounded the session's keynote.

"Our city is on the threshold of a period of reconstruction," he said. "We are becoming conscious of many of our physical shortcomings. The correction of these defects will go far toward creating employment and prosperity within the industry.

"Our industry, above all others, is the one most affected by such reconstruction. The congress should assist in the procurement of state enabling legislation and municipal ordinances, especially as they relate to regional and city planning, zoning, the subdivision and development of land, building, sanitary and housing codes, and the equitable assessment of property, both for general taxation and special assessments.

Look for Practical Remedies.

"Large areas of our city—due to a number of causes—have been and are being 'blighted.' Out of this 'blight' slums have been created. This city cannot continue to grow and develop until practical methods have been found to correct this situation."

Jensen and other speakers repeatedly directed attention to the challenge of the slums—those belts of property depreciation and squalor whose slow but steady expansion are not only isolating the loop from the desirable residential areas, but which are gradually undermining property values in districts farther out.

That the newly organized Chicago Building congress will get behind the proposed legislation to authorize public service building corporations for slum clearance was indicated by the fact that four of the individuals who developed the public service building corporation plan were elected officers of the new congress.

What Can Be Done Now.

J. Soule Waterfield, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, who was elected a vice president of the congress, offered the plan as one of the important practical things that the Chicago Building congress can start doing for the industry now. He stated the plan and its purpose as follows:

"Obtain enactment of enabling legislation to accomplish the purpose of the so called public service building corporation and thereby marshal private capital to perform its proper function of reclaiming and rebuilding the 'blighted areas' of Chicago."

The public service building corporation plan was developed by a group of prominent Chicagoans who are convinced that the problem of the slum can be brought under control by reconstruction with private capital as soon as a vehicle can be set up which will make it possible for private investors to do the job. The public service building corporation would be that vehicle. Such corporations would be organized, under the supervision of a state commission, to acquire large tracts of land for new building projects. The proposed legislation would empower such corporations to acquire land in present slum areas through condemnation proceedings, subject to the commission and the findings of the courts. Thus they would operate as do other public utilities, the electric light and gas companies, and the railroads.

Problem of Acquiring Land.

To date the one thing which has prevented private capital from undertaking large reconstruction projects has been the problem of land acquisition. Most property owners in rundown districts are glad to sell at a fair price, but the enterprisers who undertake big housing projects inevitably find that after they acquire part of the necessary land a minority of property owners block completion of the projects by demanding many times the fair value of their property

Practically all attempts at reconstruction in recent years have been wrecked on this barrier. Thus the slums have become stagnant pools of depreciating property values and unwholesome living conditions.

Organizers of the Chicago Building congress said the new organization is a concrete expression of the growing belief that this and other big problems that have been preventing reconstruction of Chicago are no longer impossible to solve. They said that it will set about to dissipate the spirit of defeatism that has long discouraged attempts to revive the construction industry.

No More Tug of War.

Instead of continuing to let the self-interests of the various groups play tug of war with each other, they added, the congress will seek to harness these self-interests and get them pulling in the right direction. Until last night there had existed no association through which the pooling of the self-interests of business, labor, capital, and other groups was possible.

Thomas S. Holden, president of the New York Building congress and vice president of F. W. Dodge corporation, a research organization which specializes in studies of trends in the building industries told the Chicagoans that conditions were right for a concentrated attack by private initiative on the task of city reconstruction.

"The indications of next year's construction trends," he said, "are so generally favorable today that one is rather tempted to over-optimism in estimating the extent of increased activity that may take place.

On Verge of a Boom.

"It is quite conceivable that we may be on the verge of a sustained construction revival that may continue without interruption for several years. Real estate and mortgage deflation have long since passed their crisis and the necessary reforms in real estate finance, especially in the residential field, have been enacted and are being successfully administered. Our old fashioned pawnbroking system of mortgage finance is rapidly being transformed into a modern streamlined long term credit system. Investment housing is coming to the front as the successor to speculative rental housing.

"Total construction contracts in the 37 eastern states were 15 per cent behind last year at the end of July, had caught up with 1937 by the end of October, and were one hundred million dollars ahead of last year by the end of November.

"Subject, of course, to further shocks from Washington and Europe, business confidence is stronger and more realistically based on economic facts than it has been for a very long time. The Dodge estimates for next year, purposely made conservative to take proper account of remaining uncertainties in the picture, are for a general 20 per cent increase in total building volume."

Threat from U. S. Agencies.

Oscar W. Rosenthal, a director of the new congress and head of the Illinois state housing board, urged concentration on revival of the construction industry through private initiative and commended the public service building corporation plan.

"The industry is challenged from within and by government agencies from without. The threat from federal agencies must not be lightly dealt with, and this movement is indeed timely.

"Much has been said in the daily press with reference to public service building corporations to deal in real estate and to devise methods to overcome slum conditions and housing shortage. The effort to stimulate as far as possible private initiative to deal with housing must be encouraged, and as special legislation is required, this congress can give consideration to that tremendously important subject.

"The Illinois state housing board has given much study to the various devices contemplated to induce private capital into this field. It welcomes an opportunity to coöperate with this congress and with all other agencies to improve the living conditions of the citizens of this community."

Paul D. Angell, secretary, and Arthur Kruggel, vice president of the new congress, are also members of the group which developed the public service building corporation plan for slum clearance. Charles M. toeLaer of the Otis Elevator company was elected treasurer. Other vice presidents are John Holabird, Frank Randall, and B. T. Wheeler. Directors include Joshua d'Esposito, Thomas Morgan, Patrick Sullivan [president of the Chicago Building Trades council], Henry Crown, Charles Joern, Leo Corboy, R. G. Creviston, Oscar Reum, and Charles Hines.

40 WARD CHIEFS PLEDGE SUPPORT TO MAYOR KELLY

Resolution Praises His Administration.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Forty of the fifty Democratic ward committeemen of Chicago openly pledged their support to Mayor Kelly late yesterday and asked him to run for reëlection.

They adopted a resolution praising the mayor in the highest terms, reciting the accomplishments of his administration, and promising to use all their energy to bring about his renomination and his reëlection.

A dozen of the committeemen accompanied their votes with speeches extolling the mayor—brief addresses the burden of which was that Mr. Kelly had been the best mayor in the city's history. Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], made the longest and warmest speech. As vice chairman of the committee, he was the active director of the fall campaign. The mayor withheld his decision.

Clark Gets Two Votes.

Two circumstances marred the pleasure of the meeting for the Kellyites. One was a boom for Assessor John S. Clark, who polled two votes from those present; the other the absence of eight members, including several leaders who occupy large patronage offices.

Some of the absentees are known to be friendly to State's Attorney Courtney, who has been talked of as a probable opponent of the mayor in the February primary. Courtney's name was not mentioned at the meeting, which was open to reporters.

Flynn, Smith on List.

The absentees who failed to send proxies to the Morrison hotel session were: County Clerk Michael J. Flynn [13th], Clayton F. Smith [33d], president of the county board; Sanitary Trustee John J. Touhy [27th], City Clerk Peter J. Brady [18th], Joseph H. Donahue [47th], Martin J. O'Brien [29th], public administrator of Cook county, and Horace G. Lindheimer [5th], retiring county treasurer.

Coroner Frank J. Walsh [17th] sent Ald. William T. Murphy [17th] with his proxy, but when it came his turn to vote on the final, committing roll call, Murphy declined to use the proxy, saying that it was a matter for the coroner himself to express.

Until recently County Clerk Flynn had been regarded as a close political associate of the mayor. It was reported at the meeting that he has been having some internal troubles in his ward organization. One report was that the clerk is in Arizona at present; another rumor placed him in New York preparing to sail for Ireland.

Smith's Absence Not Explained.

The absence of President Smith of the county board was not explained. City Clerk Brady is a known Courtney adherent, and Committeeman Donahue was said to have similar leanings. Public Administrator O'Brien is one of Gov. Horner's leading partisans, but his absence was not taken as evidence that the governor will oppose the mayor.

Gov. Horner is in Florida recovering from an exhausting illness. While his position toward the mayoralty has not been made known, repeated predictions were heard in the gossip at the meeting that he will not oppose Mayor Kelly.

Trustee Touhy has been reported recently as inclined toward the Courtney camp, partly because of his long friendship with Capt. Dan Gilbert, chief investigator for the prosecutor. Mr. Lindheimer was reported as still harboring resentment because of his failure to be slated for a place on the county ticket last spring.

Upton Supports Clark.

Assessor Clark's name was placed before the committee, in a surprise move, by Ald. Edward J. Upton, from Clark's home ward, the 30th.

When his name was called by County Chairman P. A. Nash, who was talking sentiment, Upton arose and announced that he was placing Clark's name in nomination on the basis of his record in public office. He introduced a resolution which praised the assessor for his work on taxes and pointed to his former service in the city council.

Ald. Frank Keenan, committeeman of the 49th ward, then took the floor and said that while he had been for the mayor, he felt obligated to second Clark's nomination. It is understood the assessor was instrumental in placing Keenan in the city council.

The mayor appeared last night at a banquet in Keenan's honor in the Palmer house, sponsored by a number of organizations in the 49th ward. He sat at the speaker's table two seats removed from the guest of honor.

Many Praise Mayor.

Upton strove to have the committee postpone a vote for a few days but Chairman Nash ordered the roll call continued, in accordance with what was obviously the will of the majority of those present.

Many of the committeemen extolled the mayor when their names were reached. They included James J. McDermott [14th], Sheldon A. Govier [9th], A. J. Sabath [21st], Terence F. Moran [16th], and Arvey.

The resolution adopted in support of the mayor was offered by Arvey, County Treasurer John Toman [24th], and Edward J. Kaindl [31st], county recorder.

The document summarized some of the accomplishments of the Kelly administration, beginning with his successful efforts to obtain money to pay long overdue salaries to the school teachers.

The mayor, said the resolution, stimulated business, saw to it that the city provided for its poor, has been fair to organized labor and employer alike, kept Chicago clear of racial animosities, restored the credit of the city, and caused to be constructed valuable and lasting city improvements.

Attention Called to Subway.

The document called attention to the start of work on the subway, scheduled for next Saturday, to the added school and hospital facilities, the lowering of fire insurance rates, and the high reputation Chicago now holds among American cities, in contrast with the position it once held.

Assessor Clark issued a statement after the meeting which was interpreted as meaning that he may enter his name in the primaries. He referred to the Upton motion as a "harmony" move, and declared that the committeemen who voted otherwise were not speaking the thoughts of those who had elected them.

On the Republican side there were developments concerning Dwight H. Green, who has been indorsed by the regular organization, and W. H. Thompson, former mayor. Several delegations, among them one from the Republican Women's organization, called on Green and urged him to make the race for mayor. He replied to all the callers that he was not ready to announce his plans.

Thompson started his campaign with a dinner meeting in the Medinah temple. After a resolution had been adopted, urging him to run, he was presented to the audience by William Balmer, chairman of the meeting, and made a speech in which he said he would make the race.

PROTEST SELECTION OF TWO OUTSIDERS FOR HEALTH JOBS

The city council finance committee at a 1939 budget session last night, protested the appointment of nonresidents to high positions in the health department. For the most part the session was devoted to the health department's program for next year.

Dr. G. Howard Gowen, chief health officer for Urbana and Champaign, qualified in a civil service list posted Saturday for two positions in the department—chief medical officer at $6,500 a year and chief of the bureau of communicable diseases at $5,000.

He accepted the former post, leaving the other job for Dr. Eldred K. Musson of Topeka, Kas., second on the list, whose acceptance has not been received yet.

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] and Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th] proposed that health department jobs should go only to Chicagoans. This proposal was deferred pending a conference today on the department's 1939 budget plea of $2,805,406 with Dr. Robert A. Black, acting president of the board.

The board yesterday elected Dr. Francis A. Dulak as secretary to replace Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, who resigned last week. Dr. Lloyd W. Arnold, bacteriologist of the University of Illinois college of medicine, was appointed to the vacancy caused by Dr. Schmidt's resignation.

When Knox hung out his signboard 101 years ago, his theory was that men would pay any necessary price for the best.

Accordingly, world markets were combed for the finest materials . . . foremost stylists and the most careful craftsmen were sought out . . . and into every Knox hat was put all the money needed to make it a masterpiece.

To the cost was added a fair profit, and Knox Hats were sold with confidence that quality was more important than price.

That is why the current 'Who's Who in America" comes close to being a list of Knox customers, and that is why Knox prices have been consistently above the average. Now once again Knox buyers have been busy in the four corners of the earth . . .

Knox designers have been studying trends in the style centers of the world . . . Knox engineers have evolved new machines and new methods.

Into these new Knox models have gone all the care, all the craftsmanship, all the styling that characterize the highest priced hats. They are hats you may buy with confidence and wear with comfort, pride, and peace of mind.

RADIO AND FILM STARS JITTERY OVER SMUGGLING

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Albert N. Chaperau's wide circle of friends in the motion picture and radio fields had a bad case of jangled nerves today as the federal inquiry into his smuggling activities moved forward. Assistant United States Attorney Joseph L. Delaney asserted that other prominent figures were involved.

George Burns, husband and radio partner of Gracie Allen, was pictured by the government as only the first in a procession of equally prominent personages likely to be paraded into federal court.

Burns pleaded guilty yesterday to two indictments charging him and Chaperau with nine violations of the customs laws. Chaperau is said to have avoided customs inspections by posing as a Nicaraguan consular attaché

Judge's Wife Indicted.

Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, wife of Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer, also is under indictment on charges of smuggling and conspiracy.

Burns' guilty plea was to two indictments accusing him and Chaperau of bringing three pieces of diamond jewelry, valued at $4,885, into this country duty free. Burns flew to New York from Hollywood to enter the plea and when released in the custody of his attorney, William J. Donovan, for sentence after the trial of Chaperau, promptly flew back to the west coast.

"We are now investigating a limited number of other persons, similar in prominence to Burns, who, we believe, in the same way as Burns, had Chaperau bring jewelry from abroad, which Chaperau purchased and did not declare," John W. Roberts, customs agent, said today. "In the other cases under investigation only jewelry is involved. There are no other cases known at present similar to that involving Mrs. Lauer, where the articles smuggled are feminine apparel.

Baggage Seizure Breaks Case.

"The evidence in all the cases was developed after the seizure of Chaperau's baggage. It is our contention that Chaperau brought in the articles either on a commission basis or for later sale."

While Chaperau was entering his plea to the new indictments before Judge William Bondy, Miss Colette D'Arville, French actress and opera singer, arrived at the federal building in response to a subpena.

Miss D'Arville was one of the guests at a dinner given by Justice and Mrs. Lauer last Oct. 21 when conversation denouncing Hitler led Rosa Weber, a German maid employed in the Lauer home, to report Chaperau's activities to federal authorities. Other guests at Lauer's dinner were Serge Rubenstein, a London financier; William H. Weintraub, co-publisher of Ken and Esquire; Chaperau, a Mr. and Mrs. Miller, and the Lauers.

When arraigned today Chaperau pleaded not guilty.

PARLEY IN LIMA STUDIES FOREIGN PROPERTY RIGHTS

Mexico Urges Diplomatic Aid Be Denied.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 13.—High officials of the eighth Pan-American conference today indicated that the congress in session here will adopt some sort of resolution demanding respect for the private property of each other's citizens.

However, the subject promises to be one of the most controversial before the conference. To begin with, it must, of necessity, have a direct bearing on Mexico's seizure of oil and other properties owned by United States and British investors.

Mexico is leading the fight against any resolution which might be too strongly worded and today sought Latin American support for a proposal which would deny foreigners diplomatic protection for their investments.

Mexico's Proposal.

Mexico presented a draft of a convention which concluded:

"The contracting states recognize as valid any renunciation which their nationals may take regarding diplomatic protection by their government, and the latter pledge themselves not to try to offer this protection in such cases."

This would affect persons who have signed contracts containing a clause by which they renounced diplomatic protection in case of dispute with the country offering the contract.

This is in direct opposition to the United States' attitude on the subject. The state department holds that extension of diplomatic protection is a right enjoyed by the state, not by individual citizens, therefore the latter cannot renounce it.

The Mexican proposal was referred to the committee on international law. This committee also is studying a recommendation by legal experts that the conference adopt the principle that foreign investors in Latin America are not entitled to diplomatic protection except in cases where justice is refused them in local courts.

Cuba Voices Friendship.

The day's sesisons had one spirited outburst. Dantes Bellegarde, the delegate of Haiti, in the peace committee violently attacked foreign propaganda and religious persecution. He was supported by Juan J. Remos, Cuban secretary of state.

Remos also absolved the United States of the charges of imperialism and "dollar diplomacy" which were directed at it in the Havana Pan-American conference ten years ago. Remos called the United States a leader in respecting the sovereignty of Latin-American states.

"The Cuban delegation proclaims with satisfaction," Remos said, "the noble friendship of a great neighboring people, our friends, which at a distance of a few miles from the Cuban coast is giving the most emphatic denial to the world of its imperialism, observing the most scrupulous respect for our institutions and a most loyal practice of the good neighbor."

Hull Warns of Alien Ideas.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in a radio broadcast to the United States, said that "excessive and short sighted nationalism" had declined at the Pan-American conference" in the face of the grave world situation."

He said the American nations were "keenly aware of the threat to their principles and institutions which has arisen elsewhere in nations holding alien ideas which they seek to impose by force or extend by deception."

He said he is convinced American nations of their own accord are determined to defend their principles and institutions. He also observed that there is a unity of opinion among the Pan-American conference delegates, and "broader visions than sometimes prevailed in the past." There is less rivalry between countries and individuals, he said.

The American republics desire to live in peace, Hull said, and coöperate with other nations. It is possible for international relations to be conducted on a basis of peace, international law and order, with an appreciation of each other's problems, he said.

Defends American Principles.

"We do not seek a merely regional solution alone, but one broad enough to take into full account those world conditions and problems which materially affect regional welfare.

"We are establishing among ourselves a system of relationships which is in accord with our institutions and principles. We believe the principal bases of this system are applicable to relationships among all nations and we welcome the coöperation of every country of the world in their support."

During the day Brazil presented a proposal to refuse special minority privileges to any alien groups in Latin-America. Brazil has a large colony of Germans. Mexico proposed that the conference adopt a declaration against aerial bombardments in wartime.

JAPAN'S PRESS JEERS AT UNITED STATES' ROLE IN LIMA PARLEY

TOKIO, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Japanese press took to task the United States today for her rôle in the Pan-American conference, declaring she was busy establishing her own sphere of influence in the Americas while bitterly opposing a similar Japanese effort in Asia.

"Every nation must examine its own motives before rebuking others," said the newspaper Asahi.

The newspaper Nichi Nichi charged that the United States sought political, military, and economic dominance of the Americas; that "while striving to strengthen her own position she continually is intervening in the affairs of other continents, a policy which in time must inevitably weaken her historic position."

NAZIS REBUKED BY CHAMBERLAIN; THEY SNUB HIM

Envoy Boycotts Speech by British Premier.

FIFTH—The Anglo-American pact.

Regarding the latter, which some American senators have hinted will be torpedoed by congressional action, Chamberlain said:

"While it is primarily a commercial treaty, I rejoice that this also is symbolic of the good relations existing between the United States and ourselves."

Talks Like a Dictator.

Chamberlain spoke of himself and his position here in England in language that a dictator might have used. He referred to the fact that he alone must make decisions.

He avoided going into specific statements of British policy. Outlining his "aims and actions" since becoming prime minister on May 28, 1937, he said there were only two alternatives:

"One was to make up our minds that war was inevitable and to throw the whole energies of the country into preparing for it. The other was to make a prolonged and determined effort to eradicate possible causes of war and to try out methods of personal contact and discussion, while at the same time proceeding steadily with such rearmament as was necessary to restore the power of defense which we had voluntarily abandoned for a period of many years.

Tells Horrors of War.

"War today differs fundamentally from all wars of the past, inasmuch as today its first and most numerous victims are not professional fighters, but the civilian population, the workman and the clerk, the housewife and, most horrible of all, the children."

Therefore, he said, he had chosen a policy of appeasement. He added that he was "astonished at the pessimism which seems to possess some of our critics" and that he was determined to "persist in a policy which has given us such remarkable results."

Defending the Munich peace, the premier declared:

"I am well aware that in some quarters the Munich agreement has been described not as an example of coöperation, but as a defeat for democracies. It seems to me curious that that description should come from men who are proud to call themselves democrats. I cannot help feeling that such pronouncements do no service to democracies, nor to the cause of international coöperation.

Says War Was Averted.

"We should not seek to assess the results of such meetings in terms of victory or defeat. We should, rather, remember what was the alternative which was averted by the Munich agreement. That alternative would have been an attempt to revise the Versailles treaty by force instead of by discussion; an attempt which, whatever its results, would have produced a condition of affairs very different from the atmosphere in which we are peacefully dining tonight."

Chamberlain cleared up some vagueness that was left by his announcement in parliament last night that the British had no legal obligations to go to the aid of France if Premier Mussolini should attack Tunis.

Lest Mussolini take any comfort from that, Chamberlain hastened to declare that Britain's relations with France "are so close that they pass beyond mere legal obligations, since they are founded on identity of interests."

Hits Fascist System.

In addition to his blast at the Nazi press, Chamberlain said this of authoritarian systems of government:

"I find it difficult to raise much excitement over our different systems of government. I am told that in some quarters it is suggested that because I advocate an understanding, a better understanding with dictator countries, I must necessarily favor the system of Nazism or Fascism. If that means that I favor such a system in my own country, it is the exact contrary in the case.

"To me, and, I believe, to the vast majority of my countrymen, the subordination of individual independence to something which is called the state, which really means only those who for the time being rule the state, is insupportable, because it runs counter to all our most fundamental conceptions of the proper framework of human society.

"But of course I recognize that these ideas are not universally held, and it seems to me to be neither useful nor desirable to criticise others because they prefer systems which certainly do not suit us, but which do suit them.

Cites Lesson of History.

"There is one other observation that I would make and it is this: That history teaches us that no form of government ever remains the same. The change may be slow, it may come by degrees, or it may come suddenly like an explosion, but change in one form or another is inevitable, and it seems to follow from that that we should be careful not to cut ourselves off from contact with any country because of a system which may well in course of time undergo modifications which may render it very different from what it appears today.

"Once again, history shows us that attempts at domination have never resulted in the happiness of the nations attempting it. There is an innate resistant force which arises out of the fear of loss of liberty and the passionate desire for national self-expression which renders domination precarious and uncertain."

In his discussion of the British rearmament program Chamberlain delivered this veiled warning:

"While I hope that we shall always be ready to discuss in a reasonable spirit any grievances or any injustices which may be alleged to exist, it is to reason that we are prepared to listen, and not to force.

Refers to War with U. S.

"And so I would conclude by appealing through you to all the nations whom you represent to realize that our aim ought to be the happiness of all our peoples, and that that happiness can only be attained if we are willing to lay aside our suspicions and our prejudices, to cease looking for points of difference, and to search instead for points of agreement.

"Not many generations have passed since we were at war with the United States of America. Today such a conflict has gone far beyond the bounds of possibility.

"If, then, we have already succeeded in reducing the field of possible war so far, is there any reason why we should not carry our efforts further still, until we can attain such general security that we can lay aside our weapons and devote ourselves to the benefit of the human race?"

Cyrena Van Gordon Smith.

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Cyrena Van Gordon Smith, the former mezzo soprano of the Chicago Opera company, today pictured her husband, Howard Dunbar Smith, as a wife beater and a finger biter.

Testifying in her separation suit against the mining engineer, she said Smith had struck her frequently. She said that on one occasion when Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Nelson came to call Nelson remarked he thought it had been "a very nice party," and was promptly knocked down by Smith. Then, she said, Smith began to bite Nelson's forefinger and subsequently her own.

Smith filed suit for divorce yesterday in San Francisco, charging his wife with extreme cruelty, saying she used abusive language, struck him and drank too much.

EDEN CONFERS WITH ROOSEVELT ON WORLD ILLS

Capital Offices in Hubbub Over Briton's Visit.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—For forty-five minutes today President Roosevelt and Anthony Eden, widely regarded as the next prime minister of Great Britain, bared their minds to each other on the state of the world.

Although neither would comment afterward, the information gleaned from their intimates was that the American President and the former British foreign secretary had found much in common in their views of the aggressions of the dictators in Europe and Asia and the possible effect thereof upon Great Britain and the United States.

In Agreement Before Crisis.

The President and Mr. Eden were of one mind before the young foreign minister was compelled to resign from the cabinet by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's decision to make terms with the dictators.

Their conversation today took on an extraordinary significance because of the possibility of Mr. Eden's being called to head the British cabinet during Mr. Roosevelt's tenure of the White House.

Mr. Eden could hardly have evoked a greater measure of official interest and deference had he been the British prime minister instead of merely a member of the house of commons no longer connected with the government. He was received at the state department by the acting secretary of state, Sumner Welles, who escorted him to the White House and presented him to the President.

Work at a Standstill.

Work in both the state department and the executive office virtually was suspended during these visits of the handsome Briton, barely 38 years old. Hallways were jammed with women employés eager to get a glimpse of the debonair Englishman who smiled engagingly, blushed profusely and doffed his black Homburg to his feminine admirers.

A common view is that Mr. Eden, by his restrained manner of speech and avoidance of criticism of the Chamberlain government, has commended himself strongly to the British public.

By the restrained show of feeling with which he has depicted Britain's stand against the dictators, he is felt to have propagandized with great effectiveness the cause of Anglo-American action in defense of democracy.

Barely more than a year ago Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Eden, then British foreign minister, were coöperating perfectly in the campaign against the dictators. Mr. Eden was seeking to maneuver both Hitler and Mussolini out of Spain, where they were aiding and abetting the Franco rebellion. He would make no concessions to the dictators. He was striving to get the law of the league of nations on both these disturbers of the peace.

Both Out on a Limb.

At the same time Mr. Roosevelt, in his famous Chicago bridge speech, declared for joint international action to "quarantine" aggressor nations. Aimed at Hitler and Mussolini, the speech was the prelude to the action of the league in declaring Japan a treaty breaker in its aggression against China.

Thus it was that both the President and the foreign minister got themselves well out on the end of a limb in their warfare on the dictators. Then Prime Minister Chamberlain sawed off the limb by announcing that Britain would make terms with Mussolini, and immediately entered into negotiations to compromise the quarrel with that dictator.

Mr. Eden found himself repudiated and resigned his office. Mr. Roosevelt found himself holding the bag in a double sense. Not only was he deserted by Chamberlain but his Chicago speech was repudiated by the American people, who made clear their unwillingness to employ American armed forces or other resources to quarantine aggressors or otherwise police the eastern hemisphere. The President never again mentioned the quarantine proposal.

Hand in Munich Peace.

Mr. Roosevelt had a hand in the peace of Munich, aiding Chamberlain in inducing Hitler to do his dismemberment of Czechoslovakia peaceably instead of martially. He afterward claimed credit for averting war.

More recently the President and Secretary of State Cordell Hull have been sounding again the note of defiance to the dictators, particularly in connection with Nazi persecution of the Jews. Thus the Roosevelt policy is veering back to the Eden attitude of no compromise with the autocracies and the need of the democracies making common cause against the authoritarians.

Divorces Prisoner

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. BLANCHE BLANCO.

Mrs. Blanche Welch Blanco, 25 years old, won a divorce yesterday from Donald Blanco, who is serving a one year to life sentence in Joliet prison for robbery with a gun. Her attorney, Milton Jacobson, told Judge Philip Finnegan that Mrs. Blanco was also convicted of the same crime in 1935, but was granted probation after it was shown she was dominated by her husband. Mrs. Blanco lives at 3500 Fulton boulevard.

DEBATE POLICY OF CHAMBERLAIN IN CZECH CRISIS

Sir Neville Chamberlain's course in the Munich conference was debated yesterday at a luncheon of the English Speaking union in the Palmer house.

The British prime minister's course was defended by Sir Herbert Ames, treasurer of the league of nations from 1919 to 1926, a Canadian who now lives in Boston. Chamberlain's action, he said, was the only one able to save Europe from another Armageddon.

"I admit that the terms were outrageous," he said, "but the choice had to lie between two alternatives, both bad! Mr. Chamberlain accepted the lesser evil of the two, and Czecho-Slovakia was sacrificed."

Dr. Horace J. Bridges, author and lecturer, attacked Chamberlain's stand and his "peace for our time" statement as either "downright imbecility or ridiculous insincerity."

"They have paid a hideous price, a Judas price, for a peace that is no peace," he concluded.

DIES OF INJURIES.

Dubuque, Ia., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Jerry Callahan, 22 years old, of Dubuque died from injuries received when his automobile skidded off a curve Sunday morning.

TERM BOYCOTT OF PREMIER BY NAZIS UNETHICAL

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP)—A majority of the journalists at the dinner tonight of the Foreign Press association—at least those free from government domination—considered the action of the German embassy and newspapermen in boycotting the function as a breach of confidence. This was based on the fact that the decision of the Germans to stay away was taken after they had read an advance copy of Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech, which had been given to them in confidence.

Several German correspondents were unaware of their own boycott until they arrived at Grosvenor house to attend the dinner and others met them at the door and told them of what had happened.

There was no indication that the British government would consider the staying away an official rebuke, though the action was interpreted in unofficial quarters as a sign of official Nazi displeasure with the British prime minister. German newspapermen, as well as embassy officials, are servants of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's government, and presumably acted on orders or with the approval of Berlin.

Dr. Stephan Litauer, president of the Foreign Press association, said ousting of the German journalists would be considered at the association's next meeting.

CALLS RUMANIAN CABINET TO PLAN LAWS ON JEWS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 14. [Wednesday.] — (AP) — Premier Miron Cristea early this morning called a cabinet session for late today to devise new regulations for the control of Jews. Rumania apparently was seeking measures halfway between the pronounced anti-Semitism of the recent government of Octavian Goga and the present comparative lack of restraint on Jews.

LITHUANIA SEIZES ENEMIES OF RULE IN REVOLT PLOT

Political Leaders Seized by Dictator Smetona.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Antanas Smetona.

MEMEL, Lithuania, Dec. 13.—Acting on a request of the Lithuanian government, German police in Memel today arrested six Lithuanians on charges of plotting an uprising against the régime of President Antanas Smetona. German authorities in Memel, which was taken away from Germany in 1923, refused to deliver the opposition leaders to the Lithuanian political police.

The prisoners denied they were conspiring to overthrow the government by force. They said their intentions were to use only legal means. They were held for trial.

Political meetings have been banned temporarily in Memel territory, where Nazis on Sunday won an overwhelming victory in a parliamentary election.

Jail Lithuanian Officials.

A number of Lithuanian officials of Memel, who were recalled to Kaunas yesterday, were arrested upon their arrival in the capital this morning. It was announced officially that nine prominent politcians had been seized. Unofficial reports said the number of arrests was much larger.

Dr. Leonas Bistris, former premier, and Dr. Prana Dielininkaites, editor of the official newspaper XX. Amzius [Twentieth Century], were among those arrested. Both are leaders of the Catholic party.

German authorities in Memel were concerned over what was described as a pro-Polish plot to upset the Lithuanian government at a time when Berlin and Kaunas are negotiating for a peaceful solution of Memel's fate.

A high Lithuanian official said German agents in Polish Galicia are attempting to organize a Ukraine uprising against Poland. He added that Poland is retaliating by ordering her agents in Lithuania to try to wreck Smetona's régime and embroil Lithuania in a conflict with Germany over Memel.

The reported beating of Robert Sellmer of Milwaukee, Wis., by a group of uniformed Nazis in Memel Sunday was protested today by the United States.

Defies Britain and France.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—The Boersenzeitung, which often speaks for the foreign office, today answered British and French representations to the German government to "insure respect for the Memel statute." In effect, the paper told Britain and France to keep out of an affair concerning only Germany and Lithuania.

An editorial in this morning's London Times, "surrendering" Memel to Germany as another such editorial once surrendered Sudetenland, was received in Berlin with great satisfaction.

ITALIANS TICKLED AS BRITISH SHY AT HELPING FRANCE

Paris Is Attacked for Resisting Demands.

ROME, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, today cited Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's statement that Great Britain was not bound by treaty to aid France in case of an Italian attack as a reason why the French should heed Italian territorial demands.

Chamberlain's declaration before the British house of commons yesterday pleased Italians. They interpreted it as the British government's recognition that Italy's claims on France in Tunisia, Djibouti, French Somaliland port, and the Suez canal administration, as Gayda said, were not a threat to European peace.

"A threat to peace comes rather from those who pretend to reject violently and with cool intransigeancy the examination and pacification" of Italy's "fundamental political and national interests," Gayda said, before these questions have been "definitly formulated."

Chamberlain's statement, Gayda added, was a "tacit invitation to France to control more severely her intention and reactions and to meet the problems with a spirit of franker recognition and more lucid comprehension."

Lower Suez Passage Rates.

PARIS, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Suez Canal company today announced its passage rates would be lowered on Thursday. It said that the action had no connection with Italian agitation for Mediterranean concessions.

Officials of the company said the charge for vessels passing through the canal, now $1.44 a ton, would drop to $1.38.

The proposal for the new rates was announced last June at a stockholders' meeting, the officials said,

Of the canal's thirty-two directors, twenty-one are French, ten British, and one a Netherlander.

Italian Admits Setting Fire.

TUNIS, Tunisia, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Police today said that an Italian Fascist, Antonio la Rosa, had confessed attempting to set fire to the Italian Dopolavoro club in Tunis.

Detectives investigating the fire reported they had found two sacks from La Rosa's store identical to those used to fan the blaze yesterday. They charged Italian agitators were behind the attempt in an effort to make French authorities responsible for an "incident" which the Fascists could use for renewed demonstrations.

Police said La Rosa told them "I have known for several days that the Dopolavoro club would be set on fire."

9 Polish Masonic Lodges Dissolved by Government

WARSAW, Poland, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The government tonight announced it had dissolved nine Polish Masonic lodges after making "certain searches" and that special steps would be taken to make certain that the lodges would not be able to resume activity. A presidential decree last November prohibited Freemasonry in Poland.

BUDGET OF 2 BILLION SPEEDED IN FRANCE; SHOWS GAIN OF 36%

PARIS, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier speeded toward final action today a $2,460,406,000 budget bill, providing a 36 per cent increase in expenditures next year. Half of the increase would go for armaments.

The premier obtained approval of the chamber of deputies for applying emergency procedure. Under it the chamber will vote on the budget for each ministry instead of by more detailed chapters. This reduced the dangers of lengthy discussion in the debate, which starts Thursday. Government supporters were confident the budget would be adopted by Jan. 1.

The government informed the chamber that the deficit in this year's operating expenses, as of Oct. 31, was more than six billion francs [about $157,200,000]. It was estimated that the deficit would be swelled another billion francs before the year-end.

FAILS TO SHOW UP AT WEDDING; DIES UNDER ENGINE

Boston, Mass., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Ross F. Chapin, 24 years old, son of a Pittsburgh steel magnate, died today under the wheels of a freight engine a few hours after he was to have been best man at the wedding of two of his friends. He failed to show up for the wedding. Police said there was little doubt that the young man committed suicide, but they were unable to learn a motive. The bride, Miss Dorothy Whelpley, ruled out jealousy, asserting he had been equally friendly with her and her new husband, Ernest L. Stowell of Boston.

Miss Whelpley said Chapin had been depressed, but she did not know the reason. From other sources it was learned the youth had been somewhat estranged from his father, Newton Chapin, chairman of the board of the Lee C. Moore Steel company, since he gave up his job with the Moore company a year ago to pursue a musical career on a remittance of $20 a week.

THE "FOR MEN ONLY SHOP"

A man and his shopping can become a major problem if they fall into inexperienced hands. But in the "For Men Only Shop," equipped with a feminine staff that blends charm with efficiency, masculine shopping turns out to be, not a chore, but a pleasure. Not only are the gifts themselves well worth shouting about—all carefully selected by our fashion experts—but we see that they're dressed in the smartest Christmas wrappings.

"For Men Only Shop," Second Floor

THE "FOR WOMEN ONLY SHOP"

For the feminine gift-seekers, too, we have provided a cloistered spot, this year—the "For Women Only Shop," right in the heart of feminine territory, on the Fourth Floor. Here they can find the cream of the gifts for men, without having to spend weary hours ferreting them out for themselves. Here in peace and quiet, with highly competent male advice on tap, they'll discover that "finding something to please a man" at Christmas isn't such a puzzler, after all!

"For Women Only Shop," Fourth Floor

THE "AISLE OF GIFT SHOPS"

The "Aisle of Gift Shops" takes the three-ring-circus element out of Christmas shopping—by assembling gifts from all over the store in one convenient spot. Eight new shops, this year: "Gifts for Babies and Tots," "Gifts for Schoolgirls," "Gifts for Schoolboys," "Gifts for Men," "Gifts for Women," "Gifts for College and Career Girls," "From the Smiths to the Joneses," "Gifts for the Family."

SOVIET WORKERS BRANDED 'LAZY'; FACE DISCIPLINE

Communist Party Paper Assails 'Liberalism.'

MOSCOW, Dec. 13.—(AP)—An urgent demand for greater discipline among soviet workers was voiced today by Pravda, communist party newspaper, which attacked younger executives for their "intolerable liberalism."

Some of these executives, themselves workers who recently were promoted to leading jobs, hesitate to proceed energetically against "idlers, floaters, and disorganizers" of production, the paper said.

Many workers seem to forget, it added, that the "seven hour day established in our country is the shortest working day in the world and should consist of 420 highly productive minutes."

Hits Absences from Work.

The ambition of such persons seems to be "to work less and receive more pay," Pravda asserted.

In a Moscow ball bearing factory, for instance, 10,661 days were lost through the inexcusable absences of workers during the second quarter of 1938. During the third quarter, Pravda continued, 19,380 days were lost through such absences.

"These idle workers, these lazy fellows, these violators of labor discipline are taking advantage of the carelessness of some executives and are disorganizing production," Pravda declared. It added that "the sooner they [executives] get rid of their intolerable liberalism the better it will be for industry."

Workers Accuse Colleagues.

Similar views were expressed in an article by two Stakhanovite [increased output] workers' who asserted that in the Stalin automobile factory in Moscow an average of 100 workers daily fail to appear for work.

Soloist at 14

LUCY NIELSEN.

Lucy Nielsen, 14 year old violinist, will appear as soloist next Wednesday, Dec. 21, with the Chicago Symphony orchestra at a children's concert——

But Lucy doesn't want to be a great violinist. She intends to be a doctor, and is taking a pre-medical course at the University of Chicago, where she is a freshman. "It's a good idea to have two lines, in case one breaks down," she explained.

Lucy practices three hours each day, but insists her schedule gives her plenty of time to pursue her hobbies. She has collected 200 varieties of spiders in various parts of the country. She also is interested in astronomy and has made her own telescope, even to grinding the lens herself.

Lucy's grandmother was Sophia Elizabeth Andersen, Danish pianist and painter. Her father, Jens E. Nielsen, 5517 Drexel avenue, is a business man. Lucy is an only child.

A Baby Zebra Proves They're Born with Stripes

Some persons have argued that zebras have no stripes at birth and have to develop them. The question has been settled. A 45 pound daughter was born yesterday in the Lincoln park zoo to Mr. and Mrs. Zachary Zebra. She has her stripes. Director Floyd Young is thinking of calling the youngster Zarathustra, or perhaps just Zara.

CZECH PREMIER PUSHES PLAN FOR DICTATOR RULE

Friendship with Nazis and 'Facts' to Guide Policy.

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Premier Rudolf Beran today told the Czecho-Slovak parliament that the republic's relations with Germany would be based on friendship and that nationalism instead of internationalism must determine its future course.

The premier appealed to Germany, however, to understand "the psychological effects" of the loss of territory "which we have to overcome."

He declared that "the Munich conference [which carved up Czecho-Slovakia] necessitated a basic change in the methods and program of Czech policy."

Economic and cultural life of the diminished republic must be taken out of politics, Beran said. He left no doubt that if the government's efforts should meet opposition it was determined to enforce its program.

Will Not Chase Illusions.

Of international relations he said Czecho-Slovakia "henceforth will not chase after illusions, but foreign policy will be based on facts, economical and social, without, however, sacrificing indisputable rights or renouncing the right to defend national interests."

Beran said the Jewish problem would be solved in such a way that "our standing toward Jews who have been living a long time in our territory and who maintain a positive attitude toward the necessities of the state and its nationalities will not be inimical."

Draft Dictator Bills.

Official circles reported the government was planning to assume semi-dictatorial powers.

Two bills were drawn, one giving the president and government far-reaching authority, including the power to make constitutional changes by decree.

The second measure would provide for appointment of auxiliary Slovak "governmental delegates" to those ministries which operate for the whole republic—foreign affairs, finance, and defense—and are headed by Czech ministers.

The two-party system, which has just started operating, was scheduled to receive legal status, with new parties being forbidden. One of the parties to be recognized is the government party and the other the National Labor party, or "friendly opposition." The same system was expected to be extended to trade unions, economic associations, and even sports organizations.

A census just completed shows there are in Bohemia and Moravia 151,997 refugees from regions ceded to Germany, Poland, and Hungary. These include 114,577 Czechs, 11,647 Germans, 7,325 Jews, 307 Poles, and about 17,000 miscellaneous.

French President Decides Not to Run for 2d Term

PARIS, Dec. 13.—(AP)—President Albert Lebrun informed friends today that he had "definitly decided" not to seek reëlection in May, 1939. It had been rumored he might try for a second seven year presidential term.

ARREST OF DRUG FIRM PRESIDENT ORDERED BY U. S.

Coster, 2 Aids Are Named in SEC Warants.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Warants charging violation of the securities and exchange act were issued today by the government for the arrest of F. Donald Coster, president of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., and two other officials of the drug firm. The other two named were George Dietrich, assistant vice president and assistant treasurer, and George Vernard, Montreal agent of the 105 year old company.

The action of the Securities and Exchange commission came as federal, state and local agencies pressed their investigation into the amazingly tangled affairs of the company, from which assets of about $18,000,000 are said to have disappeared.

The warants were issued by United States Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter on the complaint of Hector J. Dowd of the SEC. Assistant United States Attorney Irving H. Kaufman left immediately for New Haven, Conn., to serve them.

Coster Counsel Acts.

When news of the warants reached Bridgeport, Conn., United States Commissioner Samuel Rich, as counsel for Coster and Dietrich, disqualified himself for acting at their arraignment when they are arrested.

Rich obtained an adjournment of a case he was trying and with his brother, Philip, left by automobile, presumably for the Fairfield homes of the two company officials.

He said the two wanted men would be presented before United States Commissioner Robert H. Alcorn in New Haven and that Alcorn would issue an "order of removal" to permit federal agents to take them to New York.

Meantime another storm gathered about the heads of Coster and Dietrich. The directors of McKesson & Robbins called a special meeting of the board for 2 o'clock next Monday with the avowed intention of ousting the two officials. The board issued a demand Monday that the two resign within twenty-four hours or be forced out.

Jury Action Interrupted.

The SEC action was taken just after Assistant United States Attorney Gregory F. Noonan, chief of the criminal division, had opened the presentation of the McKesson and Robbins affairs to the federal grand jury. Julian Thompson, treasurer of the company, had been called as the first witness when the proceedings were interrupted to request the warants.

The action was taken under section 32 of the securities and exchange act, which makes it illegal to file or cause to be filed with the stock exchange any financial statements or balance sheets containing false or misleading information.

One overt act was cited in the complaint so that there might be a basis for the warants. It was charged that on Dec. 3 Vernard had deposited in the Hamilton branch of the Chase National bank in Brooklyn a check for $15,000 drawn on the Royal Bank of Canada by Manning & Co.

The move for the arrest of the McKesson & Robbins officials was taken soon after Assistant State Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall had brought out in the first of his public hearings that Coster had maintained a dummy brokerage account. This account was in the name of John O. Jenkins, brother of Coster's wife.

Warants Issued

George Dietrich (left) and George Vernard, officials of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., drug firm. Warants were issued by the government for their arrest yesterday. The warants charge violation of the securities and exchange act.

Later in the day the account was tied up by court order and Jenkins was ordered to appear Dec. 19 with all his records. On the same date Coster and Mrs. Coster are scheduled to appear in court in connection with Mrs. Coster's $100,000 brokerage account. Her account was attached last week.

Jenkins' account traded exclusively in McKesson & Robbins stock and never had reported a loss. From it, in one lump, Coster through Jenkins, had drawn more than $139,000.

Jenkins Is Questioned.

"Would it be correct if I called it a dummy account?" Jenkins was asked. He replied: "I don't know the terms used in such matters."

"Who was the true owner?" McCall then asked, and Jenkins replied, "Mr. Coster."

He said that on Dec. 29, 1936, he had taken a check for $139,130 from the account and given it to Coster at the latter's direction.

He also said that on Feb. 16 of this year he had opened a second "John J. Jenkins" account. It was a small one, but subsequently was increased to contain 10,000 shares of McKesson & Robbins common and 400 shares of preferred.

Investigators continued to report that warehouses in which the company's big supply of raw drugs was believed stored were nonexistent and their addresses only used for mail.

HINTS ANY NATION COULD GET CANAL DEFENSE SECRETS

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Defense counsel for Hans Heinrich Schackow, young German on trial as violator of United States espionage laws, summed up his case in federal court today with an inference any foreign country could obtain Panama Canal Zone defense data.

"I venture to say," Attorney C. P. Fairman said, "that there is not a single construction or equipment for defensive purposes in the Canal Zone, details of which are not now in the possession of any foreign government desiring the information and willing to pay."

WHO'S WHO IN YOUR LIFE?

By CALEB

A SMALL BOY in an Ohio village early formed the habit of hanging around a woodworking shop which was among the few business activities in his meager environment. And the worker there whom he specially loved to watch was a genial, gray-haired old patternmaker, who was also by way of being a home-made philosopher.

One day—as he finished outlining an intricate and, to his admiring onlooker, extremely beautiful effect in scrolls and leaves—the old man paused, and tapped his pencil on the pattern before him. "Laddie" (his favorite Scotch salutation), "my neighbors here in the shop are going to follow this design, and when they've carried it out, they will have something wonderful to show as a result."

His eyes sparkled in a friendly grin. "I'm wondering, laddie, as I see you run in and out of this doorway here each day, what kind of a pattern you'll be following, as you go out into life? 'Will it be a careless thing,' I say to myself, 'or will he take some one of those fine and noble lives that have gone before him, or are still around him, and pattern his mind and heart after them?' What do you say, lad—wouldn't it be a splendid thing for you, and for your loved ones, if you were to pick a Lincoln or a Franklin or an Edison for your pattern, and turned out a life that was as beautiful before men as this little ornament seems to us?" . . .

The old man's dust lies somewhere quiet in the cemetery of that Ohio town. The small boy has long since reached manhood, and followed patterns both of personal choice and of destiny's determining. But thanks to the canny Scotch philosopher of his childhood, he made, on the whole, manly and memorable men the models for his own private approximation, and has lived a life spiritually rich, if not spectacular, in consequence.

In the play of "Bunker Bean" tremendous things happen when a spiritless youth is told his ancestor was Napoleon, and he chooses to emulate the little Corsican's exploits. So each of us, in great or less degree, has patterned his aims and thoughts upon some hero of history or fiction—some inspiring friend—some superb character in a play seen at the right moment. And thereby discovered that the Law of Patterns never fails either to justify or condemn every such choice. Reveal Who's Who in your life, and you disclose a pretty accurate pattern of your own personality.

Hits Office Wife's Plea of Self-Defense.

fanning Holbrook with the hat, but Pugh said he could not tell.

The shooting, last Oct. 17, occurred in front of the Benton Harbor city hall and in the shadow of the library and the opera house. There were, as a result, many witnesses on hand soon after the first shots rang out. The fire department came down the brass pole as a man and the police came pouring out of their station, since both stations are in the city hall.

"I had just dozed off," said Fireman Adam [Dutch] Weber, "when I heard two shots.

"We sleep in our underwear, socks, and shirt. Our boots are on the floor through our trousers legs so we can pull up our trousers, snap and snap, and be dressed. I called the boys and was down the brass pole in 30 to 60 seconds.

Cries for Help Described.

"I heard some one say, 'Help, help. Don't shoot!' Then I saw Mrs. Dull shoot again from 2½ or 3 feet from Holbrook. She began hitting him with his hat."

Fireman Maurice Shepardson said he was next down the pole after Weber, but that Weber was already going out the door.

Shephardson knew Mrs. Dull, whom he called Pat, as do many of her friends, although she prefers Fern.

He accompanied her to the police station, he said, and gave her a cigaret.

"I said, 'I'm sorry, Pat,'" he testified. But he said she replied: "I'm not sorry. I'd do it again."

Asked on cross-examination whether Mrs. Dull seemed bewildered at the time of the shooting—the defense contends that Holbrook had just dazed her with a blow—Shephardson answered: "No I'd say she was just mad and disgusted."

Most of the witnesses testified that Mrs. Dull had a black eye and a bump over it.

Dr. Carl A. Mitchell testified that he was called to the hospital as Holbrook lay dying. He said that Holbrook had been shot twice in the back and twice in the head, but that there were no holes in the hat. Prosecutors Westin and Small are trying to show that Mrs. Dull shot Holbrook first in the back and then fired two more bullets into his head as he lay dying.

Mrs. Dull watched the proceedings with interest.

Son Beams on Mother.

Mrs. Dull's son, Lester, 17 years old, whom she calls Buddy, was shy, but he beamed affectionately on his mother.

Mrs. Dull's mother, Mrs. Ulysses Baker of Kimmel, Ind., seemed shaken by the story of the shooting, as did the defendant's other relatives.

Holbrook's wife, who lives in Kalamazoo, was not present. Gould and Dewhirst, who is head of the House of David religious colony in Benton Harbor, said that she could not afford to come to the trial, since she supports her four children.

The courtroom was packed, many of the spectators being women.

Mrs. Dull, who expects to take the stand in her own defense, was again one of the most fashionably dressed women in the courtroom.

Accused of Jealousy.

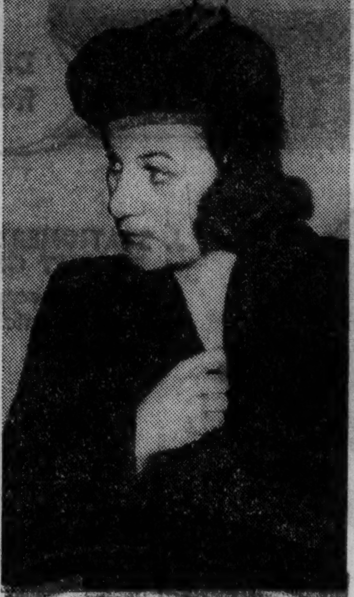
Prosecutor Westin, who retires Jan. 1 in favor of Prosecutor Elect Small, told the jurors in his opening statement that Mrs. Dull was jealous of the attentions which Holbrook paid his family in Kalamazoo. He painted Holbrook as a loving father, admired by his children despite long years of separation.

Dewhirst pictured Mrs. Dull in his opening statement as a simple country girl, married at the age of 16, whose first romance ended because of her husband's cruelty.

Holbrook, an experienced attorney, had little difficulty in persuading her that they might become husband and wife without the usual formalities, Dewhirst said. But the attorney emphasized that Holbrook had represented himself as unmarried when the romance began. Holbrook and Mrs. Dull bought their home in Benton Harbor, the attorney explained, in the name of husband and wife, and they were known during the eight years they lived together as Mr. and Mrs. Holbrook.

Tell of Shooting

(Story in adjoining column.)



Edith Snyder on stand in Los Angeles trial of her father, Martin Snyder. She told how she fired pistol at her father after he had shot Myrl Alderman, friend of his former wife, Ruth Etting.

hatred; revolutionary propaganda through the Communist International; stirring up communist activities in foreign countries in order to cause strikes, riots, sabotage, bloodshed, and civil war; destruction of all forms of representative or democratic government, civil rights, and trial by jury; the ultimate and final objective of world revolution to establish the dictatorship of so-called proletariat into one universal union of Soviet Republics with the capital at Moscow."

Dies said the evidence proves that the communists abandoned their own labor organizations to infiltrate the C. I. O., which welcomed their services as trained organizers. In the rôle of organizers, they found it easy to seize control of strategic official positions in the unions, he said.

"The communists were responsible for most of the unauthorized strikes that have occurred in the past few years," Dies charged. "They imported the sitdown strike technique from Europe and put it into effect in the United States for the purpose of paralyzing American industry and producing revolution.

Recalls Martin Testimony.

"Upon what evidence is this conclusion based? Upon the testimony of officials and bonafide members of the C. I. O., such as Homer Martin, Dobrynski, Eagar, and McCartney."

Dies told how the communists have set up so-called front organzations, which they control through interlocking directorates for the purpose of extending their influence. The evidence before the committee has identified many officials of the Roosevelt administration with such communist front organizations as the American Civil Liberties union and the American League for Peace and Democracy.

The speaker told how the communists have bored into political parties, subordinating or withdrawing their own candidates in favor of left wing elements in other parties.

TELLS SHOOTING BY EX-HUSBAND OF RUTH ETTING

Musician and Girl Accuse Martin Snyder.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Myrl Alderman, music arranger and accompanist for Ruth Etting, radio singer, unbuttoned his shirt in court today and showed a jury the bullet wound he said her former husband, Martin Snyder, former Chicagoan, inflicted last Oct. 15.

Alderman said Snyder accosted him just as he finished his work in a radio studio and said he wanted to have a talk about Miss Etting.

"He said he had reports Miss Etting and I were married," Alderman testified. "I told him that wasn't true. Snyder said the two of us had been seen together at football games and prize fights."

Pistol Kept at Back.

Alderman said Snyder demanded that he be taken to see Miss Etting. He said he promised to give Snyder's telephone number to Miss Etting, leaving it to her whether she should meet Snyder. He said Snyder was angered, took a pistol from his pocket, and told him: "If you make a move it will be the last you'll ever make."

Alderman said he drove to his home, got out, and that Snyder marched behind him, the pistol shoved into his back.

Alderman's story of the argument and the shooting followed closely those of Miss Etting and Snyder's daughter, Edith, 21 years old, who said she fired at her father after he shot Alderman.

Miss Snyder described the scene in Alderman's home the night of Oct. 15, saying her father told her, Alderman, and Miss Etting, "This is going to be the end of all of you." She said Alderman was shot in the abdomen when he started to plead with her father.

Daughter Sees Struggle.

"Ruth ran out of the room," said Miss Snyder. "I heard another shot and my father and Miss Etting struggling in a bedroom. I went in there, pulled him away from Ruth and begged him not to shoot any more."

Miss Snyder followed Miss Etting on the stand. The former radio headliner admitted on cross-examination by Jerry Giesler she accepted a diamond and platinum bracelet from Snyder when he arrived here last July from New York.

When Prosecutor U. U. Blalock took up redirect examination of Miss Etting she said that in the three years before she retired from singing Snyder caused many difficulties that made it hard for her to get work. She said she had to go to England to work, and even there Snyder made trouble for her.

70,000 BUSHELS OF GRAIN BURN.

Kansas City, Kas., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Seventy thousand bushels of wheat and corn burned here today in a fire which destroyed the Lathrop-Marshall Grain company elevator. W. Wood Marshall said the loss was between $50,000 and $75,000 and was covered by insurance.

GANG KILLS ONCE IN ERROR, THEN SLAYS IN PRISON

Convict Stabbed, Dies in Second Trap.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The vengeance of gangland killers, who slew a young man by mistake a month ago, reached inside the walls of Sing Sing prison today and brought death to the man they were after.

Matthew J. Kane. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Matthew J. Kane, 41 years old, died in the prison hospital from infection caused by a stab wound. He was slashed Sunday with a sharpened table knife, which broke and left a jagged piece in his neck. Five convicts were placed in solitary confinement over the affair.

Kane escaped death a month ago when underworld killers mistook John F. O'Hara, a young New York financial investigator, for the convict. Police said O'Hara's killing was a blunder—that Kane was intended as the target for the hasty fusillade of shots fired the night of Nov. 18.

Parole Prepares the Trap.

Kane was released from prison on parole six hours before O'Hara was shot. The convict had promised to go directly to the home of his mother. Instead he stopped at a tavern, which violated his parole but saved his life for the time.

O'Hara, who resembled Kane, arrived home about the time the convict should have reached his mother's apartment in the same building in which the investigator lived with his widowed mother and sister. The killers, lying in ambush near the entrance, apparently mistook him for Kane and shot him down.

Kane was seized and returned to Sing Sing as a parole violator.

Wounded in Neck.

When the prisoners emerged from the corridor Kane announced calmly that he had been hurt, and pointed to blood streaming from a wound in his neck. He insisted, however, that he was not injured seriously and it was not until yesterday that the fragment of knife blade was discovered.

Kane died today, declining stubbornly to identify his assailants. An exhaustive inquiry was launched by prison authorities into the slaying, but no other prisoners would admit having seen the stabbing.

Kane originally was sent to Sing Sing in 1924 for robbery, but had been paroled and returned to prison several times. In 1935, while on parole, he was questioned in the murder of Thomas [The Harp] Sheridan.

Police believe he might have been slain in retaliation for that crime or in connection with the $427,000 Rubel armored car holdup in Brooklyn in 1933, of which he was supposed to have known the inside story.

TWO CHICAGOANS IN FILMS TO WED DURING HOLIDAYS

Louise Campbell, film actress, who is visiting her parents here, disclosed last night that she and Horace MacMahon, film actor and a former Chicagoan, will be married here during the Christmas holidays.

Miss Campbell, who is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Welsbecker, 624 Willow street, said the date of the wedding has not been selected. The marriage will take place in St. Michael church, where her parents were married.

Miss Campbell, whose last picture was "Men with Wings," said she expects Mr. MacMahon to arrive here next week. Friends since childhood, their romance began on Broadway, in New York, two years ago. She is under contract with Universal pictures and he with Paramount.

Strike Ended in Three St. Louis Pumping Plants

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Three of St. Louis' four waterworks were operating today, assuring the city an adequate supply of water despite a union jurisdictional strike which forced the shutdown of pumps for six hours last night. Water at the rate of 120 million gallons a day was gushing into the city's network of pipes. The normal consumption at this time of the year is about 100 million gallons. The resumption of operations was accomplished by city officials with the aid of the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers.

Gentlemen:

We have laundered the DUNHAVEN shirts with the MIRACLE WEAVE collars and cuffs eighty-eight times as per your instructions.

These shirts were processed through our plant without any special care or attention. They have gone through the same procedure as do any shirts that come into our plant to be laundered.

After the eighty-eighth laundering the shirts were still in an excellent condition, especially the collars and cuffs which always show the first signs of wear. The soft and fused collars and cuffs stood up exceptionally well.

We are returning the shirts to you under separate cover, and, you can easily see that the DUNHAVEN shirts with the MIRACLE WEAVE collars and cuffs will give years of service to the purchaser.

We sincerely hope this will be of assistance to you, and, we wish to thank you for the courtesy of allowing us to make this test for you.

Sincerely yours,

ASKS ACQUITTAL OF 3 ACCUSED IN ARMY SCANDAL

Say U. S. Witness Kept from Hearing.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Justice James M. Proctor took under advisement in federal court today motions for acquittal of a former army officer and two war materials salesmen charged with preventing a key witness from testifying before a congressional committee in 1934.

Frank E. Speicher.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

William E. Leahy, counsel for former Brig. Gen. Alexander E. Williams, one-time acting quartermaster general of the army, and Nathan and Joseph Silverman Jr. of New York pleaded for a directed verdict of acquittal on grounds that a subpena issued by the house military affairs committee was invalid.

The subpena called for appearance here of Frank E. Speicher, New York tire salesman, as witness in the committee's 1934 investigation of war department contracts.

Charge Against Defendants.

The defendants, together with former Representative Thomas J. Ryan of New York, are charged with persuading Speicher to remain in New York. Ryan is to stand trial later.

The names of the late Secretary of War George H. Dern, present Secretary of War Harry Woodring, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, former chief of staf, were projected into the trial when Speicher, the government's principal witness, testified that a General Motors corporation official had obtained "thousands of dollars" from G. M. C. for "supposed" payment to the three war department officials.

Speicher named a sales manager for G. M. C. as the company official involved, but indicated that none of the money reached the army leaders. He charged it was embezzled.

Knudsen Denies Charges.

His charges brought a quick denial from William Knudsen, president of General Motors, in Detroit. Knudsen said the best evidence that Speicher's story was untrue was that the man he said embezzled the money still works for G. M. C.

Much of the evidence on which today's action was based has been heard previously by two other investigating groups. One was a court martial as a result of which William was dismissed from the army. The other was the house committee investigating military affairs, before which Speicher testified in 1935.

INDICTED IN THREE ROBBERIES. Walter Brown, 22 years old, who said he lived at 834 North Dakin street, was indicted by the grand jury on three robbery charges yesterday.

N. Y. TRUST COMPANY ACCUSED OF $250,000 FRAUD BY HEIRESS

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Mrs. Dorothy Ledyard Knight, who has been involved in much litigation over the 14 million dollar estate of her father, Lewis Cass Ledyard Jr., today filed another complaint which charged an officer of the United States Trust company with defrauding her and her two infant daughters.

In a sworn information, given to Magistrate August Dreyer in Tombs court, she accused officers and directors of the trust company of a conspiracy in which they paid out $250,000 of her father's estate in settlement of a stockholders' suit. Although the action was against numerous other officers of the Chase National bank in addition to her father, who was a director, his estate was one of only three estates which contributed to the payment.

Arthur A. Ballantine, counsel for the trust company, said the charges in the complaint were the same as those in a Surrogate's court action now awaiting trial,

4 FREED, 8 GET JURY TRIALS IN HEARST DISPUTE

Four men, all circulation department employés of the Hearst newspapers, were freed of disorderly conduct charges yesterday by Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli in the South Chicago court. Eight others, six of them former Hearst employés now on strike, were granted a jury trial. The twelve were seized on Monday just outside the Kensington police station.

The four men freed yesterday are Walter Stock, 7309 East End avenue; Andrew Klyn, 41 West 113th street; Peter Spinnato, 2919 West Harrison street, and Mike Baglio, 1232 North La Salle street. They told Judge Borrelli that the eight other men, alleged members of the Chicago Newspaper Guild, a C. I. O. affiliate, were attempting to prevent them from delivering papers.

The eight, who will go to trial before a jury on Jan. 10 on disorderly conduct charges, are Guido Alfonsi, 650 East 91st street; Wallace Beck, 11526 Princeton avenue; William McNichol, 10145 Lowe avenue; Samuel Dykstra, 301 West 108th street; Abe Goldfarb, 819 East 53d street, and Frank, Joseph, and John Menechini, 2114 East 116th street, brothers.

TEXTILE UNION HEAD MOVES TO REJOIN A. F. OF L.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Affairs of the United Textile Workers' union were in chaos tonight over the disputed point of whether it belongs to the C. I. O. or the A. F. of L. The upheaval results from a recent decision of a Providence, R. I., court which held invalid the union's contract with the C. I. O. because it had not been acted upon by the union membership.

Francis J. Gorman, president of the union, announced today he had moved to call a convention for the purpose of returning the organization to the A. F. of L. The union was expelled from the A. F. of L. after Gorman withdrew it and its funds and placed them under control of the C. I. O. as a charter member of the John L. Lewis movement.

Sidney Hillman, chairman of the C. I. O. Textile Workers' Organizing committee, maintained that Gorman can no more order the union back into the A. F. of L. than he could legally order it out, under the Rhode Island decision. He also said authority to call a convention is not vested in the union's president, but in its executive committee, whose members, he said, are members of the TWOC.

EASE Discomfort OF Miserable HEAD COLDS

IN miserable head colds, mucous membrane of nose and throat is irritated—air passages become smaller—it's hard to breathe.

Put two drops Penetro Nose Drops in each nostril—feel the difference. That's because the astringent-like action of the ephedrine and essential oils shrinks and cools swollen membranes, eases irritation and discomfort—you have more room to breathe—every breath brings a feeling of relief.

Keep Penetro Nose Drops handy to relieve head cold discomfort of both children and adults. Be sure to always ask for quick-acting Penetro Nose Drops—you'll like their "2-drop cold relief" feature. Sold by druggists everywhere.

ALL SUBURB AUTO FINE RACKETEERS TO FACE INQUIRY

Prosecutor Will Question Police Chiefs.

In a move to stamp out all speed traps in Cook county, Assistant State's Attorney Richard B. Austin will summon police chiefs of all suburban towns and explain to them the law governing trafic offenses. The police chiefs will be told just what constitutes a speed trap and will be warned that motorists must be arrested only on legitimate grounds, Austin declared.

The drive against officials who persecute motorists to pay salaries of police forces was launched after the smashing of the notorious Dixmoor speed trap early last month. The mayor, police magistrate, and three policemen of that village are under sentence to jail for conspiracy.

Must End This Racket.

"There must be an end to this racket," Austin said yesterday. "Police chiefs and village authorities must be made to understand that this office will not tolerate such practices as obscuring stop signs, making arrests outside village limits, or lying in wait in bushes and cornfields to entrap motorists."

The chiefs will be called in when the prosecutor has completed his present investigation of the finances of a dozen villages in the south and southwest sections of the city.

Austin has discovered that in many villages money derived from fining motorists has been used to pay the salaries of the police who made the arrests. This is contrary to state law, which provides that such revenue must go into a roads and bridges fund and cannot be used for any other purpose.

Questions Village Officials.

Austin has been questioning officials of two villages each day and examining their records. In each case where it is found that fines collected have been put into a general, or salary, fund the prosecutor has warned the trustees that they must comply with the law or be prosecuted.

Yesterday he questioned Walter Dohl, justice of the peace of Freeman township, who hears trafic cases from the village of Markham, and Police Magistrate Roy Andrews and Treasurer Paul F. Schwaighart of Midlothian.

The records showed that up to last May only a moderate sum was collected each month in motorist fines in Markham. Then Jack C'Brien was employed as police chief. Since then the hamlet's monthly fines have run as follows: May, $150; June, $174; July, $243; August, $232; September, $221; October [when the heat was put on Dixmoor], $116, and November [when the Dixmoor authorities were convicted], $91.

Treasurer to Be Questioned.

The village treasurer, who was summoney yesterday, is out of the city and will appear with his books and records later in the week. Whether Markham has a roads and bridges fund was not determined.

Motorists' fines in Midlothian were found to have run as follows in recent months: June, $303; July, $469; August, $501; September, $552; October, $326, and November, $127.

Treasurer Schwaighart of Midlothian was able to show that his village's books are properly set up. Midlothian is the first village found to have a roads and bridges fund, Austin stated. Officials of two more suburban towns will be questioned today.

STRIKE THREAT IS RAISED AGAIN AT STOCKYARDS

Members of local 567, the C. I. O. stockhandlers' union at the Union stockyards, voted last night in a meeting at 4758 South Marshfield avenue to give their strategy committee full power, including that of calling a second strike, to expedite negotiations for a contract with the stockyards company.

The union struck Nov. 21 and went back to work at Mayor Kelly's plea on Dec. 3, with a demand that the company sign a contract within ten days. During the negotiations, union spokesmen said, they dropped their demand for a checkoff and closed shop, but asked an eight hour day, forty hour week, seniority rights, and time and a half for overtime.

The ten day period specified by the union ended yesterday, but a meeting which had been arranged was canceled because the company's legal representative had been called to Washington. Another meeting cannot be held before Thursday, union officials said they were told.

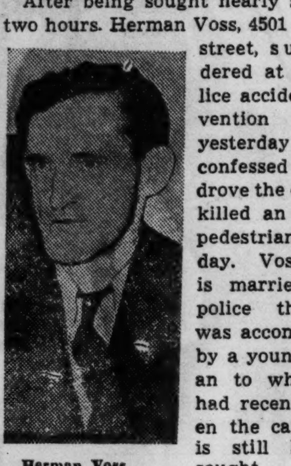
HIT-RUN DRIVER OF DEATH AUTO GIVES SELF UP

After being sought nearly seventy-two hours. Herman Voss, 4501 Monroe street, surrendered at the police accident prevention bureau yesterday and confessed that he drove the car that killed an elderly pedestrian Saturday. Voss, who is married, told police that he was accompanied by a young woman to whom he had recently given the car. She is still being sought.



Herman Voss.

The victim was Patrick Stapleton, 70 years old, of 767 Van Buren street, who was struck in front of his home. Beside his body was found a broken automobile door handle. Police found that it fitted a car parked two miles away. Licenses on the car were in the name of Miss Mary Wells of 3428 Jackson boulevard. Voss was held for the inquest into Stapleton's death.

Police yesterday were searching for a hit and run driver whose car fatally injured Leonard Camerina, 65, of 920 South Laflin street, who was crossing the street in front of his home.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 839 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 641 were killed in Chicago, where 19,525 were injured during the same period.

OIL OPERATOR ACQUITTED OF TAPROOM KILLING

Harrison, Mich., Dec. 13.—[Special]—A verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity was returned tonight by a jury which tried Carl [Jack] Livingston, well known oil operator, on a charge of murdering his friend and business associate, Isaiah Leebove.

The state charged the slaying, in a crowded hotel taproom in Clare, Mich., last May 14, was deliberate murder. Defense counsel contended Livingston was insane at the time.

SUBWAYS TO PUT LOOP STATIONS IN CENTER OF BLOCK

PWA Alters Plans; Averts East-West Barrier.

A change in plans for the location of downtown stations on the Dearborn and State street subways was announced yesterday by Col. Henry M. Waite. He is chairman of the Public Works administration engineering commission supervising the subway building.

The change will eliminate one of the major objections voiced when the PWA commission last summer completely changed the type of subway construction which the city had proposed. Some traction engineers had complained that the PWA plan in effect created a Chinese wall at Dearborn street to prevent building future west side subways to the lake front.

Plan Midblock Stations.

It will now be possible to construct east-west subways over the Dearborn and State street tunnels because the stations for the north-south tubes will be constructed in the center of the block instead of at street intersections, Col. Waite said.

The change was decided on after conferences with city engineers. There will be a station in each block between Lake and Van Buren streets on the State street tunnel and one in each block between Randolph and Jackson streets on the Dearborn street subway.

Two Levels Avert Interference.

The PWA plan now calls for low level [35 feet down] subways running north and south and future high level [about 18 feet down] subways running east and west. The city's plan was just the reverse. The city advocated the more convenient high level for the north-south lines because they would be the most heavily traveled.

In addition to making it possible to build future high level east-west subways, Col. White said, the changed plans will relieve congestion at street intersections. It is the first time that this station arrangement has been followed in subway building, he added.

Another advantage will be the reduction of interference with utilities lines at the street corners.

COUNCIL GROUP TO URGE FEEDER BUS EXTENSIONS

The city council will be asked to pass new ordinances tomorrow providing for feeder bus extensions in seven streets. The council's local transportation committee yesterday recommended passage of the measures after its counsel, William H. Sexton, told members previous extension ordinances had died with the lapsing last summer of the old 1907 street car ordinances.

The measures will provide for extensions by the Chicago surface lines in Central avenue, Peterson road, 83d, 111th, Division, 71st, and 103d streets

TWICE PAROLED, A ROBBER TAKES TO HIS GUN AGAIN

Dell Follis.

Dell Follis told police that the last time they arrested him for robbery. Crime records show ample reason for his faith in the kindness of the parole board. Twice sent to prison, twice paroled, he returned to the gun each time as a means of livelihood. He is a prominent exhibit in the list of "parole board mistakes" compiled by authorities in their protest against release of known gunmen.

Follis, now 42 years old, is back in the penitentiary again. Judge George Fred Rush sent him there on July 12 as a habitual criminal, following the arrest in which he gave the present parole system the underworld's stamp of approval. He can get out again, the parole board willing, after serving a third of the 20 year sentence imposed on him. State's Attorney Courtney has written the parole board, however, urging that it avoid a "third mistake" in his case.

A Street Corner Tough.

Follis started out as a street corner tough on the west side. He became a petty thief and served several Bridewell sentences for larceny before he took up the gun.

With two companions Follis started on a stickup career in 1920, preying on taxicab drivers. They wrecked one cab, taken in a holdup, and injured four persons. They operated brutally, threatening the lives of their victims.

Police caught the gang. On Jan. 20, 1921, Follis was sentenced to serve from one year to life for robbery with a gun. Two other robbery charges, pending at the time, were dismissed. He stayed in prison until January, 1928, when the parole board decided that he was reformed and capable of readjusting himself in free society.

Gets Back Into Records.

Follis next appears on police records three years later. The report of Patrolman Joseph Lloyd, now assigned to the Town Hall station, gives a graphic account of the manner of the parolee's reformation. Policeman Lloyd reported to his superior officers:

"About 12:25 p. m., Nov. 1, 1930, I visited the home of Raymond Newby, 2215 Warren avenue, to attend a party. I was met at the door by Mrs. Newby and a man I did not know at the time.

"The man had a revolver in his hand and placed it against my stomach and said, 'Put up your hands; this is a holdup.' I then struck the man with my fist, knocking him to the floor, where we scuffled and I took the gun from him.

"I then learned that his name was Dell Follis and that he had just robbed Raymond Newby and one of the guests, Hugh Cummings. After I had placed Follis under arrest I walked him back into the kitchen, where I arrested his accomplice, Ollie Hart, 2043 Warren avenue, who was holding up five or six guests there."

Records of the Criminal court show that the grand jury indicted Follis for robbery with a gun under the habitual criminal act, under which conviction would have required him to serve out his previous maximum sentence of life. They do not show, however, what influence was used to obtain the waiver not only of the habitual criminal count but of the armed robbery charge. Follis got off with a one to fourteen year sentence for attempted robbery.

Despite his record the parole board released him sooner from his second sentence than it had from his first. He got out on Sept. 4, 1936, after serving less than six years.

A third time he set out with a gun to prey on citizens of Chicago. On June 23 he entered the tavern of Frank Cernivivio, 2359 Wentworth avenue, and robbed him of $14. Cernivivio took his own gun, pursued the robber down the street, captured him, and turned him over to police. His trial and sentence by Judge Rush followed three weeks later.

Chicago's Record Since Jan. 1

TWO DETECTIVES JOIN SEARCH FOR MISSING COUPLE

Two detectives from the state's attorney's office yesterday afternoon aided Sherif Joseph Dorr of Walworth county, Wisconsin, in his search for some clue to the whereabouts of Frederick Hirschmann and his wife, Theresa, who disappeared Nov. 19. The Hirschmanns went fishing in Lake Como, near Lake Geneva, Wis. Their boat was discovered later, but their bodies have never been found.

Detectives James Courtney and Edward Nevera, assigned to the search by Capt. Daniel Gilbert, talked with James E. Springfellow, Hirschmann's partner in the engraving business, but he could give no pertinent information. The detectives also visited the Hirschmann home at 2930 Eastwood avenue, but found nothing there to pierce the mystery.

COURT UPHOLDS CITY LICENSING OF OUTSIDE CABS

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday upheld the right of the city to license out of town taxicabs which pick up passengers and discharge them within the city limits. The court made this ruling in reversing a $5 fine imposed in Municipal court on Robert Dorland, a driver for the New Cab company of Evanston, who was arrested on a fare trip from Lunt avenue to the loop on charges of not having a license to operate a cab in Chicago. The court held that Dorland was not responsible for the violations since he was not the cab owner, but that the city could restrict use of its streets to licensed cabs.

Find Woman Bookkeeper Unconscious in Hotel Room

Miss Celine H. Henry, 54 years old, was found unconscious early today in a room in a hotel at 6200 Kenwood avenue. On a dresser was a note which stated that if she was found asleep it meant she had taken an overdose of sleeping tablets. A bottle of the tablets was near by. Miss Henry, a bookkeeper for a loop law firm, was taken to the County hospital, where physicians said she may recover. She lived at 15537 Lamon avenue, Oak Forest. Her housekeeper, Miss Thelma Smeeden, said Miss Henry had been in bad health.

TWO GO ON TRIAL FOR SLAYING OF WPA SUPERVISOR

Hit as He Lay on Floor, Witness Says.

Charles W. Cummings, WPA supervisor who was fatally injured in a brawl in his office at Calumet Park, was struck twice while he lay on the floor. This testimony was given yesterday as two WPA workers went on trial for Cummings' murder before a Criminal court jury in Judge Benjamin P. Epstein's court. The jury is qualified to inflict the death penalty.

The defendants are Benjamin Simons of 12314 Green street, and Walter Wielgorecki of 12334 Ashland avenue, both of Calumet Park. Both are 30 years old. Wielgorecki is a brother of Police Chief Michael Wielgorecki of the suburb.

Dies of Skull Fracture.

Cummings, who was 50, died on Nov. 11 of a fractured skull suffered the day before in a fight which followed the discharge of Simons and Wielgorecki, reportedly for leaving a WPA job before the appointed hour.

John Muskievicz of 12418 May street, Chicago, was the WPA worker who said he saw Simons kneeling over Cummings and striking him. He was the first fight witness introduced by Assistant State's Attorneys David Leeds and Donald Korshak, who expect to complete their case today.

Muskievicz also testified that he saw Simons knock Harry Sanford, assistant supervisor, against the wall, and that Raymond E. Forbes, WPA cost analyst, swing a chair. He said William Cazel, timekeeper, also was involved in the fight.

Warns Others to Keep Away.

When other WPA workers came rushing in, the witness said, Wielgorecki waved his fists and shouted: "Don't let anybody in. I'll give anybody else the same thing that butts in."

Raymond Weick of 11534 Yale avenue, Chicago, an acting foreman on the road project which employed the defendants, testified that the pair left their jobs before quitting time. He warned them they would be docked, Wieck said, and Wielgorecki replied, "If we are we'll take it out of somebody's hide."

Defense Attorneys Benedict J. Short and Charles A. Bellows said they would plead self-defense.

TWO BRETONS FACE TRIAL IN FRANCE FOR SEPARATIST AGITATION

RENNES, France, Dec. 13.—(AP)—In an attempt to break the old Breton separatist movement, French authorities today ordered two of its leaders to stand trial tomorrow on charges of violating decrees outlawing agitation for separation of any territory from France.

The accused are alleged to have published in their newspaper, Breitz Atao, an article declaring Italian demands for Tunis and Corsica should start things moving for the Bretons.

CALL DIVORCEE'S DEATH NATURAL.

Mrs. Irene Hanson Burrows, 39 years old, a divorcee, died Dec. 3 of natural causes, a coroner's jury decided yesterday. Mrs. Burrows' body was found in her home at 2206 Cullom avenue.

THE LAW AND THE LABOR BOARD.

The Wagner law is now getting its interpretations from the federal courts and limitations within which the National Labor board must act are being defined. The board took a preposterous position when it ruled that employés could not be discharged for inexcusable violations of law. In spite of their seizure of property, their lawless conduct, the financial injury they caused the employing company, they were not only to be retained but to be paid for the time during which they were interfering with the business in which they were employed and causing great loss.

The right to strike was being construed as the right to take possession of a plant, to defy court orders, to overpower the law enforcement officers, and to escape all the consequences for acts which in any community have always been regarded as lawless. The labor board was extending the protection of law to the violation of it. Such administration of the labor act not only discriminated between different organizations of labor, always giving the advantage to the C. I. O. unions, but it also was withdrawing the protection of the law from property owners who had done nothing to deserve their exclusion from the benefits of the courts. To make them pay for the damage done was as strange a doctrin as ever was adopted by a law enforcing authority.

In fact, a study of the conduct of the labor board over a period of months leaves the unescapable conviction that the board's purpose goes beyond partisanship with the radical branch of organized labor, beyond deciding every question in favor of strikers and against employers. The board's clear intention has been to destroy private industry.

Sensible people could not believe that such conduct by a federal board would be upheld when it got into the courts or that congress ever intended that such rules would be put into effect under the act. The labor board needs the check which the courts have given it and it also needs a congressional inquiry into the fitness of the members to continue in their office.

AMATEUR SMUGGLERS.

Some very unhappy people have been involved in the smuggling charges which are receiving court attention in New York. They must now reflect that the articles for which they took a chance were not worth the price which may have to be paid for them. The customs people are not any too gentle with people who are trying to make an honest declaration to give the government its full due. Many Americans are made to feel that they rate as enemy aliens when they return to their native land, with or without purchases made abroad.

Many ladies cannot see anything but fair game in trying to outwit the collector. The imposition of a toll on purchases deeply offends their shopping instincts. The customs service to them is an unconscionable and unjustifiable species of governmental brigandage. They don't feel that their integrity has gone astray at all when they are tempted to avoid the customs. Even when they declare their goods they do so with indignation. Their husbands learned to take a new view of the port of entry regulations during prohibition. They began to feel that if they could get a bottle in they were merely declaring their independence of a grievous law, and if they didn't get caught could remain good citizens.

The English country gentleman frequently used to boast that his fine wines had paid the king nothing and he regarded himself as an upstanding man if he had been able to avoid the revenue service. Some of our own mountain distillers thought the same way about it. Amateur smuggling doesn't pay. If the penalty were nothing more than a stiff fine, the offender might feel that luck was against him but that he wasn't involved in an affair of great turpitude. Hats, laces, dresses, and adornments aren't worth a jail sentence and a consequent injury to reputations, if not to careers.

THE ROYAL VISIT.

British court circles are reported to have growing doubts about the visit of the king and queen to these shores next spring. There is not much fear that Canadians will break out into uncontrolable demonstrations, but what our own Atlantic seaboard democrats will do is admittedly unpredictable. If Grover Whalen improvises one of New York's hero receptions the effect upon the king and queen may be startling.

The visit is supposed to have sufficient importance to justify the risk if precautions can be taken to keep the simple, unostentatious democratic ways, expressed by several million people, from wrecking the party. The king and queen will be safe enough on the battleship Repulse, unless indeed the welcoming democrats get the idea of taking the ship apart for souvenirs. If that happens, the British navy will lose one fine warship and we may have to take up a collection to buy them another.

It might be well to have the other king, Edward VIII., and his duchess come over before the king and queen and gradually train Americans in the proper behavior. Edward and his duchess might take some of the first steam off the Atlantic seaboard curiosity and susceptibilities.

If the king and queen can survive New York, they may get by in Washington without great trouble. The Atlantic seaboard is bound to be standing on its ear. It might be prudent to send an army division along with the royal couple to serve as a barrier.

BOGEYMAN AT LIMA.

Any one reading the speeches and resolutions before the Lima conference might reasonably conclude that the European dictators are about to pounce upon Central and South America, if not the United States and Canada. It seems to be assumed that Hitler, Mussolini & Co. are already preparing their expeditionary forces for the Atlantic voyage.

So far as we are aware there is no evidence to support these alarms. Germany is preoccupied with her efforts to reorganize central Europe in her interest; the moment she moves in our direction all that she has gained in Europe will be imperiled because her defensive forces at home would be correspondingly weakened. Italy is in the same fix. Japan has all she can manage in China. Britain and France are in no mood to undertake foreign wars, as they have abundantly demonstrated.

The war scare is synthetic. It has no relation to the realities of world politics, but unless we are greatly mistaken it is intimately related to the domestic politics of our own country. Mr. Roosevelt fears that the new congress will whittle the relief appropriations and deprive him of the free hand he has had in parceling out the money. As a substitute, he is scheming for immense armament appropriations. For his purposes a war scare is necessary and Mr. Hull is doing his bit to provide it.

There is no evidence that Europe is contemplating interference in American affairs, but the Argentine and Mexican delegations at Lima are preparing a resolution which would offer Pan-American mediation in the Spanish war. That would involve America in European quarrels with results which in the long run might prove disastrous for this hemisphere. There is far less reason to be alarmed over the threat of a European invasion at this moment than over the dangers of our meddling in Europe.

There may be some basis for a fear of commercial rather than military aggression. If the dictators of Europe are seeking to monopolize Latin-American trade we may have to take steps to counteract their tactics. Promoting a war scare will not help us think about the commercial problem more clearly.

HOLLYWOOD AND HISTORY.

Hollywood is preparing to glorify Gunga Din and we shall be agreeably surprised if the occasion is not used once more to extol for the benefit of American audiences the peculiar excellences of the British. Her majesty's Tommies, if we may judge from previous efforts in their behalf by Hollywood, will be diamonds in the rough and her majesty's officers [probably with one conspicuous exception to provide contrast] will be polished gems of gentlemanly behavior. If they dispatch M. Din, it will all be done in so hightoned a fashion that he will express his admiration of their gallantry with his dying breath.

Hollywood occasionally ventures into the field of American history, but, as a rule, without much enthusiasm for the task. The explanation may lie in the circumstance that the rulers of Britain and the dominions do not fancy American heroes and rather enjoy American gangsters. American audiences might like, from time to time, to see their own national heroes exalted in the movies, but, because of the demands of the export market, themes from American history get relatively little play.

You might almost believe there never was such a boy as Joshua Barney and never such a man as John Paul Jones. Benedict Arnold, the most heroic of villains, was made to order for the movies, but Hollywood has largely neglected him. The Fremonts, Kearneys, Custers, and Clarks, the Indians and the Indian fighters, the frontiersmen, the statesmen, the warriors of all our wars, have been neglected as if they were of no more importance or interest than the herdsmen of Montenegro.

Occasionally, as in "The Covered Wagon," Hollywood handles a theme from American history con amore, but even the success of that picture did not encourage many other adventures into the field. Hollywood was interested in the overland trail because California lay at the end of it. If this sectional enthusiasm were expanded to cover a continent and a national history the men and women and, more especially, the boys and girls, of this country might learn to place a proper value on their history and institutions.

Editorial of the Day

COUNTRY BOYS DO WELL IN CITIES.

[Toronto Globe and Mail.]

The Ontario Statesman, Bowmanville, suggests that a Toronto daily paper offer a prize to the county in the province that has provided this city with the greatest number of its outstanding citizens, past and present. This follows study of a survey made recently by The Globe and Mall, which revealed that many leaders in Toronto's professional and community life were "rural-born."

The predominance of former "country boys" in leading urban activities being apparently established, it would be interesting to know what the counties individually have done toward keeping up the supply.

This brings up again the old subject of the respective qualifications and abilities of the city and country youth. It cannot be said there is actual competition between these forces for high positions. It just appears that way, and if the country boys win, the explanation is evident. They are the invaders, and youth, at ease in the city garrison, doesn't know anything about the invasion. Ambition, or actual need, brings the country boy to town, and he is determined to "make good." He may have no more talent than the city boy, but he makes it work harder. And when at various colleges the examination lists are posted it is found that students from the towns, the villages, and the concession lines are highly placed. They have been working. Not all, perhaps, but enough to make a good showing. The habit of industry they have cultivated carries them onward and upward in whatever life work they undertake.

In a recent article discussing Canadian "genius" and its distribution the United Empire, London, journal of the Royal Empire society, found that the majority of Canadians who, during earlier stages of the country's development, attained prominence were products of the small towns or the farms. So that, if the inquiry be made retroactive, the boys from the country will have a good start on the city lads in the race for success.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

KEY TO AN IVORY TOWER.

In these difficult times, when European crises one after another come booming across American dinner tables, provoking acrimonious arguments over our duties as crusaders, a book like Robert Graves' "Count Belisarius" is a blessing. It provides an ivory tower where the present may be forgotten in contemplation of a more enchanting and, perhaps, more idiotic past.

* * *

In this carefully studied novel based on the life of a great military commander, the scholarly Mr. Graves deserts ancient Rome for the capital of the Eastern Empire, Constantinople, in the reign of Justinian—an unfamiliar field to most dabblers in classical subjects. No historian has ever called the hybrid and bedizened Byzantines, for whom theology seems to have been a monomania, a great people, and yet they held imperial sway for a thousand years after the Goths ruined the home town on the Tiber. At long last, just before the banners of Islam swept over their parapets, these Greek-speaking inheritors of ancient culture transmitted the seeds of the Renaissance to western Europe.

* * *

The biographer of Claudius "the God" is completely at home among the Byzantines. He appears to know how they dressed, bet on the chariot races, rioted over the Dual Nature, trained their armies, and treated their harlots. It's fascinating, although unimportant. So this week, when the talk turns toward the Munich conference, Memel, Tunis, the unspeakable dictators, and America's divine right to meddle in such matters, we are saying:

"We go home now. We have a rendezvous with a gang of daffy Monophysites in Constantinople, A. D. 500."

They were the fellows who inspired Theodore Roosevelt to call President Wilson "a Byzantine logothete," much to the glee of a puzzled but admiring nation, in 1915.

They had Hun troubles, too.

A PSYCHOLOGIST'S PRAYER.

Let my work be humble, Lord.
Be it for others to command the wealth of worlds
And dull a gleaming sword
In blood of fools and liars and their scurvy kin;
To conquer sea and earth and sky
And ride the plunging might of wind
And write them names that will not die.
The beasts of fear
And monsters hate and lust can breed in hearts of men
Be it mine to meet and conquer them.
To teach distorted minds what life is for
To follow sin into sin's foulest den
And light a lamp within the brain that was before
To beauty's tender feet a dark and treacherous fen;
Lord, let this be mine!

The Class in Story Writing.

Introduction.

My money was gone.
My head ached.
My feet hurt.
And a long day of Christmas shopping past.

Story.

On the train I began to read the Linebook of 1938 and suddenly my troubles vanished. Life was good. I chuckled at a quip until the lady next to me wondered. I sighed with pleasure at the lovely thought in a poem.

Climax.

The 1938 Linebook is the best of them all in my humble opinion, and I have avidly read them each and every one.

The End.

Congratulations, Mr. Linemaster.

More Football Reform.

Your plan to reform football [12-9-'38] is good but not perfect. Now I have a perfect plan which not only ends football massacres but satisfies everybody as well. Whenever a team scores a touchdown I propose giving 20 points to both teams, and whenever a team scores a field goal giving 10 points to both teams. At the close of the season every team has amassed an enormous total of points and can be considered a powerhouse. Also, for the security of the coach and the gratification of the school, president, and alumni, every team in the country is undefeated for the season.

SOLILOQUY ON MILADY'S HAT.

Lovely lady, answer me:
Is there more than vanity
That prompts thee now to don a hat
As preposterous as—that?
Whate'er possessed thee to allow
This thing a place upon thy brow?
Mayhap you seek to mortify
Your ample flesh before you die
And, thus ensconced, thy silly crown
Is mental sackcloth round the town;
Or else perchance (since love is blind)
This freak that doth thy temples bind
Doth advertise both far and wide
The boundlessness of female pride;
But if some blind impelling urge
Has caused thy hat and thee to merge,
Then let me wish thee all godspeed

GLANDULAR FEVER—AN INFECTIOUS MALADY.

At this season of the year physicians are likely to encounter a sizable number of victims of glandular fever. Not only will the lymph nodes [glands] be enlarged but there is an increase in the percentage of small, round, white cells in the blood. The areas most often affected—with the occurrence of tiny lumps—are the sides of the neck, beneath the arms, and in the groin. Furthermore, the throat is usually involved, but the rawness or soreness may be so slight that the patient will not even mention it. With some, however, this region is severely affected; in fact, sometimes a membrane may be detected on or near the tonsils which may resemble diphtheria.

The acute attack is ushered in, as a rule, by a sudden rise in temperature with violent headache and generalized weakness. Only occasionally will a rash appear on the skin but now and then in young children a measleslike breaking out will be observed. In more than half of these patients we may expect some manifestations in the pharynx although the proportion in which the lymph glands will be swollen is much less. Only when a laboratory examination discloses an overabundance of the minute lymph cells is the diagnosis confirmed.

Frequently this malady is mistaken for a cold, a mild influenza, or some other indisposition characterized by weakness, a low grade fever, and enough malaise to render illness obvious. Curiously enough, it is quite common about hospitals among interns, nurses, and attendants. The ailment first was described in 1898 by Pfeiffer and since his time numerous epidemics have been reported. As far as can be learned, no specific bacterium is responsible and the assumption is that the cause falls within the group of living viruses which bring about smallpox, measles, poliomyelitis, etc.

Fortunately, the prognosis is favorable. The infection tends to subside after a few days, although the blood count may not return to normal for a week or more. Watchful care must be given the kidneys, as blood or hemoglobin may be found in the urine. Now and then this symptom may lead to the identification of the condition. A case that recently came to my attention is that of a young man, 18 years of age, who, in his second year at college, called at the dispensary complaining that his urine was red. He had been carrying a slight temperature for a few days and some soreness was observed on swallowing. Examination of the blood showed 73 per cent lymphocytes. With rest in bed and plenty of fluids the hematuria ceased and there was no further evidence of nephritis.

Another case—that of a 17 year old girl—had exhibited fever and marked sweating for approximately four weeks. The day before admission to the hospital her physician discovered a grayish looking membrane on one of the tonsils, which extended beyond the gland and to one side. Diphtheria at once was suspected but cultures proved negative. Streptococci, however, were abundant and her long continued illness was explained on the basis of a complicating infection. For several days the temperature remained high and the diagnosis was made only after the white cells were found to be composed largely of lymphocytes. Convalescence was established some fifteen days later. Her prolonged siege was due, no doubt, to lowered vital power occasioned by the growing streptococci.

Because there is no specific serum and because recovery nearly always occurs, treatment is symptomatic. In other words, the sufferer is kept in bed and made as comfortable as possible. The diet is soft and light and enough fruit juices and fluids are administered to safeguard the kidneys. Because of the decided tendency to sweating—similar to that in influenza—the body must be kept dry to prevent chilling. There is no objection to giving small doses of some drug to relieve headache. Inasmuch as the disease is infectious [not highly so] isolation should be maintained during the acute period.

PAINFUL; NOT DANGEROUS.

M. E. W. writes: My mother, 70 years old, suffers considerably from cramps in her legs while sleeping or while sitting in one position too long. Should hot or cold applications be applied? Are these cramps dangerous?

REPLY.

This is a common condition in old age and is not dangerous, though painful. The discomfort appears because the muscles are receiving too little blood. Hot packs followed by gentle massage, using a cold cream, will be helpful. Elevating the extremities when sitting will aid the return flow to the heart. Narrowing of the caliber of the blood vessels is the essential cause.

ITCHING EYELIDS.

H. E. writes: What causes intense itching of the eyelids? Three or four persons in one office are affected.

REPLY.

You may all be suffering from a mild conjunctivitis, which is frequently contagious. Other causes are cosmetics such as eyebrow pencils or lash dyes.

CURE REQUIRES PATIENCE.

A. F. writes: Can stuttering in a child be corrected?

REPLY.

Yes. The process requires time and patience. The help of a psychiatrist may be required. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for leaflet on speech defects.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

POLICE VACANCIES.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—[Friend of the People.]—I am on the present police list. I have heard a rumor that a thousand men were going to be put on the first of the year. Will you please check this for me as to whether it is true or false?

J. S. C.

Vacancies in the police department will be filled from time to time from the eligible list. However, as to whether or not the city council will make an appropriation in the new 1939 budget for more patrolmen, it is impossible to say.

UNRECONSTRUCTED.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 12.—Lucy S. Stewart of Evanston, Ill., who proudly signs herself Secretary of Society for Correct Civil War Information, is very narrow. As a Virginian, may I say that you Yankees can rave on until the end of time, and every true southerner will always speak of the war as the war between the states, and certainly not, the civil war. Particularly, members of the Daughters of the Confederacy and their families.

So far as we are concerned, you have our permission to name that war anything you like, and that particular war should have told you, if you have gathered your information correctly, that you can't make a southerner adopt your ideas and you can't cram things down his throat. However, if you leave him alone, he is a peaceful creature, and that's about all we ask of Yankees. This happens to be a free country, so we shall continue to name the war, "the war between the states," with or without your permission.

We are very proud of Virginia Military institute, and if the war between the states were being fought at the present time you may be assured that the Virginia Military institute would have more than 1,791 men for the confederate army.

Mrs. J. E. Hunt.

IN THE GREAT MIDDLE WEST.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—During a few weeks' vacation through Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin I observed that, with Illinois, they form a great solid part of America's heart. It even seemed that in these four states were ample farming foundations and fruitage for any great nation. Honest and progressive people, I found, don't demand wealth without honest effort. But I find that the majority agree with me in believing that America's dignity of progress in international civilization demands either national employment for all or a minimum food, shelter, and clothes standard of decency for all.

WAITING FOR REFUNDS.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—Taxpayers who filed claims with the county treasurer for refunds on 1934 real estate taxes last July have not received the money due them.

The treasurer sometimes is plenty tough with those who fall behind in paying, but does not show much speed when the money is to come back to those who have overpaid.

Can something be done to expedite these refunds?

EXUDING LOVING KINDNESS.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—I suppose it's The Tribune's innate loving kindness that makes it feel so badly about "hatred on the air."

If those nasty old radio haters would only take a lesson from the dear old Tribune in how to be nice to people with whom they differ—people like President Roosevelt, John L. Lewis, and Fiorello La Guardia—everything would be just lovely, wouldn't it?

WILD FOWL: AN OPPORTUNITY.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—Why not use our forests to raise wild fowl? They have in Norway some birds entirely different from what we have here. They have the tiur of the size of the turkey and weighing about 20 pounds, its mate, the röl, weighing about 10 pounds, the aarhane, a wonderful indigo blue bird of about the same size as the röl, and its mate, the aarhöne, weighing about 4 pounds. They all belong to the hen family and propagate very quickly. The röl and the aarhöne lay about 20 eggs each.

They also have in Norway the rype [ptarmigan], which is a smaller bird, but tastes fine. They are very common in northern Norway. They are speckled in the summer, white in the winter.

I should think the federal government could get such eggs from Norway and hatch them in incubators here. When we get a reasonable number of them and let them loose they could take care of themselves if they were protected, and in a few years cover the country. The whole United States would be suitable for them. As it is now we have practically no birds in our forests. Ducks along the rivers and quails and pheasants; that is all.

Transplanting of Norwegian birds to this country would not only make it a hunters' paradise, but it would also become a great economic asset. We are supposed to have 1,937,144,960 acres of land here in the United States and untold millions of such birds could find a home and food in our forests. If we count a production of one fowl per 100 acres every year, it would be an increase of almost 20 million fowls per year, worth about $1 apiece.

Aarhanen would especially interest sportsmen. When it plays you can hear it for miles. With a play of a dozen or a score of aarhanes at one time you have the most wonderful music.

ABOMINABLE CAR SERVICE.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—The service on the westbound Chicago avenue car between 3 and 5 p. m. is abominable. I get on at Ashland. There are always at least twenty getting on there and between ten and twenty at every cross line, besides a few passengers at every block.

The car is jammed with passengers when it reaches Ashland, yet twenty have to get on there or stand and freeze waiting for another packed car. Why not run enough cars?

The eastbound service in the morning is almost as bad. One morning I waited 20 minutes for a car [and I live almost at the end of the line]. I sometimes get a seat, but on leaving the car at Ashland I almost have the coat torn off my back.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—We are so elated over the success of our Christmas party in the ballroom of the Palmer house that I want to write you now, lest we forget, to give credit where credit is due.

You probably know that Mr. Phil Maxwell, your Good Fellow editor, was our master of ceremonies, and master is the right word. He was the master all the way through. He handled the entire affair so nicely that ninety-five per cent of our audience of over one thousand people stayed through to the close at 4:30 p. m. Personally, I think this is quite a record.

I am sure we would all realize what a wonderful work this is if we were able to visualize the combined smiles and joy of the youngsters and families who on Christmas morning are to be the recipients of this effort.

NO WONDER!

Chicago, Dec. 10.—The automobile companies that are doing their utmost to give the public a better product for less money, trying to give work to as many men as possible at good wages, are besieged on one side by a lot of strikers, on the other side by a lot of half baked government agents asking a lot of silly questions. Is it any wonder we have 13 million unemployed?

HOME FOR AGING JEWS KEEPS OLD TRADITIONS ALIVE

Institution Atmosphere Carefully Avoided.

[This is the tenth and last article of a series on Chicago's charity institutions.]

BY MARCIA WINN.

Of the many problems facing welfare agencies, one of the most complex and delicate is that of the aged man or woman who is homeless.

For here the question is not merely one of food and shelter, but the more intangible one of imparting a spark of hope to some one who believes his usefulness is gone.

The old person needs companionship. He needs medical care. Often he needs special foods. He needs, above all, the feeling that he is wanted.

Aged Jew's Problem Unique.

The problem has many shadings and nuances. One of the most unique of these is that of the aged, homeless orthodox Jew whose life always has been governed by the strict ritual and tradition of his religion. Ban kosher food to him, and he is as desolate as though a vandal had stolen the little black yarmulke he always wears on his head.

Chicago's only home for the aging orthodox Jew is the Orthodox Jewish Home for the Aged, known as the B. M. Z. [Beth Moshev Z'keinim]. Now in its thirty-eighth year of service, it is an imposing but homelike establishment with a solemn Corinthian façade and two acres of beautiful gardens at 1648 South Albany avenue.

Traditions Kept Alive.

Inside, ancient tradition is preserved in a modern setting for the eighty-two men and ninety-one women residents. One vast wing is a modern infirmary [for half of its old people are bedridden or feeble], with washable muslin yarmulkes replacing the black silk ones, tradition's sole concession to science.

Bearded men read Yiddish newspapers in a solarium as shiningly modern as its indirect lighting. Bright-eyed old women wear dresses attuned to 1938 fashion, but their heads still are covered by the ancient sheitel [wig] or boudoir cap. The latest works of fiction, history or biography may be found in the home's library, but three times a day the men and women file into the home's two synagogues to pray and chant, the men on the ground floor, women in the gallery, as tradition ordains.

Each Treated Individually.

The gravest problem, Julius Savit, superintendent, explained yesterday, is to remove strain, tenseness and the atmosphere of an institution. To accomplish this, each elderly person is treated as an individual.

Thus there are few restrictions on personal freedom. If a resident has insomnia, one of the recreational rooms is open, lighted, waiting for his use. If he wants to go to bed at noon, he can. Every person, Mr. Savit contends, must feel independent.

Nor is the day chalked up into neat little hours for this activity and that. The home encourages handicraft work among the women, but does not urge it. If one of the women likes to knit, crochet or sew, she is given yarn and thread and allowed to do what she pleases. The color, the design, the article, all are of her own choosing.

"When it's finished, we pay her for it," Mr. Savit explained, "but we don't sell it. We give it back to her so she can enjoy her own work—or give it away herself."

Men's Classes Arranged.

The men's occupations, Mr. Savit explained, are nearly all on the intellectual level. They have classes in scripture study, for instance, which develop into profound, learned arguments.

Among them, too, they apportion many small duties. One man takes charge of the radio, selecting programs for the day. Another has charge of the library, another of the sixty-five Yiddish newspapers received daily.

There is no admission fee to elderly men and women entering the home, and preference is given to those who are dependent and in need of institutional care. If they wish to contribute toward the home's upkeep their funds are accepted gladly, but in recent years little has been given. "Perhaps $200 to $300 a year," Mr. Savit estimated.

The home's budget runs about $75,000 a year, about 60 per cent of which comes from the Jewish Charities of Chicago, with which it is affiliated. It benefits indirectly from the Community Fund, of which the Jewish Charities is a member.

The rest comes from private donations and from various women's auxiliaries. Clothes are an important part of the contributions, for the home renovates second hand clothing for its 173 men and women, as well as purchasing many new clothes.

"And you'll notice," Mr. Savit said with pride, "that the residents do not wear uniforms. They dress as they please."

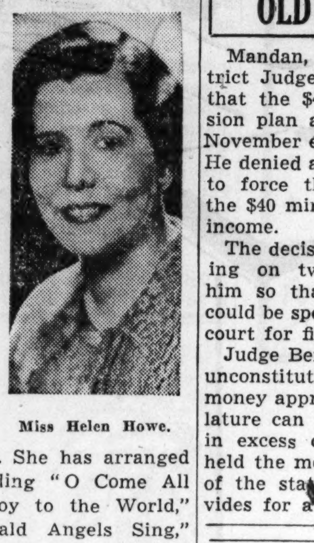
500 HIGH SCHOOL VOICES TO JOIN IN CAROLS ON W-G-N

3d Good Fellow Choral Program Announced.

Five hundred high school boys and girls will sing Christmas carols in the square between Tribune tower and the W-G-N studio building from 3:15 to 3:30 o'clock next Monday afternoon. This will be the third annual Chicago high school Good Fellow choral program, and will be broadcast over W-G-N.



Miss Helen Howe.

Miss Helen Howe, director of music in the Chicago public schools, will direct the program. She has arranged a program including "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Joy to the World," "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," and "Silent Night, Holy Night." These will be sung by mass choruses.

Individual Groups to Sing.

The Roosevelt High school chorus, led by Erhardt Bergstrasser, will sing "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen." The boys' and girls' choruses of Waller High school will be directed by Margaret Gallagher. The Farragut High school girls' chorus will be led by Marie Ehrenwerth, the boys' chorus by Marie Johnson.

Hyde Park High school will be represented by a mixed chorus directed by Josephine Lee, and a boys' chorus led by Veronica Whelan. Hazel Lloyd and Edna Pohlmann will lead the singers from Austin High school.

Miss Gertrude Lawrence, the actress now appearing in "Susan and God" at the Harris theater, will be a guest and will speak to the singers.

Baskets to Be Distributed.

The open air sing will be one of a number of events preceding the distribution of basekts by Good Fellows to families who otherwise might have no Christmas cheer. Toys and games for children, as well as festive and substantial foods for Christmas dinners, will be included in the baskets.

Readers may get the names of families found to be among the city's neediest at THE TRIBUNE's Good Fellow bureau at 1 South Dearborn street. The telephone number is Superior 0100.

Appearing on Bob Elson's Sport Review over W-G-N last night, Kenneth L. Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern university, spoke in behalf of the Good Fellows movement. He pleaded with his listeners to help make needy Chicago boys and girls merry at Christmas time.

COURT INVALIDATES NORTH DAKOTA'S $40 OLD AGE PENSION ACT

Mandan, N. D., Dec. 13.—(AP)—District Judge H. L. Berry ruled today that the $40 minimum old age pension plan approved by voters in the November election is unconstitutional. He denied a writ of mandamus sought to force the welfare board to pay the $40 minimum regardless of other income.

The decision was given after a hearing on two cases brought before him so that the questions involved could be speeded to the state Supreme court for final determination.

Judge Berry said the amendment is unconstitutional because none of the money appropriated by the 1937 legislature can be used to pay assistance in excess of $30 monthly. He also held the measure violates section 185 of the state constitution which provides for a "reasonable assistance."

Told to Turn Off Radio, Boy, 14, Hangs Himself

James Wilcox, 14 years old, son of Police Magistrate Lester Wilcox of Bellwood, was listening to the radio yesterday in his home at 427 22d avenue, in the suburb. His mother, Mrs. Neda Wilcox, asked him to turn it off. He did. Then he went to the basement and hanged himself from a pipe. Magistrate Wilcox found the body a few hours later.

President Will Sell 1,000 Christmas Trees from Farm

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt said at his press conference today that he would sell about 1,000 Christmas trees from his farm at Hyde Park this year. Prices are about the same as last year, he added. Mr. Roosevelt raises the trees as part of a forest development project.

32 HOUR WEEK IS ADOPTED FOR 2 G. M. C. PLANTS

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—General Motors corporation announced today that it was instituting a four day, thirty-two hour week in its Chevrolet division, effective at once, and in its Buick Motor company plant in Flint, effective next week.

The announcement made no comment on recent United Automobile Workers' agitation for a 30 or 32 hour week to spread employment and protect seniority rights of laid off employés. According to present contracts between General Motors and the C. I. O., workers laid off for more than twelve consecutive months lose their seniority privileges.

Last week unemployed members of the union in Flint threatened to picket General Motors plants there as propaganda for a shorter work week. General Motors' announcement did not indicate whether the curtailed working schedule would result in calling more men back to work.

CITY TO DEMAND TUNNEL STEAM MAINS' REMOVAL

A subcommittee of the city council utilities committee yesterday instructed the corporation counsel to draft an order on the Chicago Tunnel company to remove steam mains from one of its tunnels within six months.

The company, which operates freight tunnels beneath the loop, has installed the mains in one of its unused tunnels to supply heat to nine downtown buildings. The subcommittee, headed by Ald. Frank E. Konkowski [26th], contends the company's franchise does not give it the right to supply steam through its tunnels. The company contends it does.

The subcommittee first voted to recommend that the franchise be revoked, but rescinded the action when it learned that revocation might make impossible removal of some of the freight tunnels necessary to the State street subway.

"L" GUARD DIES IN SHANTY.

William Tonsar, 60 years old, a crossing guard on the Douglas Park elevated line, was found dead of heart disease yesterday in his shanty at the East avenue crossing in Berwyn. He lived at 6732 Riverside drive, Berwyn.

U. S. FILES SUIT OVER BAR GOLD SHIPPED TO CITY

A libel action was filed yesterday by the government to impound 48.27 ounces of bar gold seized here by Customs Agent Ernest Beaton. The seizure was the first in this federal district in many years and was made under the statute that provides that importers of gold must have treasury permits. A gold watch and a gold ring included in the shipment will be confiscated because they were illegally declared, according to Assistant United States District Attorney David H. Neuman.

The gold was addressed to Fritz Herz of 8131 Cottage Grove avenue by Joseph Baumeler of Lucerne, Switzerland. Herz said he had expected a package, but didn't know it was to be gold. The case was assigned to Federal Judge John P. Barnes. It was understood that in the event of confiscation payment in currency probably would be made, though the gold bars, valued at about $760, would go to the Philadelphia mint. Under the Roosevelt gold embargo it is unlawful to possess gold money, bullion, or gold certificates.

AX MEN SMASH 6 JOINTS; TRY NEW TACK IN COURTS

State's Attorney Courtney's ax raiders wrecked six gambling places yesterday on the north and south sides. The joints were at 4609 Clifton avenue, 1116 Leland avenue, 6414 North Clark street, 949 East 63d street, 1505½ East 67th street, and 301 East 51st street.

The state's attorney started a new system, meanwhile, in seeking convictions in the racket court on gambling raids made by the police. He assigned Assistant State's Attorney Morris Meyers from the criminal court to present the evidence in Judge Francis Borrelli's court. The procedure resulted only in clashes between the judge and the prosecutor and the prosecutor and the police.

The judge finally informed Prosecutor Meyers he would continue to follow the law as interpreted by the reviewing courts and would suppress evidence not legally obtained.

STUDENT FINDS RED RUSSIA IS HIS DREAM LAND

Prof. Paul Haensel, who lectures on world economics at Northwestern university, is a considerate teacher. In the midst of his discussion yesterday of soviet Russian economics, Prof. Haensel noticed that one of his students, Earl Selby, had fallen asleep.

Thoughtfully, Prof. Haensel asked the other members of the class to pick up their study books and refrain from reciting. The remaining half hour passed in silence. The ring of the bell at the end of the period and the shuffle of feet awakened Mr. Selby.

And was Mr. Selby's face red!

CHARGES ERROR IN TRANSFUSION KILLED HIS WIFE

Jury Hears $10,000 Suit Against Surgeon.

A charge that a surgeon's patient was killed by a transfusion of the wrong type of blood was made yesterday in a $10,000 damage suit tried in the Circuit court. The case was given to the jury late in the afternoon. The jury was instructed to return a sealed verdict this morning.

Dr. Arthur G. Schroeder, 1430 Belle Plaine avenue, is the defendant. The suit was brought by Fred M. Hayden, 1655 Olive street, as administrator of the estate of his wife, Leota. She died in the Ravenswood hospital on Feb. 5, 1936, the day on which the transfusion was performed.

Brother-in-Law Tested.

Testimony showed that arrangements had been made not only for an abdominal operation for her, but for the transfusion to follow it. A donor was selected. He was George Mohr, 1720 Balmoral avenue, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Hayden. His blood had been tested by Dr. Schroeder and found to be of type 4, the same as hers.

Mohr was waiting in the hospital reception room when the operation was finished. According to the witnesses, Dr. Schroeder instructed a nurse to "bring in the donor." The nurse went to a telephone and called a hospital attaché downstairs.

Testifies of Error.

This person did not find Mohr, the jury was told. Instead, Arthur Fuller, 3035 North Ashland avenue, who was waiting to give a transfusion to his mother, Mrs. Olive Bartholomew, was sent to the operating room. His blood was of type 2. Fuller said the figure and face of Mrs. Hayden were swathed and that he was under the impression he was giving blood to his mother. The transfusion was given. Mrs. Hayden died soon afterward.

Hayden contended the doctor was negligent in failing to recognize that Fuller was not the man who had been tested for the blood giving. He also asserted that the type 2 blood was deadly if transferred to a sick person with type 4 blood.

Blood Expert Called.

One expert witness called was Dr. Aaron Learner, 185 North Wabash avenue. He explained that there are four types of blood. Type 4, he said, was the "universal type" and could be given safely to patients with the other three types. He added that type 2, if given to a type 4 person, was "not acceptable" and dangerous.

Hayden said that Dr. Schroeder told him, after the mistake had been discovered: "I looked at the man who came in and noticed some change in his appearance, but I thought this might have been because he had had a shampoo, or had changed his clothing."

Mohr asserted that the surgeon met him after the transfusion and exclaimed: "Where were you? A mistake has been made."

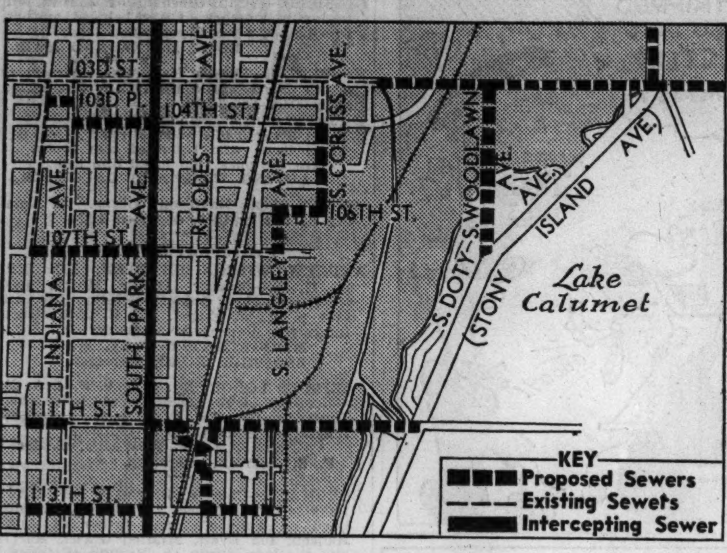
Surgeon Disclaims Blame.

Although Dr. Schroeder admitted he had seen Mohr and had tested his blood the day before the operation, he maintained he had not been negligent and that the death of Mrs. Hayden was unavoidable on his part.

Attorney Royal Irwin, who represents Hayden, said the suit was without precedent and that this was the first time the question of whether the wrong type of blood was deadly had been presented to a jury. Judge Ray D. Henson of Johnson City, Ill., presided.

Mrs. Hayden was 42 years old and the mother of two daughters, Betty, 17, and Jean, 10. Hayden, an oil salesman, is 48.

South Chicago Sewer Project



Existing sewers in this area were installed 50 years ago in the model village of Pullman, now South Chicago. Work has been started on the proposed sewers to connect usable parts of the old sewers to the intercepting sewer.

Serves 20,000

More than fifty years ago George M. Pullman, railroad car manufacturer, laid out America's first model village in what is now South Chicago. But he failed to gauge the rapid growth of the community when he made the plans.

The old Pullman sewer system draining into Lake Calumet has been inadequate for the district for many years. It is small and only a few feet below the ground surface. When drainage into the lake was stopped for public health a general revamping of the system was necessary.

Until recently there was no way to finance this work. Then Mayor Kelly ordered the city sewer department to prepare the plans. With the aid of relief labor he proposed to provide a new system. The start of work was announced yesterday.

About 4¾ miles of new pipe will be laid to connect the usable parts of the old sewers with a sanitary district intercepting sewer under South Park avenue. These sewers will serve nearly 20,000 persons living in an area of two square miles. The project will put no extra burden on taxpayers, the mayor said, although in ordinary times it would cost $750,000 in special assessments.

Chicago Heights Keeps Its Commission Government

Chicago Heights residents voted yesterday, 3,571 to 2,326, to retain the commission form of government under operation there since 1921. The campaign for return to an aldermanic government was waged by the Citizens' Municipal party, led by Police Magistrate Carl McGhee.

DUNHAM WARNS CASH SHORTAGE CAN CLOSE PARKS

Pegged Levy Expires; Seek Assembly Aid.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the Park district, yesterday submitted to the park board a tentative budget for 1939. It called for a reduction in operating expenses of $2,962,641 below the 1938 level.

But this, he asserted, would make it necessary for the board to operate on an eight month basis, closing field houses, firing its recreation staf, cutting police protection and curtailing other services during the last four months of the year. The reduced expenditures will be necessary unless the legislature renews the pegged tax levy under which the district has operated since 1935.

For 1937 and 1938 the board had a pegged levy of $7,600,000 for corporate and operating purposes. Statutory authority for that levy has expired. Unless it is renewed, Dunham reported, the board must raise its corporate revenue under a statutory tax rate of 30 cents on each $100 assessed valuation, which would yield only $6,221,929.

In addition to the loss of $1,378,071 in new tax revenue anticipated as a result of the loss of the pegged levy, the board will start 1939 with an expendible surplus of only about $1,600,000 in its corporate fund, as against a surplus of $3,800,000 appropriated at the beginning of this year.

When the legislature meets Jan. 2, Dunham said in his budget message, he will go to Springfield to ask that the Park district be given a permanent pegged levy. The size of this levy, he reported, will be governed by his success in getting legislative authority to issue $6,000,000 in bonds to continue the park district's contributions to WPA and PWA projects.

A $6,000,000 improvement bond issue sold in 1935, that supplied 92 per cent of the district's contributions to such projects, is virtually exhausted.

The corporate fund budget, based on a reduction of appropriations from $10,999,141, the 1938 figure, to $8,036,500, would involve a 27 per cent cut in the operations of all departments. This, Dunham asserted, would be catastrophic.

HOLD TWO AUTO THEFT SUSPECTS.

Judge Frank M. Padden of the Municipal court yesterday held Steve Hirth, 19 years old, 934 Will street, and Fred Marr, 18, 1728 Orchard street, to the grand jury in bonds of $2,000 each on charges of stealing a car.

GERMANY FORBIDS JEWS TO REMOVE OWN BELONGINGS

Exiles Must Leave Their Goods Behind.

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The economics ministry today decreed that German or stateless Jews leaving Germany after Jan. 1 may take with them only property sufficient for their direct personal needs.

Moreover, all Germans, Jews and Gentiles, who are in the process of emigrating must obtain special permission to take with them anything but strictly personal objects. They may not take even household goods without a permit.

In the case of Jews it is taken for granted in view of the Nazis' anti-Jewish policy that only a very limited amount of silver or only a few paintings or other objects of art in the household may be taken, if anything at all is permitted.

Jews to Act as Exports Agents.

Authoritative sources, however, were quick to point out that Jews would be able to obtain special permits to take such goods as might benefit German exports under the reported Schacht plan of coupling exports with Jewish emigration—this plan is still in its formative stages.

In this connection, it was pointed out that German machinery had been especially considered as goods which Jews might take with them under the plan attributed to Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank.

The goods would be paid for in advance in foreign exchange loans from benefactors abroad. Today's issue of the Jewish Information sheet suggested that the loans might be granted without interest and redeemed later by emigrants "from the yields of their labor."

The foreign loans, under the Schacht plan, would be granted to groups of four or five Jews with one wealthy Jew to each group.

Fortunes of Jews Dwindle.

If a loan were granted, it was said, the wealthy group leader could obtain permission from the economics ministry to take with him, say, machinery equivalent to the amount of the loan.

The loan, in the first place, would have been for an amount equal to the Jew's fortune after he had met the capital flight tax, the 20 per cent punitive fine for the slaying of a German diplomat in Paris by a young Jew, 15 per cent levy for the relief of poor Jews.

A Jew with a gross fortune of 100,000 marks [nominally $40,000] after paying all obligations to the state would have a net fortune of 40,000 marks [$16,000]. To take his capital out of Germany he would have to convert it into an equivalent in foreign exchange of about 3,200 marks [$1,280].

Refunds Loan in Goods.

But under the export plan some foreign benefactor would advance the full par equivalent of the 40,000 marks on condition that a certain share of it go to three or four poor Jews who would make up the emigrating group.

The economics ministry then would agree to refund the full 40,000 marks in machinery or other German products to be taken out of the country by the departing group or to be credited to that group.

F. G. HOGLAND, NATIONAL LOCK CO. HEAD, DEAD

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Frank G. Hogland, 74 years old, president and founder of the National Lock company, Rockford's largest industry, died today in the Swedish-American hospital following a short illness.

Prominent in Rockford industrial and civic affairs for many years, he also was president of the board of directors of the Swedish-American hospital.

As president of National Lock company since he, Emil C. Traner, and the late Levin Faust founded it in 1903, he was largely responsible for the success of the firm.

Born in Sweden, Feb. 6, 1864, he came to the United States with his parents in 1870. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Horace M. Wortham of Rockford; a sister, Miss Augusta M. Hogland of Chicago; three grandchildren, and a great-grandchild.

SWORD MIGHTIER THAN PEN; THRUST AVENGES INSULT

High Cuban Official Wins a Duel.

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 13.—(AP)—A high Cuban official hacked out his niche in the hall of "Gentlemen of Honor" with a military saber today but was unable to announce it because of a Cuban law forbidding duels.

The avenging official was Aurelio Fernandez Concheso, former minister to Berlin and secretary of education in President Frederico Laredo Bru's cabinet.

Whether he got the idea from old Heidelberg or not he challenged Aurelio Alvarez for derogatory public utterances.

Alvarez—leader of the Revolutionary political party—refused to apologize and intimated he had not half spoken his mind about the secretary in a recent discourse.

Meet at Dawn in Pasture.

They met at dawn in an outlying pasture, their keen blades a shimmer of light in the morning mist.

Under directions of José M. Rivals, Havana fencing master, the duel was not "unto death" but for "first blood." The embattled educator reversed that old saying about the pen and the sword by crashing through his opponent's guard and gashing his sword arm.

That should have ended the whole affair with handshakes and a "Cuba Libre" cup of rum and lime juice. But Alvarez refused reconciliation and made no promises concerning future use of his favorite weapon—the pen.

Challenger Chooses Weapon.

Seconds for Concheso were Secretary of Commerce Edgardo Buttari and his friend Reynaldo Marques. A former secretary of finance and actual leader of the ABC Revolutionary party, Joaquin Martinez Saenz, and Vicent Grau acted for Alvarez.

Concheso, though the challenger, was awarded the right to select weapons by a secret tribunal of honor on the grounds he was the insulted party. He chose sabers which he learned to fancy above the rapier while he was in Berlin.

The duel was conducted with the utmost secrecy. Cuban newspapers, aware of legal penalties for duelers, usually make them known through casual reference to revolver cleaning accidents to the participants.

The law provides for sentences of one to six months for all who engage in dueling, including seconds, witnesses, and medical attendants. It has rarely been applied.

FARES HOLD BABY SHOWER ON BUS; DRIVER'S A PAPA

It's been pretty hard to slip anything over on those who ride the Party Special, the daily commuters' bus from Dolton to the loop. The regular customers—35 men and four women—last year celebrated two birthdays, held a bridal shower, and sang Christmas carols before Christmas as they sped to and from town.

Driver Edward Marcin had been hearing giggles from the women on his Monday trip, but thought nothing of it. Perhaps they were planning another Christmas shindig on the bus. But on the ride yesterday morning they burst into "Rockabye Baby On the Tree Top," and Marcin blushed.

One of the women handed him a huge box. It contained everything suitable for a baby shower. The reason? On Sunday Marcin's wife, Angeline, gave birth to a daughter, Joan, in the Ingalls Memorial hospital. She was their first child. The Marcins live at 95 East 156th street, Harvey.

$234,125 Claim Allowed Against Sweitzer Estate

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell yesterday allowed a claim of $234,125 by the United States Fidelity and Guarantee company against the estate of Robert M. Sweitzer, ousted county treasurer. Sweitzer, who died last April 6, left an estate valued at only $25,000. The claim represented $228,911 recovered by the county from the surety company, plus interest, as part of the shortage of $533,817 in Sweitzers accounts as county clerk.

Duel Is Fought

ANNABELLA.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Guillermo Madero, who is socially prominent, today suffered a slight saber wound in a duel with Ricardo Peralta Ramos, newspaper publisher. Their quarrel was over the zealousness of photographers to get pictures of Annabella, a French screen star.

The duel was fought in a Buenos Aires suburb in the presence of seconds and physicians. Peralta quickly wounded Madero, a friend of Annabella's family, slashing his right forearm after 51 seconds of fast action.

CHINESE RECOUP PART OF LOSSES IN HANKOW ZONE

Win 3 Towns on Each of Two Fronts.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Chinese troops reported today that they had recovered virtually all the territory they had lost in Hunan province since the Japanese occupation of Yochow on Nov. 12.

Their latest asserted victories in the month long counteroffensive included capture of three villages east of Yochow and took them across the Hupeh province border to within three miles of Tungcheng.

They reported on Sunday that their forces farther to the west had advanced up the shore of the Tungting lake to within five miles of Yochow. Tungcheng is about forty miles east of that salient.

Gain in Hankow Sector.

Chinese advices also told of gains north of Hankow, former provisional capital, which is the base for operations on the Yochow front as well as those in Hupeh province to the west and north.

As a result of the recapture of three important towns east of the Peking-Hankow railway, these advices said, most of the Japanese troops in that sector have withdrawn to Anlu, 100 miles northwest of Hankow.

The three towns said to be held by the Chinese were Loshan, twenty-five miles east of Sinyang; Hwangchwan, sixty miles east of Sinyang, and Kushih, ninety miles east of Sinyang. Sinyang is a Japanese base on the Peking-Hankow railway 110 miles north of Hankow.

Japs Retreat at Canton.

HONGKONG, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Chinese troops were reported moving closer to Canton in a big semicircle today causing the Japanese to withdraw into the city from previously conquered territory in South China.

Japanese sources said Kwangtung province authorities were recruiting additional troops under a new order from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to launch a counterattack on the invaders.

LINOTYPE OPERATOR DIES.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Elsie Koob, and a son, Adolph. He was divorced a year ago from Elaine Pura Kandler, who then was 21 years old.

Mrs. Georgia Mauff.

Mrs. Georgia Mauff, 46 years old, widow of John Reginald Mauff, former vice president of the Chicago Board of Trade, died early today in her home at 1315 Astor street. Dr. George H. Coleman said death was caused by a spinal injury suffered in an automobile accident on Aug. 3 at Fremont, Neb., while Mrs. Mauff and her daughter, Katrina, were on the way to a Montana dude ranch. Mr. Mauff died last January. Surviving Mrs. Mauff are her daughter and a son, John R. Jr.

William F. Staben.

William F. Staben, a carpenter-contractor, died yesterday in his home at 240 South Park avenue, Waukegan, after an illness of about three months. He was 55 years old and had lived in Waukegan for 30 years. He was a brother of Ald. Carl Staben, and past dictator of the Waukegan Moose lodge. He was a former chairman of the Waukegan civil service commission and a member of that body from 1929 through 1932. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Staben of Freeport; two sons, Fred and William Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. Hazel Klarkowski and Miss Helen Staben, private secretary to Sherif Thomas E. Kennedy of Lake county. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., tomorrow in the chapel at 218 Madison street, Waukegan. Burial will be in Warren cemetery, Gurnee.

Abbie L. Preston.

Miss Abbie L. Preston, 61 years old, a former hospital superintendent, died yesterday in the Chicago Home for the Incurables, 5535 Ellis avenue, after a long illness. Miss Preston was at various times superintendent of the Garfield park sanitarium, the Chicago Homeopathic hospital, the Grace hospital, and the Crane company hospital. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning in the chapel at 5708 Madison street. Burial will be in Mazomanie, Wis.

Eugene V. Shute.

Eugene V. Shute, 56 years old, for many years a cashier at the People's Gas Light and Coke company, main office at 122 South Michigan avenue, died of a heart attack while at work yesterday. Mr. Shute, a native Chicagoan, lived at 1436 Thome avenue. Surviving are his widow, Kathryn, and two daughters, Bernice and Mrs. Margaret Berchem. Funeral services will be held Friday in St. Gertrude church.

Pierre Lafitte.

In 1909 he was named director of the census and directed the decennial census for 1920 and 1930. He was appointed chief statistician in 1933.

Mrs. Virginia Boyle.

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Virginia Frazer Boyle, poet laureate of the United States confederate veterans and well known southern author, died today. Mrs. Boyle, wife of Thomas R. Boyle, Memphis attorney, was 75 years old. She had been ill two weeks.

SHEDS HIS COAT AND ESCAPES U. S. AGENTS, POLICE

Carl Knoebel, 34 years old, escaped early today after his arrest by two agents of the internal revenue department. Policemen Hugh McGuire and Ned Brower arrived with a patrol wagon at 89th and Loomis streets after the agents had called the Gresham station for help. As the policemen were putting Knoebel into the wagon he slipped out of his overcoat and suit coat and fled. The policemen fired at him, but missed. The agents did not disclose why Knoebel had been arrested.

VANDAL SMASHES BARBER'S WINDOW.

Police yesterday were searching for a vandal who hurled a brick through the window of a barber shop at 207 South Dearborn street early in the day.

4 WIN REVERSAL OF YEAR TERMS IN VOTE FRAUD CASE

Jarecki Sentences Held Too Severe; One Freed.

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday reversed a ruling of County Judge Jarecki under which four precinct election officials were sentenced to a year each in jail for contempt of court. Holding that the sentences were too severe for the offenses alleged, the Appellate judges ordered a new hearing.

Jack Swift of 1234 South Wabash avenue was mentioned in the opinion as the one most deserving of leniency. Sixty days, the judges said, would have been sufficient punishment for him. Ninety days was recommended for the others.

In Jail Nearly Nine Months.

To Swift this must have seemed ironical. He is the only one of the four officials who actually went to jail. His co-defendants furnished appeal bonds of $2,500 each, but he couldn't do this. Swift remained in the county jail from March 25 until yesterday afternoon—seven months longer than the Appellate court thought he should serve. Judge Jarecki, hearing of the reversal, ordered his release.

Swift was a Democratic election clerk in the 11th precinct of the 1st ward in the April, 1936, primary. The others involved in the alleged frauds there are Harry Gustison and John Capra, judges, and Charles Saltzman, clerk. They were charged with allowing repeaters to vote and making a false canvass. At the hearing before Judge Jarecki Swift pleaded that he was ill on primary day. The Appellate court suggested that this should have been taken into account even if he had been guilty of "excessive drinking the previous day."

The court added: "It is conceivable and probable that they [the polls officials] made errors, but the canvass leaves grave doubt as to whether they were caused by deliberate misconduct."

Five Others Await Verdict.

Five other election officials from the 35th precinct of the 24th ward were on trial yesterday before Judge Jarecki for alleged frauds. Prosecutor John Cashen Jr. charged that one of the defendants, Henry Levin of 1509 South Lawndale avenue, led the others into fraud. Defense Attorney Charles F. Rathbun declared there had been no fraud and that Levin only "used discretion in aiding people to cast their votes."

Judge Jarecki took the case under advisement and indicated he would give his decision today.

Tavern Robbed at 4 A. M.; Jail Owner for Being Open

Robert J. Giacolo called Shakespeare avenue police at 4 o'clock yesterday morning to report that two bandits had robbed him and patrons in his tavern at 2520 Milwaukee avenue of $200. The police went right out and arrested Giacolo—for keeping open after hours.

$500,000 Divorce

Henry J. Topping and Jayne Shattuck in happier days of marriage.

Gloria Baker, heiress, who is expected to be Topping's next wife.

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Blonde Jayne Shattuck, 22 year old actress, was $500,000 richer after a brief appearance in Fairfield county Superior court today and Henry J. [Bob] Topping Jr., $14,000,000 tinplate heir, was free to marry Gloria Baker, New York glamor girl.

Miss Shattuck won a divorce from the dashing lion hunter after two witnesses testified in support of her charges that Topping sometimes drank to excess. One, a waiter at a snack bar in Manhattan told of picking Mrs. Topping up from the floor after Bob, in his cups, had given her "a push."

Miss Shattuck has been receiving $900 a month temporary alimony since their separation last January. There was no mention of alimony in the decision handed down by Judge Robert L. Munger, but it was understood that an out of court settlement gave her the $500,000 she demanded as her price for freeing Topping to wed Miss Baker.

Bob and Jayne were married at Armonk, N .Y., in August, 1935, after she had divorced Jack Kirkland.

SUPREME COURT IN INDIANA BARS VOTE RECOUNTS

Willis Will Carry Senate Fight to Washington.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The Indiana Supreme court today made permanent its writs of prohibition restraining recounts of ballots in last month's election in seven Indiana counties.

The recounts had been approved by judges of the seven county Circuit courts in which petitions were filed by defeated Republican candidates for United States senator and 11 state offices. The petitioners declared that unusually belated returns erased their previous majority and gave Democratic nominees victory by a slim margin. They also charged widespread fraud in the election and errors in tabulation of the votes. The Indiana Supreme court at present is composed entirely of Democrats.

Willis to Continue Fight.

Republican candidates for state offices were disappointed by the court's action. However, Raymond E. Willis, Republican nominee for United States senator, who lost to Senator Frederick Van Nuys by only about 5,000 votes, refused to give up his fight. He indicated he probably would act on Van Nuys' suggestion that their race be subjected to inquiry by the senate itself. Counsel for Van Nuys, appearing in the state Supreme court litigation, contended that the senate is the proper place to review the contest.

The final decision as to what course Willis will pursue is expected to be made here Wednesday at a conference of Republican leaders.

Today a source usually close to the state house here admitted Van Nuys has been crossed off the patronage list by President Roosevelt. Senator Minton also is reported to have been barred from the New Deal plum orchard. It is said President Roosevelt is displeased over the way the Minton-McHale-McNutt machine has bungled things in Indiana.

Two Opinions from Court.

The Supreme court's decision barring the vote recounts was in two opinions, one a per curiam opinion signed by Judges Charles Curtis W. Roll, George L. Tremain, and James P. Hughes. Judge Roll wrote a separate opinion, concurring in the result but offering a different line of reasoning.

Judge Tremain said in his opinion: "Without question a revision of the election laws is needed in this state."

The opinion attacked the contention of the Republican attorneys that a candidate for a state office should be entitled to ask for a recount in only seven counties.

"If the legislature," it said, "has failed to prescribe a method for the recount and contest of the election of a state officer in a proceeding instituted in a Circuit court of the state, then such court is wholly without jurisdiction. The burden upon those seeking such recount and contest proceedings in the Circuit court is to point out a law expressly vesting that authority in such court." The opinion added that it would take a constitutional amendment to provide for a partial recount.

Pilot J. H. Brown, aboard an Eastern Air Lines plane that had left Chicago half an hour earlier, noticed about noon yesterday that one of the two big Cyclone motors of his Douglas DC-3 airliner was not operating smoothly. Turning over Rensselaer, Ind,. he reported by radio and returned to Chicago airport with his seven passengers and a load of mail and express.

Examination of the motor on the ground disclosed a cracked cylinder and the flight was delayed for several hours while a ground crew replaced the damaged part. All the passengers waited while the repairs were made and the ship took off about 4:30 p. m. The flight is one of two regularly operated by the line from Chicago to Miami, Fla., via Indianapolis, Louisville, Atlanta, and Jacksonville.

RABBIT FEVER KILLS 12TH VICTIM OF HUNT SEASON

Health authorities issued a warning again yesterday to hunters and persons engaged in cleaning rabbits as at least one new rabbit fever death and a number of new cases were reported.

The death was that of Joseph Plaza, 55 years old, a grocer of Fairmount City, near East St. Louis. He became ill Saturday after cleaning a rabbit. His death, the twelfth of its kind since the hunting season opened on Nov. 10 and the fourteenth of the year, was the second to occur in the East St. Louis area.

Thirty cases of rabbit fever, or tularemia, have been reported in or near East St. Louis and about 300 throughout the state. Dr. R. C. Farrier, district medical director, last week ordered a ban on the sale and transportation of rabbits near East St. Louis. The state health board said the infection is the worst in the state's history.

FEDERAL AGENTS SEIZE TWO MORE ON SPY CHARGES

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Federal agents today arrested two men on espionage charges accusing them of sending documents of the United States naval intelligence bureau to soviet Russias.

Gorin, who said he is a native Russian and operator of a travel bureau, and Hafis Salich were arraigned before the United States commissioner, who held them in bail of $25,000 each. Salich said he is Russian born and denied he is a naturalized American and former navy man, as government agents indicated when they made the arrest.

Mr. H. G. Wells and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt take sharp issue on

THE FUTURE OF THE JEWS

Where to the Jew? What does the future hold in store for these ancient people who have suffered persecution since time out of mind?

We asked that question of two great writers—one, an English intellectual, a famous visionary who writes with cold and logical detachment—the other, a woman and a mother whose knowledge of governmental affairs and great human understanding well from a warm and friendly heart.

The sharp issue Mr. Wells and Mrs. Roosevelt take on this subject that flames today across the Western World, will cause every man and woman of every race and creed to want to read both articles.

Gives More Complete Results than Just Vitamins Alone

*PEOPLE LIKE THESE OFTEN NEED EXTRA VITAMIN HELP

- People who are NERVOUS
- People who are RUN-DOWN
- People who have SEVERE COLDS
- People with POOR APPETITE
- People with SLOW DIGESTION

Get ENOUGH vitamins every day. Be sure they do the greatest good they can by eating them in this new High-Vitamin Yeast. It helps you use the vitamins you eat more fully.

This New High-Vitamin Yeast gives you not only richer amounts of 4 essential vitamins, but also the remarkable "booster action" of the fresh yeast itself

MANY studies indicate there is a widespread need for extra vitamins—more than our average meals supply.

Slow digestion may also cut down the assimilation of vitamins you eat —prevent them from doing you as much good as they should.

In Fleischmann's new High-Vitamin Yeast you get a splendid extra supply of 4 vitamins—A, B, D and G.

And the fresh yeast helps to quicken and stimulate slow digestion. This better digestion helps you make fuller use of the vitamins. It "boosts" their assimilation—gives you more complete results.

Get your extra vitamins in this effective way—in Fleischmann's High-Vitamin Yeast. The cost is only a few cents a day. Order from your grocer—now!

Nice Guy Note.

A handsome, well dressed man started to enter an elevator at Field's and the operator said politely: "I'm sorry, but no employés are allowed in these elevators during rush hours."

"You're perfectly right. I was at the meeting when that ruling was announced," said the man. He turned and went in the direction of the employés' elevator. The operator didn't know it, but he was Frederick D. Corley, president and general manager of the store.

Oddenda.

Letter to Santa.

A Chicago mother follows the old German custom of having her children leave a note for Santa on a plate under the bed the night of Dec. 8. The letter lists their Christmas wishes; the plate is for the candy Santa leaves. The letter from one of her daughters ended: "And dear Santa, I should like very much to have a room of my own. But I suppose I'll have to wait until I'm married for that."

Platter Data.

[Pronounce "Data" Boston Style.]

Duke Ellington is orchestrating the first selection he composed, Soda Fountain Rag, for his next disk date. He wrote it when he was in his teens, but only recently found the original manuscript. . . . Our favorite record title, Man with a Horn Goes Berserk, recorded by Buster Bailey and his orchestra. . . . Some zany titles of new waxings, The Joint Is Jumpin', The Wail of the Skromph, both by Cedric and his Honey Bears, the name under which Eugene Cedric, swing exponent of the tenor saxophone, records. . . . Looks as if the popular platter of the Christmas season this year were going to be Christmas Music of Many Lands, sung by the Vienna Boys' Choir—English, French, Tyrolean, German, Latin, and American Indian carols. The word ayapo appears in a song about angels and Bethlehem, making it Indian, apparently.

Audience Adrift as New Ballet Tries Allegory

BY CECIL SMITH.

"Parable in Blue," revealed at the Civic Opera house last night by Catherine Littlefield and her ballet, is not a parable but an allegory. Three uninvited guests, indicated by appropriate costumes to be Fate, Fortune, and Sorrow, intrude their problematic personalities upon a penthouse party. Each of the three singles out one and another of the guests for special attention and a great deal of symbolic unrest ensues.

Very little of all this was intelligible to any one in the audience who had not taken time to pore over the synopsis in the program. But it did not matter, for, as the program put the upshot of the allegory, "the Hostess, awakened to reality by the drama of the situation, returned to the Host with new understanding," and the curtain was shortly permitted to descend between the dancers and their bewildered audience.

I am afraid the Hostess and Host were the only ones awakened to any sort of reality or left with any new understanding by a piece encumbered by symbolism and largely devoid of significant movement, cumulative effect, or artistic organization.

The score of slightly Europeanized music hall jaz was written by Martin Gabowitz and orchestrated by Jerry Mayhall. Henri Elkan conducted.

A repetition of the much touted "Café Society" indicated once more that Miss Littlefield will never create the great American ballet company by pursuing her present course. As a choreographer she thinks in episodes—frequently too many of them—on an undifferentiated emotional level. When she cannot see how to build a large, evolving dance structure she falls back on bromides of symbol, pantomime, or tableau or merely keeps meaningless motion going.

Then, too, her taste does not unfailingly enable her to distinguish between musical comedy platitudes and the materials out of which a genuinely evocative dance art may be fashioned.

The rollicking "Barn Dance" ended Miss Littlefield's Chicago season apart from the opera performances. This ballet still possesses the most straightforward and unforced quality I have seen in her work.

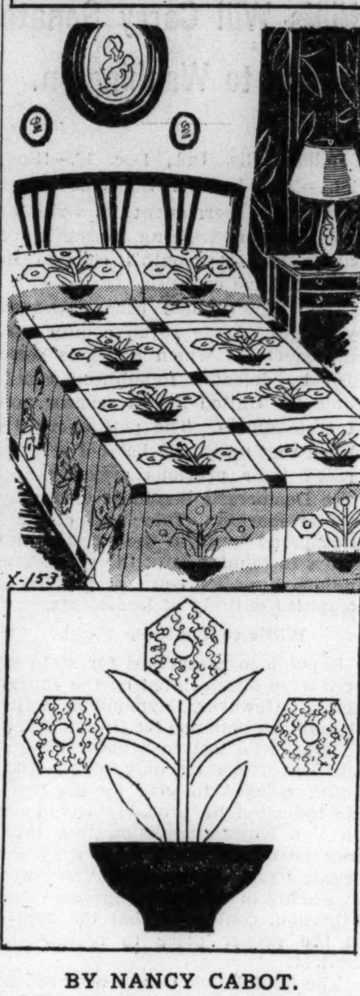
Applique Quilt Reminiscent of Queen Anne Era



BY NANCY CABOT.

"Old English Flower Garden" is an applique design which is reminiscent of the quaint air of the Queen Anne cottage, with its primly erect printed flowers and simply formed flower pot. The entire quilt is composed of these applique blocks set together with two and one-half inch bands of white material joined at the intersections with two and one-half inch squares of dark fabric.

For the applique pattern, "Old English Flower Garden," No. X-153, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

December is one of those "R" months which, we've been taught, are the best for oyster eating. We may eat oysters the year around if we like, for canned and frozen ones always are available, but fresh oysters now abound and we like to use them often. Oysters are rich in iron, iodine, and vitamins most important to health.

Browned oysters are a delicacy which requires only a few moments of preparation. Served with tartar sauce, chili sauce, or catsup, along with baked potato, corn on the cob, salad, and baked apples, they round out a pleasant, filling, easy to prepare dinner.

BROWNED OYSTERS

Drain large oysters, pick them over, and remove all shells. Dip each into finely crushed cracker crums and brown on each side in butter. A half pint of oysters will serve two persons quite generously.

SPLIT BAKED POTATOES

To save time in baking split large potatoes lengthwise before baking and allow half a potato per person. Brush skin and cut side with butter, bacon drippings, or other fat, and bake as usual in a 400 degree oven.

CORN ON THE COB

There are several good brands of canned corn on the cob which may be reheated in the can or in hot water out of it. There are four ears to the average can. Frozen corn, of course, tastes like fresh corn right from the garden. It usually comes packed in groups of four, too. There are instructions on the package for cooking it. Only a few minutes are required.

BAKED APPLES WITH MINCEMEAT

Wash and core the apples and fill the centers with canned or packaged mincemeat. If necessary add hot water to the mincemeat to moisten it. Place apples in a pan with a little hot water in the bottom and put a teaspoon of brown sugar and a dot of butter on each. Bake along with the potatoes until tender. Serve with cream.

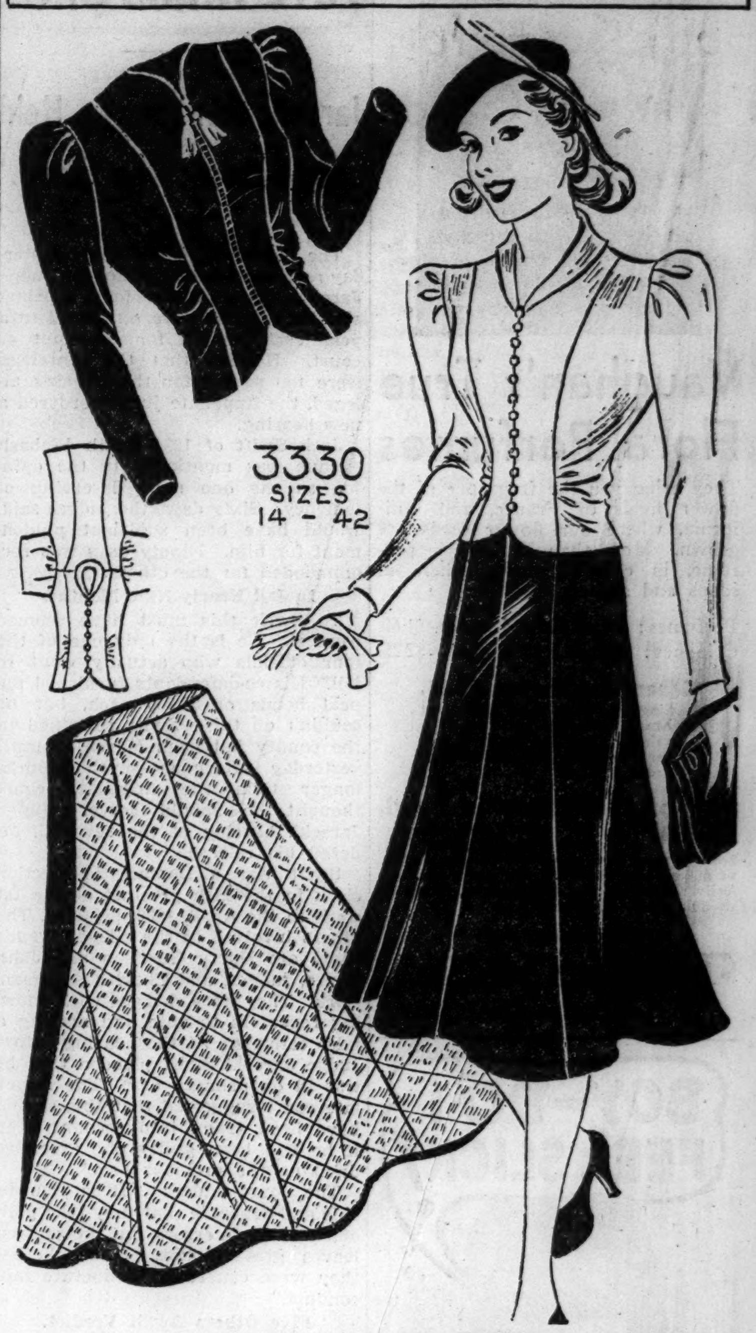
Versatile Two-Piece Outfit



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

No one needs to remind you how versatile the two-piece costume is. It may be worn anywhere, and its two component parts may be used with other items in the wardrobe.

This two-piece outfit may be made in either woolen or silk, or a combination of the two. The skirt is a gored affair with plenty of flare. It molds the hipline beautifully and gradually develops its width without sacrificing line. The blouse is closed down the front with either buttons or slide fastener. The sleeves, puffed at the shoulders, diminish in width until they fit snugly at the wrists. They may be short if you prefer them that way. As for the neckline, it may be a built-up V, without collar, or a simple V with a rolled one.

Style No. 3330 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 1⅞ yards of 39 inch material for the blouse and 2⅛ yards of 39 inch fabric for the skirt.

Mrs. Baur Uses Home Scene for Christmas Card

BY JUDITH CASS.

IN the mass of invitations and advertisments that fill the mail at this time of year friends of Mrs. Jacob Baur yesterday found her Christmas cards. Hers always are among the first to arrive, for she writes her Christmas greetings in the spring and at the same time has a picture made of some part of her house in Astor street.

Her secretary addresses the envelopes while Mrs. Baur is away in the summer, and then early in December out go the hundreds of cards, for Mrs. Baur takes seriously the postmaster's advice to "mail early for delivery before Christmas."

This year's card has a charming photograph of Mrs. Baur sitting at her Carlton table penning the lines that are printed inside the card. With her hair in a coronet braid and in a black velvet evening gown, she looks as though she were ready for the opera.

Mrs. Baur's was the second card received at this desk this year, for the first came from Mr. and Mrs. Franklin M. Miller. It carries conventional Christmas and New Year greetings and an attractive picture of the Millers' new house in Australian avenue in Palm Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Miller leave Sunday to spend the holidays in their southern home. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Strong, and their daughter, Cara, already are there.

Freys to Give Annual Tom and Jerry Party.

Not Christmas greeting cards but bidding the recipients to come for Christmas cheer are cards received from the Charles Daniel Freys for their annual Tom and Jerry party. It will be given from 11 to 2 o'clock on Christmas at their home, 1435 State parkway. They have invited some friends of their son and daughter, Charles Jr. and Barbara, as well as their own contemporaries. Young Mr. Frey does not arrive from Yale, where he is a senior, until Dec. 23, and Miss Frey comes from Sarah Lawrence next Wednesday.

The elder Frey daughter, Mrs. Gail Borden, has moved back into her own apartment in East Chestnut street now that Mr. Borden has returned from a European trip.

Dinner to Precede Dance Club Party.

Printed in red so that they have a Christmasy appearance are invitations Miss Janet Rowe, Miss Virginia Elwood, and Miss Carol Plamondon have sent out to fellow members of the Dance club for a dinner on Thursday, Dec. 29, at 7 o'clock.

The three young hostesses are freshmen at the Girls' Latin school, where the club will give its next dancing party following the dinner, which will be at the Churchill hotel.

Carol is the junior Alfred D. Plamondons' daughter, "Ginger" is Mrs. Carson Elwood's only child, and Janet's mother is Mrs. Louise Rowe. Carol's brother, Alfred Jr., will be at home from school for the party.

Mrs. Charles Dawes Plans Tea for Granddaughter.

Among the many other subdebutante parties planned for the holidays is a tea Mrs. Charles G. Dawes is giving on Dec. 28 at home in Evanston for her granddaughter, Caroline Ericson of Libertyville. Miss Ericson's Winnetka and Dobbs Ferry friends are on the invitation list.

Some of the sophomores at the North Shore Country Day are being invited to a dinner and Princeton Triangle party by their classmate, Susan Warner, on Dec. 27. Miss Warner's sisters, Miss Mary and Miss Dorothy, who is a student at Sarah Lawrence, and their brother, Rawleigh Warner Jr., are giving an eggnog party on Christmas eve for four debutantes, Miss Georgette Hill, Miss Elizabeth Crawford, Miss Jane Zimmerman and Miss Sara Peace. The party will be given at the Warner home in Winnetka. Rawleigh Jr. is returning on Saturday from Lawrenceville.

Rawleigh's cousin, William Rawleigh, will come from Lawrenceville at the same time to spend Christmas

Woman's Athletic Club Has Birthday Tea

Mrs. Franklin G. Clement was one of the younger members of the Woman's Athletic club who took turns pouring yesterday at the tea given to celebrate the club's fortieth anniversary. The tea table was a charming one and looked as though it might have been set for the opening of the club instead of the fortieth birthday party. Mrs. Mark W. Trude, who was in charge of arrangements, had planned it in late Victorian style. The centerpiece was a large bowl of pink roses, and beneath the many ribbons and bows of pink moiré ribbon, and the plates of sandwiches, cakes, and cookies was a lovely lace cloth. The table was lighted by four silver candelabra, each holding two pink candles with elaborate pink shades. The usual handsome silver tea and coffee services were at either end. Mrs. William F. Petersen, president, and some of the past presidents received the hundreds of members who were at the party,

Men Can Shop for Women in Quiet Privacy

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Beaming masculine shoppers are crowding the corners where feminine finery is on sale to "men only." Only men are admitted, but the young experts inside are all exceptionally decorative as well as helpful young women, full of knowledge and advice for the bewildered men.

They know just what any sort of a woman wants; they know the newest colors; they know how to combine colors; they're experts about hosiery, glove sizes, and all about costume jewelry.

These experts give you undivided attention no matter how long your list or how difficult the ladies on that list. Equipped with great imagination, they will astound you with their ability to guess right.

Negligees, lingerie, doo-dads for the hair, slippers, perfume, books, candy, chest pins, clips, and earrings are all collected together in quiet, uncluttered corners where men may shop in private.

Some of these shops are right in men's territory, corners walled off among the suits and coats in the men's departments, so you can feel very much at ease. Timid gentlemen and the mob of last minute shoppers should know about the expert service and the lavish collections.

◆

All laggard gentlemen have about ten days to go. They can use the services of the men's shops and set a record this Christmas for unusual and thoughtful giving.

Mass Will Recall First Service in Chicago Area

The first divine service in the Chicago area, a mass celebrated by Père Marquette 264 years ago on the west bank of the Chicago river, will be recalled tomorrow. A special mass will be celebrated at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, by the Rev. Lawrence Barry in Holy Family Catholic church, 1100 West Roosevelt road. Historical records show that Père Marquette was unable to observe the feast of the Immaculate Conception on Dec. 8 because of illness and delayed the service a week pending his recovery.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The feminine women on your shopping list will be no problem at all to find gifts for if they run true to type and like the lovely scent of April violets.

There are any number of sets of this and that on the beauty shelves these days. [We know because we have looked at all of them.] Among the standouts we unhesitatingly name a bath and sachet set in the true violet motif. It's got just about everything you'll look for in a gift—charm, distinction, fine quality.

The white box is extremely simple, touched here and there with gold, a violet band and in the center of the lid a stylized design of the blossom which gives the contents their lovely fragrance.

Never has the rich, sweet, but not cloying scent of the wood violet been so faithfully translated as in the foursome of beauty gifts in this box. There is a bottle of toilet water, the bottle simple, but stunning with a golden ball for a cap. The toilet water itself is divinely perfumed.

This version of April violet is one that the most critical will approve. It has the warmth, balanced by the right woodsy note, that is the secret of a true violet. It does NOT have that marshmallowish sweet overtone that makes the unsuccessful violet perfume so hard to bear.

There is a big box of dusting powder in the same scent. The powder is as feathery as it is fragrant and the round container is a gay contribution to bathroom decor. A fat cake of fine soap—also in April violet—is the third exciting find in the box.

There are also little April violet sachet tablets, nicely described as "compressed blossoms," which the dainty woman will adore. They're to slip in with linens and lingerie; they impart their enchanting fragrance to everything nearby.

Warner Studio Has Hard Luck Day; Four Actors Ill or Injured

Errol Flynn, though not seriously hurt after Sunday night's fight with Aiden Roark, appeared on the set with a cut lip and loosened bridgework.

W. Arthur McKinney, scout executive of the Boy Scouts' council in Rochester, N. Y., is the new scout executive of the Chicago council. He succeeds Ralph H. Nodine, who died last August. Mr. McKinney entered scouting in Rochester in 1911, becoming scout executive in 1917.

Chicago Schools Open Art Exhibit at Public Library

An art show, in which the works of Chicago elementary and high school pupils are displayed, was opened yesterday in the north corridor of the public library. The first visitors were the crippled children from the Spalding school. Carols were sung by the boys' glee club of the Belding school. Among the exhibits are two large Christmas trees decorated by the young artists.

Rockefellers at Cabinet Dinner of Roosevelts

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Rockefellers dined with Roosevelts tonight at a brilliant White House party opening the capital's social season.

The occasion was the annual cabinet dinner, attended by persons of great wealth like Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., by political leaders and by newspaper reporters.

Secretary and Mrs. Morgenthau were the ranking guests. But many eyes turned toward Secretary Ickes and his 25 year old wife, who was attending her first official function as a cabinet wife.

"It's very exciting," Mrs. Ickes said, chic in a shimmering green lamé with an old fashioned cameo at her throat and her red hair done up in braids.

Youngest and most picturesque guest was 18 year old Eleanor Roosevelt, lone debutante present. Mrs. Roosevelt's niece was down from Boston, wearing a demure black velvet frock, with an off the shoulder neckline and hoop skirt.

◆

After dinner in the paneled state dining room, gleaming with the gold service bought in President Monroe's time, ladies retired to the Green room and the gentlemen talked with the President over their coffee.

Climax of the entertainment, for which additional guests were invited to the East room after dinner, was the introduction by one of Mrs. Roosevelt's dance protégés of the new "Eleanor Glide."

Blonde Mayris Craney and her partner, Edward Fox, showed the brilliant company how the polka, mazurka, and old fashioned barn dances Mrs. Roosevelt likes can be used in modern ballroom dancing. They glided, skipped, hopped, circled, and tip-toed in the four parts of the "Glide" Miss Chaney has dedicated to Mrs. Roosevelt.

◆

Among the dinner guests, in addition to cabinet members, were Joseph M. Patterson, New York publisher, and Mrs. Patterson; Robert McLean of Philadelphia, president of the Associated Press, and Mrs. McLean; Mrs. George H. Earle, wife of the governor of Pennsylvania; Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, and Mrs. Jones; Barry Bingham, Louisville, Ky., publisher, and Mrs. Bingham; Franklin W. Hobbs, Boston mill president, and Mrs. Hobbs; Henry S. Hooker, the President's former law partner, of New York; Gerard B. Lambert, St. Louis manufacturer, and Mrs. Lambert; Mrs. John F. Murray; Miss Josephine Roche, Colorado coal company head and head of the President's public health committee; Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Wickser of Buffalo, N. Y., and Miss Mary Wollner.

Mickey Mouse Is Favorite Movie Star of Children

Not Shirley Temple, but Mickey Mouse is the favorite screen star of Chicago's children. This was announced yesterday by Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., member of a committee from the Woman's exchange, which has been conducting motion picture programs for children. In the first of two surveys made from 300 children, representing a cross section of the juvenile population, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" was voted the favorite picture. Other stars approved were Donald Duck, Dopey, Popeye, Pluto, and Sneezy. Far down the list was Shirley Temple.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Behind the Scenes.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 13.—Get Errol Flynn to tell you what Mrs. Jock Whitney called him after he flattened Adrian Roark and another guest who had insulted him at her polo party. . . . Very hilarious. . . . Hollywood has been singularly unfortunate for Liz Whitney.

University of Pittsburgh's Marshall Goldberg is being offered to the movies, but not much interest. . . . Bing Crosby wanted to join the bill of rights demonstration, but his sponsors refused.

Major studio dickering for movie rights to Mrs. Knute Rockne's book. . . . The Sammy Lees remarried. . . . Anatole Litvak tells me that the Miriam Hopkins rift rumors are ridiculous. . . . You can have Duke university and 14 points in the coast betting marts, or a flat price of 2 to 1 against the southerners.

◆

Income tax agents will bring suit shortly against fifteen Hollywood stars. . . . Hollywood sympathizes with George Burns, of Burns and Allen, feeling that he has been crucified out of all proportion.

Thirty minutes after the news got out that Dick Powell and Joan Blondell were canceling their Warner contracts they called up to make a night club reservation. . . . "I'm sorry," said a captain of service, "but the best we can give you is a table in the second row." . . . No fooling. . . . It happened.

◆

"Dawn Patrol" preview brings to mind the magnificent comeback of Director Edmund Goulding on the Warner lot. . . . Goulding, suave, courtly, cosmopolitan, is one of the most polished persons in this curious town. . . . There is no story teller better than Goulding in the colony, and he is equally at home whether he is writing a play, composing a song or playing musical instruments.

Filming of "Dawn Patrol" was an unusual experience for every one connected with it, and dissipated for all time the legend that the Britishers are lacking in a sense of humor. . . . Basil Rathbone, Errol Flynn, Donald Crisp, the earl of Warwick, and Goulding all have British backgrounds and the picture was made to the accompaniment of more suave ribbing than Hollywood ever has witnessed.

Due to the fact that it was an all-star cast, much of the joking that went on was completely unprintable, but the "whoopee" cushion can be explained.

Niven thought it up, this "whoopee cushion," a rubber bag filled with air and hidden under a pillow on a chair. . . . Dignified women visitors to the set lost all dignity when they sat down on it, for the cushion gave forth a bronx cheer that could be heard for blocks.

The setting for all this horseplay was the beautiful English manners of the cutterups and the expressions of polite and pained shock on the faces of Niven, Flynn, Rathbone, et al, when visitors were embarrassed were the best part of the nonsense.

Olivia De Havilland minced on the set one day. . . . "Hello, Hag," said Crisp, matter-of-factly. . . . "Gad, you are getting fat," commented Flynn. . . . "In the wrong place" was Niven's urbane addition. . . . "I don't think your are getting plump," said Rathbone. "It is just that you are untidy." . . . Olivia fled and never returned.

◆

Throughout the holocaust Goulding remained his own polished self. . . . "Old boy," he'd say to Flynn, "I am not an actor and far be it from me to suggest that you play the scene as I see it, but this is just a thought as to your approach to it." . . . Thereupon Goulding would act out a scene better than any Hollywood actor could act it.

To Goulding, his cast, whether men or women, always is addressed as "darlings." . . . "Now, my darlings," he says gently, but persuasively, "if you will lift your priceless buttocks and chassis and come here we will make cinema history."

When he is well pleased he tells them a story, such as the one about the two walrus-moustached Englishmen dining in a London club. . . . "You buried your wife, today, Cecil," grunted one. . . . "Yes," growled the other, and then as an afterthought: "I had to, you know—she died."

Add Embarrassing Moments: Katharine Cornell's recollection of her experience at Chicago in "Alien Corn". . . . In the play, as you recall, Miss Cornell played the piano brilliantly, particularly the Cesar Franck choral in B minor. . . Actually the playing of the piano was achieved by Doris Madden, off-stage, but the on-stage piano had been hollowed out and placed so that the off-stage piano movement could be placed in it.

It was very hot in Chicago and Miss Madden fainted in the middle of the act. . . . Miss Cornell, with great presence of mind, arose from the piano stool as Miss Madden thumped to the floor and ad libbed to the audience: "Oh, I'm tired. I don't think I'll practice any more."

◆

To those of you who have written in, asking how Romeo Salta has fared with his restaurant, I've splendid news. . . . Salta is the former Trocadero waiter I wrote about, some weeks back, who was putting his life savings into a restaurant of his own.

We dropped in on him last night and he cried tears of pure happiness as he related the rush of business that followed the printing of the story. "Tonight we have had 200 customers," he said, "and they all like our food and it is going to be the merriest Christmas I have ever had." . . . Now isn't that grand?

SYNOPSIS.

Nora Stacy receives a letter from Calcutta from her fiancé, irresponsible Jim Murdock, breaking their engagement. Heartbroken, Nora writes Jim she'll marry the next man who asks her. Jim's family live next door to the modest English cottage where Nora lives with her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Callender. When Bob Matherson of Fairways, rich young bachelor and recent neighbor, proposes to Nora she accepts. Three days before the wedding Jim returns and demands that Nora run away with him. Nora feels morally pledged to Bob, who has settled an income on her aunt. For a wedding present Jim gives Nora her love letters to him—except the one in which she vowed to marry the next man who asked her. Mrs. Pearl Almy, a former attachment of Bob's, who rents a cottage on his estate, gets the letter and sends it to Bob, hoping he'll call off the wedding. But Bob decides to go through with it. To prevent Jim making a scene Bob invites him to be an usher, then leaves him alone in the tower room with a bottle of doctored whisky. Jim revives enough to make a scene at the reception. Bob and Nora motor to London. Alone in their hotel suite Bob has a showdown with Nora. He tells her he married her for convenience, too. They agree that their marriage will be in name only. Bob and his sister's husband, David Longton, are in the aircraft armament business for the government. Mrs. Almy hints that Bob is in difficulty because of a leakage of information. The honeymooners return and Mrs. Callender is invited to dine with them and the Longtons at Fairways.

INSTALMENT XV.

A TRYING DINNER PARTY.

The car which had called at Melbury House, now arrived at the cottage.

Mrs. Callender did not feel very much like going to Fairways for dinner, but she could not bear to be left out of anything, so it had not been difficult to persuade her.

Mr. Matherson was in the study, Beals said. So were the Longtons and Mrs. Rawlings, and Bob was at the telephone. They were having cocktails, and it all looked pleasantly informal, although Cissy Longton seemed slightly out of temper.

"Bob's talking to Pearl Almy," she said, as she waved a greeting to Nora and Aunt Dorothy. "She's found out he's back."

"O ? . . . Nora's just come in," Bob was saying. "I'll get her to speak to you."

He put his hand over the mouthpiece. "Ask Pearl to dinner, Nora. I think she rather expects it."

Nora managed a perfectly good smile.

"I promised to obey my husband," she said.

She didn't sound as though she was a bit jealous of Bob's old flame, as she spoke to Pearl.

" . . . No, please don't bother to change. Come just as you are. We're not dressing tonight."

"That's very nice of you . . . Nora, I am going to ask you something that I didn't like to ask Bob. Jim Murdock is here and he wants to apologize. He really is most frightfully sorry for the way he behaved over your wedding. Do you think Bob would mind if I brought him along, too?"

Something went thump in Nora's throat.

She heard herself say: "I'll ask him." And then she put her hand over the mouthpiece. "Mrs. Almy wants to know if she may bring Jim Murdock. She says he would like to apologize."

Bob took the instrument out of her hands.

"By all means, Pearl . . . and tell him not to bother about the apologizing. Hurry along, both of you."

Mrs. Callender sat speechless.

If only she dared tell Bob the nasty things Mrs. Almy had hinted that afternoon, but there really wasn't time.

Bob was looking at his wife to see how she was taking it. Nora smiled at him in a fixed way.

"Quite a homecoming we're having," she said. Then she turned to Beals who was going the rounds again with his tray. "There will be two more for dinner," she told him.

Jim and Mrs. Almy arrived and were served with cocktails. Mrs. Almy had brought Bonzo with her, explaining that she knew Bob and Nora wouldn't mind, and he did so hate being left at home.

Every now and again during her strange honeymoon a sense of unreality had swept over Nora. It was with her now as she shook hands with Mrs. Almy and Jim. It couldn't be true that she was mistress of this house and the titular wife of Robert Matherson.

The agony was on her again as Jim took her hand, and then bent over it, brushing it lightly with his lips. The faint scorn in his eyes, lit with laughing mockery, hurt and angered her. She had thought herself completely poised where Jim Murdock was concerned, and she wasn't.

Fortunately, almost immediately Beals announced dinner, and Bonzo came along with them, his nose at his mistress' heels. He was an obedient and well behaved little fellow.

When they were settled at table and hardly started on the soup, Nora began to feel Jim's nearness. They were sitting rather close together, for there had not been time for Beals and the parlormaid to put another leaf in the table which had originally been planned for six.

His arm brushed hers constantly, but he had the appearance of being unaware of it. He hardly spoke to her at all, reserving his blandishments for Cissy, who sat on his right. Yet Nora knew that subtly Jim was wooing her and her nerves were like fiddle strings.

The climax came with dessert. Just as Nora reached to help herself to a pear from the dish Beals was offering, Jim put his hand on her knee with unmistakable decision, and she was so startled that she dropped the pear and uttered a sharp little cry.

Everybody looked at her and so did Jim, who had been talking to Cissy.

Nora's suntan burned brick red.

"I think it was the dog—he must have brushed me," she said, hoping to cover her confusion.

Pearl Almy turned to look behind her chair, and then regarded Nora with hard eyes.

"Bonzo is here, beside me," she said.

"Perhaps it was I," said Jim, with his swashbuckler's smile that set his little mustache rakishly askew. "I apologize for my clumsiness."

She knew that Cissy was looking at her in a puzzled way, and that Aunt Dorothy had gone plum colored.

But it was Pearl Almy's expression that told her something she had not remotely guessed before.

If Mrs. Almy had ever been in love with Bob, she wasn't in love with him now. She was in love with Jim Murdock.

Nora took her women guests into the big hall and the parlormaid brought them coffee and cigarets. Even Aunt Dorothy took a cigaret, handling it in an unaccustomed fashion, but none the less determinedly.

That dinner had been a great trial to her, and although she was very kind hearted and fond of animals, she would dearly have loved to kick the inoffensive Bonzo who now lay asleep under his mistress' feet.

Pearl Almy was chatting brightly with Cissy, but whenever her eyes chanced to light on Nora they were as hard and cold as green pebbles.

"No," Cissy was saying, "I don't think there is anything for Bob and David to worry about, but it is kind of you to be anxious on their account, Pearl."

Mrs. Callender blew out a breath of relief. She guessed that Mrs. Almy had brought up the subject of the slump in Matherson and Longton's prestige, and that Mrs. Longton had reassured her.

"I think I must go, now," she said. "I've had a tiring day, Nora."

Nora sent for the car to take her aunt home, and shortly after the men came out of the diningroom, Mrs. Almy said she had had a tiring day, too, and she begged to be allowed to leave, which she did almost immediately, taking Jim Murdock with her.

Bob and David went into the study, but after Cissy and Mrs. Rawlings had departed for bed about half an hour later, Nora looked in and they weren't there.

She wondered if David had gone to bed, too. She wanted to see Bob, not for anything special, but just to get the feeling of his reaction to what had happened at the dinner table. She would like to make it clear to him that she had not invited that hand on her knee.

And then, coming out of the study, she saw that the little door leading to the Tower room was ajar. Bob's hidey-hole. He must be up there. Would he mind if she intruded on him? Well, she just had to see him, whether he minded or not.

The Loveliest Hair Style Is Always One Suited to You

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The last word on hair styling is no longer the up or down of it, but the sheer loveliness of it. If it's lovelier up on you, wear it up. If it's lovelier down, don't wear it up just to be chic. You sit in front of your mirror and plan out a coiffure of your very own, up or down or midway, and if it is becoming of style and lovely of texture, then you have what's considered the smartest and most chic coiffure of the season. That's the current propaganda. Just let hair be your loveliest contribution in the ensemble that is you, and you are right up in the front ranks with the cream of them.

Now, you just cannot talk hair loveliness without introducing a hairbrush, can you? Important as is shampooing, important as is keeping the weeping ends from straying, important as is a clean face is the brushed look to the hair. Brushing increases the blood supply to the hair roots and nothing is more hair beautifying than supplying it with nourishment at the roots. Brushing removes dirt and dandruff flakes. It distributes the natural oil and makes the hair appear glossy and smooth, and a point to be registered by many of our sex is that brushing in large measure will air the hair and eliminate the odor of cooking and of cigarets.

But don't tip the head down and brush. Brush the hair away from the scalp. When you have finished you know from the feeling of life in the scalp that you've done a good job. Permanents nowadays are known to resist the hairbrush, coming through the brushing test as even more lovely permanents.

But because of this latest propaganda that hair be lovely above all else, let us beg you for the rest of this season, at least, while hair is so much in the public eye, to massage the scalp daily for two minutes at least. All you do is to hold the fingertips firmly against the sides of the head and move the scalp itself with the fingers. Just slowly knead the scalp, going over the entire head.

Let Youngster Make Simple Holiday Gifts

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

One of the nicest ways of observing Christmas in the true spirit of the season, I mentioned several days ago, is that you give your children the opportunity to make the presents they are going to give to those they love. And of course it's unthinkable that Christmas should mean to your child only getting; it surely will mean giving.

To begin with, try to guide the children to give a gift that's "just exactly what I wanted." A little watching and listening for a word dropped here and there will furnish a clew to what Daddy wants, what Grandma needs, or what Aunt Isabel longs for.

Help your child if he's discouraged, or if he asks you to.

The following is a list among which you will, I believe, find something for each member of the family, no matter how small he or she may be, to make with his or her hands: Blotters with fancy covers; calendars; scrap book with decorative cover; portfolio; kitchen memo pads; oilcloth place doilies or bridge table cover; bean bags; bags for clothespins, personal laundry, marbles, gloves, and crocheted kitchen cloth or lettuce bag.

Book covers.

Silk, satin or linen envelope folders for gloves, underwear, etc.

Ornaments for the Christmas tree such as popcorn strings, paper ring strings, tarleton stockings or bags filled with popcorn or assorted toys.

Potholders.

Cloth animals.

Sculpture in clay—perhaps, also, colored and baked.

The Housewife

Now that the holidays are almost here and the youngsters are home from school be sure to see that you have nonskid rugs in your rooms. Every year thousands of falls are caused simply by rugs that slip out from under. Yet it's so easy to prevent this type of accident.

Just provide each scatter rug with a cushion rug holder. It will keep it from slipping and will act as a cushion, too. The wildest youngster or dog won't budge it. This invention is sold by the yard and comes 24, 32, and 48 inches wide. Its cost for a rug that measures 24 by 36 inches is under a dollar. And for one 27 by 54 very little over.

Chinese Girl Will Be Guest in City.

Among the dozens of classmates and college friends who will be guests in Chicago homes over the holidays none will be more interesting to meet than the young Chinese girl who is to visit the Percy Wilsons. She is Miss Jean Yang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Yang-Pao-Ling of Tientsin, China.

Miss Yang is a classmate at Vassar of the Wilsons' daughter, Miss Patricia Wilson. Miss Wilson and her brother, Ted, who is a student at the Pawling school, are entertaining at cocktails on Dec. 26 at the Lake Shore Drive hotel for Miss Yang. Miss Wilson is arriving on Saturday for the holidays; Ted is arriving on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Affleck of Winnetka will give a musical at home Sunday night for their daughter, Jane, who arrives on Saturday from the Shipley school in Philadelphia. Jane will give a skating party on Dec. 21 at the Indian Hill club.

Geneva Holiday Dance for Teen Age Group.

Mrs. William D. Bangs, the David McDougals and the LeBaron Turners, all of Geneva, are giving a dinner-dance at the Geneva Golf club on Dec. 22, for young people 14, 15 and 16 years of age.

Mrs. John Gould Ralston is planning a dinner and Princeton Triangle club party for her sub-debutante daughter, Joan. The dinner will be given at the Casino.

The Tavern will give a Christmas party for members and their children from 12:30 until 4:30 o'clock on Sunday. There will be a buffet luncheon for seniors and juniors. Miss Helen Jepson, who will be the especial guest of the club, may contribute to the children's amusement, but the youngsters will be well amused in any case by a troup of performing dogs, monkeys, canaries, cockatoos and macaws. "Jimmy the Wonder Monkey" also will be present, and there will be favors for every child.

Galt-Rickcords Nuptials Dec. 27.

Miss Anne Rickcords and William C. Galt will have a quiet home wedding on Tuesday, Dec. 27. The ceremony, to be witnessed only by the families, will be solemnized at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stanley Rickcords, in State parkway. The Rev. Duncan Browne will officiate. A few friends will be invited to the reception.

The bride will be attended by her two cousins, the Misses Jessica and Elizabeth Hambleton, and the bridegroom will have his two brothers, Arthur T. Galt Jr. and Raymond Galt, as attendants.

Harvey Roswell Masons Are Parents of Son.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Roswell Mason are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, Edward Hopkins Mason, on Dec. 8 at the Evanston hospital. The baby is named for his paternal grandfather, the late Edward H. Mason, who was a grandson of Roswell B. Mason, mayor of Chicago at the time of the great fire of 1871.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bledsoe of Carrollton, Ga., are the baby's maternal grandparents.

Waldo Logan leaves today for Santo Domingo and Porto Rico on a scientific expedition backed by Beloit college. The members of the expedition hope to penetrate three subterranean lakes that have never been explored before. The men will take their lighting equipment and their cameras to the bottom of the lake. Mr. Logan will be away until February.

"Not a thing in the world" was the answer Carter H. Harrison gave yesterday to the question, "What are you doing tomorrow to celebrate your 51st wedding anniversary?" On the occasion of their golden anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Harrison were the especial guests at a dinner given by one of their bridesmaids of a half century ago, Mrs. Wentworth G. Field.

Present New Carols by Mrs. Scott Today.

Because of her work as author of numerous Christmas anthems, Mrs. Walter Dill Scott is to be the especial guest at a tea the Friends of American Writers are giving this afternoon in the Chicago Athletic association building. Six new carols and anthems, with words by Mrs. Scott and music by Bethuel Gross, young Chicago choir director and composer, will be heard. Previous collaboration between the author and the composer produced ten anthems, which were published about a year ago.

Mrs. Scott, who holds a Ph. D. degree from the University of Halle, and who is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, has published two volumes of poetry, "Flower Babies" and "A Year with the Fairies." She composed her first Christmas carol in 1933 when the University Guild asked her to write a poem for its annual Twelfth Night dinner.

Members of the Italy America society and their guests will hear an illustrated lecture on "The Development of Textiles in Italy" at 11:30 o'clock today at the Drake hotel. Mme. Mary E. Paiola, lecturer for many years at the National Museum in Naples, will be the speaker.

Attractive newcomers to Chicago are Mr. and Mrs. J. Mitchell Hamer, who have moved here from Indianapolis. The Hamers and their daughter, Phyllis Jean, will live on the north shore.

Put Art Above the Applause in Stock Program

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A well filled Orchestra hall had an opportunity yesterday afternoon to appraise the work of two musicians who differ in age, sex, nationality, and choice of specialty, but have in common certain qualities which are uniquely important from the standpoint of art.

The two musicians are Myra Hess and Frederick Stock. The English pianist played the Schumann Concerto with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The German-American conductor led his men through a revealing performance of the Schubert C major symphony.

Contempt for cheaply bought applause and horror of effect for its own sake are two of the related characteristics which they share. On the positive side is the youthful eagerness with which both persons approach each fresh performance of even the most familiar work. They understand thoroughly that a good piece of music does not become hopelessly threadbare and that an honest presentation of it often reveals to the most experienced listener excellences which he had simply never noticed before.

Miss Hess played the concerto with her usual introspective fervor, achieving many an uncommonly beautiful effect by the sheer vigor of her understatement. The piece was gray, half-lit, austere, until the very last movement. There, by contrast with what had gone before, the effect was almost clangorously brilliant, although objectively it was nothing of the sort.

This pianist, in her search for subtle tonal and dynamic effects, deliberately ignores the ample golden romanticism of the concerto. It is good that all pianists do not conceive the piece as she does. Good, also, that one pianist does conceive it so, and that she is willing to surrender countless opportunities for arresting effect in order to communicate this conception to her listeners.

Mr. Stock made the Schubert symphony flow unaffectedly along, confident that its wonderful lyricism would speak for itself and that an attempt to ring a bell, figuratively, every time a good idea came along would be not only unnecessary but actually harmful.

For one thing, there would be too much bell ringing. For another, the songful symphony would turn into a succession of effects—each one interesting, perhaps, but bought at a price which we should not be willing to pay.

Today's Features

ON W-G-N.

Jean Tennyson, opera star now appearing in Chicago, will be interviewed on Quin Ryan's News Commentary at 11:30 a. m. today.

Jean Tennyson.

A new audience studio program titled the Music Counter, featuring Edna O'Dell, Three Men, and a Maid, the Four Grenadiers, and the W-G-N chorus and orchestra under the baton of Harold Stokes, will replace the Melodies from the Sky show starting at 9:30 this evening. Jess Kirkpatrick will be master of ceremonies. He will be assisted by "Masie," a girl who works behind a mythical music counter selling popular melodies to the members of the cast, who are to present the numbers in musical form. Selections this evening include "Have You Forgotten So Soon," "What Goes On Here in My Heart," "Sweet Genevieve," and "My Reverie."

W-G-N's dramatic shows for this evening include the Lone Ranger at 7:30, the Green Hornet at 8, and Famous Jury Trials at 9 p. m.

U. of I. Students Come from Every State Except One

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Registration records at the University of Illinois show the 13,872 resident students come from every county of the state, from every state except Nevada, from three United States territories or possessions, and from twenty-one foreign countries. Illinois furnished 12,080 students, or 87 per cent of the enrollment, which includes 12,631 students in Urbana-Champaign, and 1,241 in the Chicago departments.

Cook county leads with 4,026 students, or approximately 30 per cent of the total enrollment; Champaign county is second with 1,571. New York leads in the out of state enrollment with 291 students. Indiana is second with 231, and Missouri third with 216. Panama Canal Zone and the Hawaiian Islands each have one students, while five are from the Philippine Islands. Canada has thirteen and Mexico two, Venezuela two, and Brazil one.

Beauty Contest Winners Pick a Beautiful Man

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—They had a beauty contest for cab drivers here. Two hundred appeared and the ten who got into the finals paraded in shorts. The prize was a $100 contract for a week's acting in a movie. The judges were four girl beauty contestants. They applied a tape measure to the bulging biceps and knobby knees of the cabbies. Then they announced the winner: Dark-haired, blushing Phil Haller.

Mid-Day Club Party.

The annual open house and Christmas party of the Mid-Day club will be held Saturday in the headquarters in the First National bank building.

LAST WEDNESDAY'S QUESTIONS.

Question 54: Only North-South vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Double	Redouble	?

You are South, and hold:

♠ A Q ♥ Q 8 ♦ 10 4 3 2 ♣ Q J 10 8 4.

What call do you make?

Question 55: Both sides vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	?

You are South and hold:

♠ A Q J 8 4 ♥ K 10 8 ♦ J 4 ♣ 10 4 3.

What call do you make now?

A pamphlet containing all questions and answers, demerits, and credits of this self-rating examination, and also announcing the few changes in the Culbertson system for 1939, will be mailed free of charge to any reader requesting it. Write to Ely Culbertson, care of this newspaper, plainly printing your name and address, and inclosing a 3 cent stamp.

[Answers at end of this article.]

TODAY'S HAND.

West, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♦ K 8 7 5
♣ A K 3

WEST
♠ K J 9 8 4
♥ K 7 2
♦ A Q 9 6
♣ 7

EAST
♠ 10 7 6 5
♥ 10 9 4 3
♦ J

SOUTH
♥ Q 8
♦ 10 4 3 2
♣ Q J 10 8 4

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Double	Redouble	2 no tr'p
Pass	3 no tr'p	Pass	Pass
Pass

The crucial point of this hand was South's response to his partner's take-out double. I am afraid that many players holding South's hand would be guilty of a horrible two club bid as a take-out of the redouble, or possibly a much less horrible, but still not good, one no trump take-out. The fact is that South should think very highly of his hand, on the bidding, and should select a bid thoroughly expressive of that satisfaction. A sound player in South's position would reason that something was "rotten in Denmark" with the bidding up to that point. It would be impossible to devise a hand that would give West a sound opening bid, North a sound vulnerable double, East a sound redouble, and which still would leave South with all the honor cards he actually held. South's reasoning therefore should be "somebody is lying," and, of course, he should not suspect his own vulnerable partner. Despite South's strength, he should not be too optimistic about making a game in a minor suit, but should look on no trump as the logical destination.

ANSWERS TO LAST WEDNESDAY'S QUESTIONS.

Q. No. 54: You should bid two no trump. Somebody at the table is "lying," but you must trust your partner who made a vulnerable double. Probably East's redouble was either the silly type, based on nothing but spade support, or was an out-and-out psychic. At any rate, you have a strong hand and two likely stoppers in the adversely bid suit. If you were to bid two clubs at this point it would be a weakness response and would place a terrible burden on your partner, who could not be expected to realize you had such general strength. A three club bid is not much better. Partner cannot be expected to bid no trump because it is almost impossible that he should have a spade stopper. For fuller explanation of the prescribed two no trump bid, see Today's Hand above. [25 points demerit for 2 clubs; 15 points demerit for 1 no trump, 3 no trump, or 3 clubs; 35 points demerit for any other call, including a pass.]

Q. No. 55: You should bid two no trump. The next choice is three no trump. A two spade rebid would be entirely too conservative in the light of North's bidding, and would not indicate the heart strength you hold. [7 points demerit for 3 no trump; 15 points demerit for 3 spades; 20 points demerit for 2 spades; 30 points demerit for 3 clubs; 35 points demerit for any other call.]

Tomorrow's Hand

BEES, DODGERS COMPLETE TWO PLAYER DEALS

Frankhouse Traded for Stripp.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 13.—The Brooklyn Dodgers and the Boston Bees set an example of feverish trading activity today, completing two deals while other delegates to the major league meetings produced nothing but rumors.

One of these transactions returned Infielder Joe Stripp to Brooklyn and sent Pitcher Fred Frankhouse back to Boston in exchange. This maneuver was made in the evening.

Hassett Goes to Bees.

In an earlier deal the Dodgers ceded First Baseman Buddy Hassett and Outfielder Jim Outlaw to the Bees, receiving in return Outfielder Gene Moore and Pitcher Ira Hutchinson. In swinging the transaction the Dodgers first bought Pitcher Lew Krausse from Elmira and used him, together with a cash payment, to get Outlaw from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Stripp was with Brooklyn from the start of 1932 through the 1937 season. On Oct. 5, 1937, he figured in a deal which sent him to St. Louis and transferred Leo Durocher, new Dodger boss, to Brooklyn. In the middle of last season he was waived to Boston by the Cardinals and became the Bees' regular third baseman.

Frankhouse was traded to Boston by St. Louis in the 1930 season, remained in Boston until Feb. 6, 1936, when he went to Brooklyn in a swap which involved Gene Moore.

Cavarretta to Get Old Job.

Stripp has played eleven years in the majors with Cincinnati, Brooklyn, St. Louis, and Boston. Frankhouse has been in the majors for twelve seasons, with St. Louis, Boston, and Brooklyn. Frankhouse is 34 and Stripp 35.

The rumorsmiths, many of whom have been in a froth for weeks anent the Cubs' first base situation, are pretty well flattened. Gabby Hartnett made it known today that all along he has intended to restore Phil Cavarretta to the position he held throughout the 1935 season and world series before he was eclipsed in assignments, if not talents, by that merry wag, Rip Collins.

There have been times since the purchase of Collins, other than the spans in which Collins was incapacitated, when it was planned to restore Philip to his erstwhile eminence. But former Manager Grimm usually swerved away from the idea when Cavarretta started slashing drives a few feet outside the right foul line. These near hits of Phil's always provoked Charley, and after looking in the book at Collins' Cardinal record the then manager would put Collins back to work. Collins played throughout most of last season and through the world series.

Many Rumors Fly.

Because Gabby has been making snippy remarks about Rip since the close of the season, especially about Rip's flair for making funny jokes in lieu of base hits, the Cubs have been mixed up in every first baseman rumor this fall. First it was Johnny Mize, who was doped to come to the Cubs. Then it was Zeke Bonura. Then Gus Suhr, followed by Johnny McCarthy and Buddy Hassett. And the lads were getting ready to smoke up Elby Fletcher when Gabby called a halt with his definite Cavarretta announcement.

Bill Terry, Giants' skipper, was ribbing Gabby at a luncheon given newspaper men. Gabby started the repartee by remarking that the statisticians must have become confused in compiling Bonura's past records, figuring that the RBI column stood for runs booted in instead of runs batted in.

Terry promptly chided Gabby with the remark that the Cubs probably would continue to use one of the best first base possibilities in the league as a utility outfielder and pinch batter. It was then that Gabby committed himself on the Cavarretta program.

Reluctant to Stop Rumors.

Gabby, in enlarging upon the confidence to Terry, said that he had allowed himself to be considered a bidder for Mize, et al, simply in the interest of keeping presses from being halted for lack of news, synthetic as Gabby knew, way down in his big Irish heart, such conjectures would prove to be.

Hartnett now says that he would like to have got Mize, but not at the $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 asked, and that he would enjoy having Suhr on his roster, but knew such a deal never had been a possibility. He added he wasn't the least interested in Hassett, and had no pangs when the Dodgers traded crooning Buddy to the Bees. He said he wouldn't make any kind of a bid for Fletcher, who appears to have been left out of work with the Bees' acquisition of Hassett.

President Wrigley of the Cubs moved up his dinner to also ran National league owners to tonight instead of tomorrow night as previously planned.

It was reported that Mr. Wrigley had been irked by a line in THE TRIB-

Hawks Devise a Jolly Party to Welcome Toronto Squad

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Joseph Farrell, that gay Elsa Maxwell of ice hockey, is preparing a party for the Toronto Maple Leafs when they come to the Chicago Stadium tomorrow evening to play the Blackhawks.

The germ of this particular fête, according to Mr. Farrell, originated in a story written by a Toronto newspaper man on Dec. 8, two days before the Hawks' last visit to Toronto. Speaking quite frankly, Mr. Farrell opined that the piece was so warm that he had to send out for a pair of welder's goggles in order to finish reading it.

The nubbin of the essay was a guess at what might happen if Toronto fans treated the Hawks, when they visited up that way, in the same fashion as the Leafs are greeted by the Hawks' public when they come down here.

What a Reception!

Following out that trend of thought, the article suggested that if the Chicago form of hospitality were adopted in Toronto the papers would be filled days beforehand with all manner of blasts at the oncoming Hawks. It would be necessary to include the fact that on the Leafs' last visit to Chicago both officials were grand larcenists in the employ of the Hawks.

Continuing along this channel of what might happen if Toronto gave the Hawks the kind of reception the writer avers Chicago gives the Leafs, he also includes the fans. He cites the avalanches of deceased vegetation, cards, etc., which shower on the Stadium ice when the officials and the Leafs appear and points out that Leaf fans would have to do likewise if they would follow Hawk customers' methods. The players themselves would have to pick out one Hawk player and give him the works, to follow the Chicagoans' own at-home treatment of certain individual Leafs. The Toronto organist would be called upon to beat out a flock of crowd-rousing tunes.

Farrell Is Impressed.

Of course, the whole business was all supposition, as the writer concluded that he didn't expect to see any such goings-on when the Hawks and Leafs did meet on the 10th. [He didn't. He simply saw the Leafs hand the Hawks an orthodox 4 to 1 trimming, without benefit of mayhem.]

Nevertheless, his playful guessing made a very deep impression on Mr. Farrell. The latter is definitly opposed to such blood and thunder brawls as the author of the article suggested, no matter whether they are held in Chicago, Toronto, or Broken Bow, Neb. Joseph is all in favor of nice, clean parties, and to this end he is seeking to arrange for tomorrow night's game the sort of welcome the Leafs might like, poor fellows.

Mr. Farrell will endeavor to have Conny Smythe, Toronto manager, make a solo appearance in midice before the contest, at which time Organist Al Melgard will play "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." According to the plan both of the game officials will be lured into the Stadium cellar, handcuffed and gagged and kept that way for the duration of the game. Mr. Farrell will ask Smythe and Manager Bill Stewart of the Hawks to change seats at game time and will suggest that Smythe make all Chicago line changes and call penalties on the Hawks. He will request Stewart to keep his trap shut.

Have a Violet.

Red Horner will be presented with a bouquet of violets by Chicago's defense quartet of Earl Seibert, Bill MacKenzie, Alex Levinsky, and Art Wiebe, between the first and second periods. Maestro Farrell also is trying to organize a special cheering section of Hawk fans who will release a bunch of blue and white balloons as soon as the first Toronto goal is scored. At the conclusion of the match this little bloc will come onto the ice and spell out "Merry Christmas, Leafs!"

There was a twinkle in the Farrell eye as he revealed what he thinks will be a perfect climax to the party. That could come to pass if the game should result in a tie. In this event, Joe's master stroke would be to award a goal to the Leafs just to show that we have the old yule spirit.

COLLEGE TEAMS PLAY TONIGHT IN DOUBLE-HEADER

La Salle, Wesleyan Open Coliseum Program.

The Coliseum will open its doors to college basketball tonight when the first of a series of double-headers will be presented. In the first game, starting at 8:15 o'clock, Illinois Wesleyan will meet La Salle college of Philadelphia and an hour later Wayne university of Detroit will battle the University of Cincinnati.

The four quintets will go into tonight's contests with records unmarred by defeat.

Wesleyan Wants to Win.

Illinois Wesleyan regards tonight's battle with La Salle as the most important on its schedule. After finishing with the Philadelphia team, Coach Harry Bell will lead the Bloomington, Ill. squad southward for a trip that will end in Pensacola, Fla., the day after Christmas.

Coach Len Tanseer of La Salle led his squad into the city last night. He said it is the strongest quintet he has directed in his six years at the Philadelphia college. Three squad members, Tommy Carroll, Edward Krupa, and John Brnick, played together in high school and won a Philadelphia Catholic league championship.

Carroll, a forward, weighs 196 pounds and is 6 feet 2 inches tall. Krupa, who plays center, is eight pounds heavier and one inch taller than Carroll.

Bob Morrow, a sophomore from Bloom High school of Chicago Heights, has earned a starting guard assignment for Wesleyan. He is a 215 pounder who was the star half back on Wesleyan's football team last fall.

Capelle Is a Star.

Nicknames that may be unfamiliar to Chicagoans will be carried into the two battles. Illinois Wesleyan is known as the Titans, La Salle as the Explorers, Cincinnati as the Bearcats, and Wayne as the Tartans.

Lou Capelle, giant center and high scorer two years ago, has returned to Cincinnati, and is giving Gordon Iliff, the team's high point man last season, a fight for honors. They are backed up by two experienced guards, Bob Kamp, and Ed Jucker. For the fifth starting position Coach Walter Van Winkle has picked Bob Dalton, another veteran.

Gordon Clayton, a center who is 6 feet 3½ inches tall, is considered Wayne's outstanding player. Another valuable man is James Garretson, 6 foot 3 inch forward. Probable lineups:

WESLEYAN.		LA SALLE.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

JOE McCARTHY enjoys winning world titles with his Yankee baseball team, but gets his real thrill out of answering questions such as what was the lineup of the 1908 Milwaukee club, the 1908 Columbus team, the White Sox of 1906, the Cubs of 1910, et cetera. . . . And he can give the correct answers. . . . Don Ameche, radio and movie headliner, and Chester Lauck [Lum of Lum and Abner] have a stable of seven horses, some of which will race at Santa Anita this winter. . . . Beans Reardon, National league umpire, is a salesman for a Los Angeles brewery in the off season. . . . Can't a Guy Make One Mistake?

Six to nothing for Southern California. It looks kinda shaky. Then a feller named Ward gets on a national radio hookup between halves and sez, "The Irish are going to win by two touchdowns." Sez I, looking along the bar, "I can lick any Dutchman in the house that thinks different." And down came the thunder from the sky. Boy, did I stick my chin out. The nurses were swell to me, though. —Navillus.

Dad's Complaint.

I know not if this be the house
Called home since long ago,
Since daughter went away to school
The place has altered so.

All is so very circumspect,
There's nothing out of place;
No bobbie pins are strewn about,
Nor fixings for the face.

The telephone is strangely mute,
There are no calls for dates,
Nobody cops my sox and ties
Nor my miscues berates.

This house is too blamed orderly,
One seems a guest in it—
But she'll be back at Christmas time
And muss things up a bit.

I've a wonderful sense of humor,
And they say I'm pretty, too;
I play an excellent game of bridge
And I'm good at pitching woo.
I can sew and I can cook
And I can even bake a cake,
And, gee, I must be clever,
For more than once I've made the Wake.
But I think I'm just a failure
And I'm feeling awfully blue,
I've got a lot of everything,
But another gal has you.

She comes with music ringing in her laugh,
Her cheeks are ruddy as the morning skies,
And as she trips across the verdant fields
The very dawn seems prisoned in her eyes.

We marvel at her beauty and our hearts
Are kindled by the sunshine of her smile;
And lo, we leave the drudgery of books
To breathe her wholesome redolence awhile.

She goes; and as we gaze with misty eyes
Where her lithe figure fades on yonder hill,
The falling snowflakes whiten all the fields,

CLARK REPORTED ON WAY OUT AS COACH OF LIONS

Dutch Denies Conferring with Ram Officials.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Earl [Dutch] Clark denied tonight that he had conferred with Cleveland Ram officals regarding a position as coach or that he has arranged to relinquish his place as coach of the Detroit Lions.

Dutch Clark.

"There always is the possibility that I will be at liberty, for I am a football coach," Clark said, discussing the reports. "I am still under contract here and will confer with Owner G. A. Richards in California late this month. We didn't win the championship, you know, and sometimes those things count.

Approached at League Meeting.

"As for the Cleveland matter," the former National league star said, "I was asked by representatives of the club at the league meeting in New York last week whether I would be interested in a proposition to coach their team. I told them if Detroit decided to make a change, quite naturally I would be interested. Beyond that the matter was not discussed, because I was in no position to discuss it and because the Cleveland representatives were not empowered to conduct any negotiations."

At the time of the National league meeting in New York, Ram directors were in conference in Cleveland with Cliff Battles, former Washington back field star. Battles was called from New York, where he is assistant coach to Lou Little at Columbia. Cleveland is seeking a coach to relieve Art Lewis, who succeeded Hugo Bezdek in mid-season and led the Rams to four victories.

Claim Art Is Too Young.

Cleveland directors consider Lewis too young and inexperienced to handle a National league team. They have asked him to remain as an assistant coach or in some other capacity. Lewis said in New York he was inclined to remain if Clark was named head coach.

The reports said Gus Dorais, of the University of Detroit; Charles Bachman, of Michigan State, and Jock Sutherland of Pittsburgh were among those being sought as head coach of the Detroit club.

PLAYER ON PREP FIVE FAINTS; DIES DURING TIME OUT

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Eugene Crank, junior basketball forward on the Bloomington High second team, died tonight in a dressing room following a fainting spell during the school's game with Clinton High's second team. The game was finished while efforts were being made to revive the youth, but a contest scheduled between the two schools' first teams was canceled.

Crank, 17 years old, fainted during a time out in the first half and was carried to the dressing room for treatment. A pulmotor was used in an effort to revive him, but he died without regaining consciousness.

Coroner Leo Hemmele attributed the youth's death to a heart attack.

Crank, the son of Mrs. Geneva Crank, a widow, was also a baseball player.

COACHES HONOR TWO BEARS AND ONE CARDINAL

Giants and Packers Dominate Lineup.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Three Chicago players, two Bears and a Cardinal, were named on the All-National league football team selected yesterday by the league's ten coaches. Joe Stydahar, Bear tackle, and Gaynell Tinsley, the Cardinals' pass catching end, won places for the second consecutive year. The other Chicagoan, Danny Fortmann, Bear guard, was honored for the first time.

Green Bay, western division winner, and the New York Giants, who won the league championship by beating the Packers, 23 to 17, last Sunday placed three men apiece on the first team. Ed Danowski, the league's leading passer; Mel Hein, veteran center, and Tackle Ed Widseth represented the Giants. It was the sixth consecutive year on the coaches' team for Hein.

Three Packers Represented.

Don Hutson, end; Russ Letlow, guard, and Clark Hinkle, full back, the league's leading scorer, were chosen from the Packer squad which returned yesterday from the playoff in New York.

The first team was rounded out by Lloyd Cardwell, former Nebraska star, whose work at right half back for Detroit earned him his first all-league berth, and Ace Parker, the baseball player who does Brooklyn's quarter backing.

Widseth, a former Minnesota star who was a member of THE TRIBUNE'S 1937 All-Star team, led the balloting with 46 points, one more than Hinkle, who was named for the third consecutive year. Hein received 43 points and Hutson 41.

Hein's selection depended upon eastern division votes. In the west the vote went to Pete Bausch, of the Bears, who was placed on the second team. George Musso, veteran Bear guard, also received a place on the second team.

Isbell on Second Team.

Cecil Isbell, the former Purdue triple threat man who led the All-Stars to victory over the Washington Redskins last summer then went on to stardom in his first year as a professional, was put on the second team with Whizzer White, the Pittsburgh freshman and Rhodes scholar who won the ground gaining championship with 567 yards.

John Drake, a teammate of Isbell at Purdue, landed the second team full back post. Last year, Drake, who this season was regarded by many as the outstanding all around back in the league, did not finish high enough in the balloting to earn a place on either eleven.

Only three first year men succeeded in impressing the coaches sufficiently to merit selection among the first twenty-two and all three were placed on the second team. In addition to Isbell and White, Bruiser Kinard, a tackle from Mississippi who went from THE TRIBUNE'S All-Star squad to the Brooklyn Dodgers, was given a place.

Tinsley and Hutson were chosen principally on their offensive ability. Tinsley set a new league record for pass receptions, gathering in forty-one for 516 yards. Hutson finished second in this department, catching thirty-two passes. His reception gained 548 yards and nine touchdowns.

Well, Here's Mr. Hewitt.

The second team was flanked by a couple of old pro league war horses, Bill Hewitt, once of the Bears and now of Philadelphia, and Milt Gantenbein of Green Bay. Hewitt had one of his best years, but gained his greatest following among the coaches for his play in the final game of the season when the Eagles upset the Detroit Lions, 21 to 7.

The big surprise in the voting came at left tackle where Turk Edwards of Washington, four times an all-league selection, received 23 points to win a place on the second team. Edwards was outstanding for his lack of ability against the Bears and New York Giants, two games the Redskins needed badly in the defense of the title, and lost. Coach Ray Flaherty said late in the season Edwards had been outplayed by his relief, Rookie Wee Willie Wilken, throughout most of the year. A number of coaches apparently disagreed with Flaherty.

MARQUART TO MEET M'INTYRE IN PARK CASINO

Detroit Boxer Seeks to Spoil Billy's Record.

Mickey McIntyre, Detroit lightweight, will try to deflate Billy Marquart's enthusiasm and thwart his ambition to achieve twenty-five victories in twenty-eight starts in a ten round bout tonight in Park Casino, Hamlin avenue and Madison street.

Marquart has won his last four appearances, his victims being Lloyd Pine, July 6; Wally Hally, Oct. 21; Orville Drouillard, Nov. 18, and Hank Pershing, Dec. 5.

There will be five supporting matches, one of which will be a wrestling exhibition involving King Levinsky.

Frankie Kainrath, 1938 Chicago Golden Gloves bantamweight champion, will be in quest of his eighth straight triumph at the expense of Oscar O'Hanion, veteran from Waukegan, in a four rounder. O'Hanion, member of the 1932 international Golden Gloves team, which held Germany to a draw in eight fights, will be making a comeback after being out of action since Nov. 26, 1934, when he held Mickey Beal to a six round draw in Midway arena.

Ruffy Silverstein wrestles Bruno Black in Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, this evening. Bert Rubi faces Jack Hagen, Pete Schu encounters Swede Nelson, Bull Curley opposes Otto Schnabel, and Tony Bomerito tackles Ken Fenlon. . . . Verle Davis, lightweight puncher of Kankakee, is matched with Ben Irving of the south side in a four round preliminary to the Tony Musto-Tom Kenneally ten round event in White City Friday. . . . Three scraps of six rounds have been added to the card, featuring an eight round rematch involving Bob Tinsley and Tommy Howell in Marigold Gardens Monday. Tony Cianciola, Milwaukee middleweight, is paired with Eddie Meleski; Dick Kist, Danville welterweight, with Steve Padon, and Alex Kettles, South Bend heavyweight, with Clarence Brown. . . .

Efforts are being made to sign Lou Ambers, former lightweight champion, and Nick Camarata of New Orleans for a contest in Madison Square Garden Jan. 13. . . . Larry Amadee supervised Lem Franklin's training routine in Trafton's gymnasium yesterday for the big fellow's scheduled meeting with Eddie Simms in Cleveland next Tuesday.

Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois boxing commission, who is a member of the National Boxing association's championship committee, will journey from New York to Washington, D. C., Saturday to confer with his fellow members about the regular N. B. A. quarterly ratings to be released this month. . . . Tony Musto has been asked to referee the amateur fight between Lou Angelucci, 124th Field Artillery armory welterweight star, and Jerry Lucas of Northwest gymnasium in the Duncan Y. M. C. A. tomorrow. . . . Harold Rodie, south side 147 pounder, tackles Phil O'Neil in a five round amateur headliner in Madison Athletic club Friday. . . . Stanley Pinta and George Mack will be main event principals on the wrestling card in Cicero stadium Monday. . . . Tony Zale, Gary middleweight, has been forced to postpone a proposed contest with Nate Bolden in Marigold arena from Jan. 2 to Jan. 9. F. M.

GALENTO, BAER AGREE TO BOUT IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Promoter Herman Taylor said tonight Tony Galento, leading contender for Joe Louis' heavyweight championship, and Max Baer, former titleholder, have agreed to meet in a fifteen round fight in Municipal stadium here the last week in May.

"No articles have been signed," said Taylor. "But I have 100 per cent assurance from both managers that the match is made."

"It was my original plan to put on the show in Atlantic City in February or March," said Taylor, "but I have come to the conclusion it would be better to wait another ninety days and open our outdoor season with it in Philadelphia."

Taylor said the exact date would be announced later.

BUDDY BAER VS. GALENTO.

Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Ancil Hoffman said tonight he had arranged for a fight between Buddy Baer and Tony Galento either in Miami, Fla., or Chicago early next year.

PLAN SEASON'S FIRST SKATING RACES SUNDAY

Ice racing in Chicago will begin Sunday if the weather permits, President Earl W. Solem of the Illinois Skating association said last night. The first event is the Catholic Order of Foresters derby set for Garfield Park lagoon.

It would hardly be possible to expect the safe thickness of ice on such a large surface of water by Sunday, so the officials of the Illinois Skating association will seek a site tonight which will allow the event to be held on schedule.

Preparations by the Chicago Park district are being made to make the baseball diamond in Garfield park available for holding the races.

Nova Says He'll Last 15 Rounds Against Farr

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Facing the first fifteen round battle of his career when he fights Tommy Farr, British heavyweight, in Madison Square Garden Friday night, Lou Nova, promising heavyweight from California, is guiding his preparatory work accordingly.

Perhaps because Farr boasts of having gone fifteen rounds almost as many times as Nova has had fights—the British heavyweight has had at least twenty-two engagements over this distance—betters today installed the Welshman a slight favorite. Odds of 6 to 5 were quoted generally.

This condition, however, did not affect Nova today. "The distance, of course, will be strange for me, but I have provided for it," he said. "It was this idea that prompted my week of training in Lakewood. There I engaged in 8 and 10 mile road workouts daily before entering gymnasium training. I have found in the half dozen or so ten round bouts in which I have engaged that I get stronger as I go along, contrary to the popular idea that a fighter gets weaker the longer a bout goes. Of course, if you are taking a beating as a fight progresses you lose strength. But Farr cannot be classed as a damaging puncher. And, after all, I guess it is just a matter of pacing yourself properly."

DE PAUL DRILLS TO STOP IOWA BASKET CAPTAIN

Two players who are being groomed for all-conference honors will carry the basketball burden for the University of Iowa Monday night when the Hawkeyes meet De Paul on the opening card of the college double-headers in the 132d armory.

Capt. Ben Stephens will carry the scoring torch for the Hawkeyes, while the burden of the guard chores will fall on Erwin Prasse, former Chicago prep star.

According to Tom Haggerty, De Paul coach, Stephens is one of the greatest forwards in the country when he is right, and Haggerty is planning a special defense to stop the Hawkeye captain. Stephens scored 136 points in conference competition last season.

DREAMER RUNS RECORD 12 IN BILLIARDS MEET

Two records were broken last night in the Chicago Amateur Billiard association partnership three cushion tournament.

In the north side division Danny Dreamer of the Lake View Recreation team had a high run of twelve to top the previous mark of nine. The other new record was a best game of thirty-nine innings established by the Midwest Athletic club. Scores:

SOUTH SIDE.

Jerome, 35; Roseland, 30.
Wiesner, 35; Bensinger [Wabash], 24.
Midwest Athletic club, 35; Queen, 22.

NORTH SIDE.

DE PAUW DEFEATS EVANSVILLE FIVE; LEADS CIRCUIT

Greencastle, Ind., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—DePauw university defeated the Evansville college five, 38 to 32, tonight. DePauw played its best ball during the first period, leading 24 to 13 at the half. Herbert Kixmiller was DePauw's high point man with twelve points while Polk led the visitors with nine.

A squad of ten DePauw players will leave Thursday for a holiday trip that includes games with Lawrence, Beloit and John Carroll in Wisconsin and Western State Teachers' college in Michigan. DePauw is undefeated and tied for the lead in the Indiana conference.

They're the Best in the League

Another Bear on the first honor squad is Joe Stydahar, whose work at tackle featured the team's play all season.

year if current negotiations are successful, it was learned today. The Giants made an offer to Art Rooney when his Pirates concluded their season and announced they would pay Whizzer $15,000 for next season, the same as he got this year when he was one of the leading ground gainers in the National Football league.

Immediately following the Pirates' last game, White declared he would go to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar next year. The Giants, however, are attempting desperately to induce him to change his mind, just as Rooney did earlier in the fall.

The Giants made their first offer to the Pirates for White's services during the season, but were turned down then. At that time the offer was a friendly gesture on the part of Tim Mara to help Rooney alleviate his financial difficulties—and at the same time land a star figured certain to prove a great drawing card in the Polo grounds.

Patty Berg Named No. 1 Girl Athlete

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Polling almost as many votes as she has freckles, young Patty Berg of Minneapolis today was chosen the outstanding woman athlete of the year by forty-five of the sixty-seven sports writers participating in the eighth annual Associated Press poll.

Miss Berg, who climaxed a brilliant golf campaign by winning the national championship, drew four times as many first place nominations as her closest competitor, and enough second and third place votes to pile up 164 points to 58 each for Helen Wills Moody and Mrs. Katherine Rawls Thompson.

Mrs. Moody, whose competitive tennis comeback reached its peak in her Wimbledon victory over Helen Jacobs, was named No. 1 on ten ballots. Mrs. Thompson, the country's greatest all-around swimmer, was named first only four times, but had some widespread support. The only other girl to place near the leaders was Alice Marble, who got 54 points, chiefly on her feat of recapturing the United States tennis title.

Of the nine sports presented by the eighteen women who figured in the voting, tennis and golf made the best showings. Tennis placed three in the first ten and had five altogether, while golf had five candidates in addition to Miss Berg.

The tabulation:

	First.	Pts.
Patty Berg, golf	45	164
Helen Wills Moody, tennis	10	58
Katherine Thompson, swimming	4	58
Alice Marble, tennis	5	54
Helen Jacobs, tennis	0	9
Sonja Henie, skating	1	9
Mrs. Lela Hall, trapshooting	1	3
Mildred Babe Didrickson, all-around	0	3
Stella Walsh, track	0	3

PURDUE FROSH COACH TO SPEAK AT PREP DINNER

Play 3 Games Tonight in New Century League

The New Century Basketball league will offer a triple-header tonight in the Marigold Gardens. The feature game will bring together the Cicero Tumavicks and the Rookery club, undefeated in the league thus far. In the other games, the Atlantic Commissions will play the Wood-Davis Paints and the Queen of Angels Lights and Albany Park five will clash.

De La Salle, St. Michael to Open Tourney

Opening Schedule

FRIDAY.

8 p. m.—St. Michael vs. De LaSalle.

SATURDAY.

2:30 p. m.—Loyola vs. Central Catholic [Hammond, Ind.].
3:30 p. m.—St. Mary's [Woodstock] vs. St. Mel.
8 p. m.—De Paul vs. Holy Name School of Aeronautics [Lockport].
9 p. m.—Holy Trinity vs. St. George.

St. Michael and De La Salle will meet at 8 o'clock Friday night in the opening game of the fifth annual St. George High school pre-season basketball tournament in the school gymnasium, 350 Sherman street, Evanston.

Following this game, Fenwick of Oak Park opposes Mount Carmel, defending champion. It will be a renewal of the rivalry between the two schools as Fenwick lost to Mount Carmel in the finals for the Catholic league football championship, 7 to 6.

Mount Carmel Is Ready.

Mount Carmel will have the advantage of having played more practice games than the west siders. The south side quintet, which is under the direction of Johnny Jordan, has chalked up five victories and suffered one defeat. The defeat was to St. George, 29 to 17. Fenwick has played one game, triumphing over St. Patrick, 32 to 30.

Three regulars from last year are members of the Fenwick five. They are Capt. Johnny Barrett, a guard; Jack Giroux, a forward, and George Elder, a guard. The Mount Carmel quintet also is built around three men, Capt. Charlie Butler, a center; Jack Hernon, guard, and Dick Creevy, a forward. Jack McCallum, another regular, will be out of action because of a football injury.

Plan Two Afternoon Sessions.

For the first time since the meet was started there will be two afternoon sessions. The first will be Saturday, and the other on Sunday. Saturday afternoon two out of town teams make their appearance. At 2:30 o'clock, Loyola meets Central Catholic High of Hammond, Ind., and following this St. Mary's of Woodstock, Ill., faces St. Mel.

COURT SUMMONS MARA OF GIANTS IN REVENUE CASE

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—John V. Mara, president of the New York Football Giants, Inc., today was ordered by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe to appear in court Friday and show cause why the club will not turn over its books from 1934 to 1938 to internal revenue agents for examination.

The order signed by Judge Coxe was requested by Assistant United States Attorney Jesse Moss, who said Mara declined to produce the books although a summons had been served. Moss' petition said Benjamin Karten, a general deputy collector of internal revenue, last Thursday appeared at the Giants' ticket office to obtain seats for the game against the Green Bay Packers and had to pay more than the printed price.

The Giants defeated the Packers, 23 to 17, for the National Football league championship last Sunday.

NEW YORK POLO TEAM PRACTICES FOR ARTILLERY

Improved team play was stressed yesterday by the Blind Brook poloists from New York in a tuneup session for the second of their series Saturday night with the 124th Field Artillery trio in the latter's armory.

The easterners will end pre-game workouts tomorrow afternoon in an effort to eliminate weaknesses which resulted last Saturday in a 14 to 5 victory for the Chicago team.

TENNIS GROUP TO GIVE AWARDS AT ANNUAL DINNER

Budge, Riggs Will Appear on C. T. A. Program.

More than thirty team and individual awards will be made to the ranking tennis stars of the Chicago area tomorrow night when the annual dinner of the Chicago Tennis association is held in the Lake Shore Athletic club.

Don Budge, Davis cup star who has been named No. 1 American athlete of the year in a sports writers' poll, will attend and give his impressions of the past and coming seasons in amateur tennis. Bobby Riggs, second man on the United States 1938 Davis cup squad and favorite to lead American tennis players next year on Budge's move to pro tennis, also will take part in the program.

Show Movies of Cup Play.

A. R. Kaiser, president of the association, will show the movies of the Davis cup matches which he made last summer when Budge and Riggs captured three matches to successfully defend the cup for the United States. The dinner and program are open to the public.

William and Chester Murphy, the tennis brothers of the University of Chicago team, have captured the largest total of Chicago Tennis association awards for 1938. The list of awards to be made follows:

Interclub championships—A league, River Forest; B league, River Forest; Women's league, Hamilton Park. Junior Davis cup awards—William Murphy, Chester Murphy, John Shostrom, Charles Shostrom, Seymour Greenberg, Calvin Sawyer, James Evert, and Robert Smidl.

Junior Wightman cup awards will be made to Kitty Lawrence, Christine Waples, Beverly Greenberg, and Marian Woolheiser. Tennis Center awards for 1938 will go to Kitty Lawrence and Christine Waples in the girls' division; James Evert and Gardner Larned in the boys' division; and Seymour Greenberg and Calvin Sawyer in the junior division.

City Title Winners Listed.

Men's singles—William Murphy, first; Chester Murphy, second. Women's singles—Catherine Wolfe, first; Catherine Malcolm, second. Boys' singles—James Evert, first; Gardner Larned, second. Girls' singles—Marian Woolheiser, first; Frances Engelman, second. Junior singles—John Jorgensen, first; Gardner Larned, second. Doubles—William and Chester Murphy, first; Max Davidson and Seymour Greenberg, second.

ADD THREE TO ALL-WEST TEAM; NEED TWO MORE

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Two players from Iowa State, one from Drake, and one from the University of Nebraska were named today to the western squad for the annual east-west charity football game here Jan. 2.

Orin E. [Babe] Hollingbery of Washington State college, co-coach of the western team, said Ed Bock, guard, and Charley Heilman, end, both of Iowa State; Pug Manders, full back, Drake, and Charley Brock, Nebraska center, had accepted invitations to play.

Two players, who will bring the squad to full twenty-two man strength remain to be selected.

Jocky Lo Turco Hurt in Spill at Fair Grounds

New Orleans, La., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Jocky Andy Lo Turco suffered bruises and an injured ankle today when his mount, Pima Nuget, stumbled and fell in the third race at the Fair Grounds. Jocky Melvin Knight, atop Bobbrax, and Apprentice E. Robert, riding Alergy, also went down in the spill at the turn leaving the back stretch. They were unhurt.

DETROIT TESTS PURDUE

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The University of Detroit's veteran basketball combination, anything but a "trial horse," is expected to provide the supreme test for Purdue's rebuilt Big Ten title defenders here tomorrow night in the second part of the season for the Boilermakers.

Although Coach Ward Lambert's new production, with Capt. Gene Anderson as the mainspring, displayed enough form to topple Monmouth last night in the season's debut, the performance as a whole was regarded as ragged. Lambert pointed out today that it will take a much more finished game to conquer the Titans.

Battle of Centers.

One of the most interesting sidelights of the game is expected to be the battle for individual honors between Anderson, a brilliant shot and sleight of hand passer, and Bob Calihan, Detroit's co-captain, who are rated among the leading candidates for the nation's No. 1 ranking at the center post.

While veterans are again expected to start the game for the Boilermakers, a number of sophomores are expected to play as Lambert continues to drive to locate the most effective replacements for Jewell Young, Johnny Sines, and Pat Malaska, lost from last year's championship combination.

UNION LEAGUE CLUB ENGAGES NEW SQUASH PRO

Hugh F. Ganley, outstanding eastern squash and squash-racquets expert, has been signed as pro at the Union League club.

Son of Bill Ganley, former squash champion and nationally known squash and tennis pro, Hugh Ganley became one of the youngest pros on record, taking his first post at the age of 17. He came to the Union League club from the Maplewood Country club in New Jersey after serving the Tennis and Racquet club of Washington, D. C., Westchester Country club of Rye, N. Y., and the River club of New York City.

MONTREAL ENDS BOSTON GOALIE'S SHUTOUT MARK

Boston, Mass., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Rookie Frank Brimsek's stretch of perfect goal tending, which included three shutouts, was snapped after 231 minutes and 54 seconds tonight while his Boston Bruin mates were turning back the Montreal Canadiens, 3-2, in a National Hocky league game before 13,000 at the Boston Garden.

The Bruins had a 3-0 lead until the last minute of the second period play, when Herb Cain and George Brown trapped four of them down ice and bore down on Brimsek, who had only Big Jack Portland as a defender. Brown passed as Portland came to meet him, thereby enabling Cain to advance unchallenged and blast a close up shot in Brimsek's cage, the first score against him in four games.

During the third period, when, due to three penalties and the Canadiens' determined five man rushes, the Bruins had only one shot against Claude Bourque, another freshman goalie, Toe Blake scored the visitors second goal.

Roosters Race in Fine Form Until Lights Interfere

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Madison Square Garden, in which has been presented all types of sports entertainment, was the scene tonight of something new even to that venerable arena—rooster racing. In a preview to a scheduled race tomorrow night, the roosters were running in fine form until motion picture cameras were trained on them. Then they stopped cold. It was explained that the lights necessary for the photography was responsible. They will run again tomorrow in a hobby show.

St. Mary's Five Rallies, Beats Augustana, 46-42

Rock Island, Ill., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—St. Mary's of Winona, Minn., whipped Augustana in a close basketball game tonight, 46 to 42. Carl Calabrese of Chicago, reserve center, made the winning basket in the last minute after Quinn Collins, also of Chicago, had tied the score at 42 all. The Augustana freshman team opened its season with a 26 to 20 victory over the St. Ambrose reserves.

Dodgers and Bees Make 2 Player Deals

UNE several days ago which reported the Cubs' big boss had been so well pleased with the six player deal between the Cubs and Giants last week that he had ordered "fatter squabs, taller glasses, funnier ventriloquists, and prettier chorus girls" for the entertainment phase of his dinner.

From all reports some one apparently mixed up this whimsical contemplation of an orderly though joyous floor show, as a hint that the gals might be disciples of the strip tease, can-can or hoochee-coochee and possibly denizens of the demimonde. The writer of the line unquestionably had no intention to hint that Mr. Wrigley's entertainment committee was planning a "debauch."

At any rate, there were no dancing girls and not even a cigaret girl at the dinner last night. For all we know the height of hilarity was reached with community singing.

Hartnett to Give Dinner.

Manager Hartnett will give his dinner to the also ran National league managers tomorrow night. The affair will be in a corn beef and cabbage establishment and will be very circumspect, according to plans.

Will Harridge, for eight years president of the American league, was reelected this afternoon for a term of ten years. Mr. Harridge was secretary to the only two previous presidents the American league ever had, Ban Johnson and E. S. Barnard, and rose to the presidency following the death of Mr. Barnard.

The league indicated a favorable reaction toward two applications for night baseball, received from Cleveland and Philadelphia.

Alva Bradley, president of the Indians, said tonight "you are safe in saying that we will be given official approval tomorrow" for night baseball in the American league.

Draw Up Regulations.

Attorney Joseph C. Hostetler, secretary of the Cleveland club, drew up a set of regulations to govern night games at the league's instruction.

Connie Mack was named to manage the American league team in the All-Star game in New York next July. This was in line with the plans for the celebration of baseball's centennial.

The first National league business meeting of the convention was concluded at 5 o'clock this afternoon with nothing more serious voted than attitudes on matters which are to come up Thursday in the joint meeting with the American league. The Nationals went on record as being in favor of increasing the player limit from 23 to 25 and to make use of the yellow baseball optional. The league went on record as being against the proposal of the Yankees that salaries be spread over the training period, also against the proposal of the Washington Senators that Sunday doubleheaders be outlawed.

The only White Sox activity of the day was the sending of pitcher Harry Boyles to St. Paul on option. The Sox obtained Boyles from Longview, Tex., late last season and used him in five games.

Wheeler, North Dakota Back, Joins Blue Team

Ernie Wheeler, North Dakota State half back, yesterday accepted an invitation from Lynn Waldorf, coach at Northwestern university, to play in the Blue and Gray game at Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 2.

Waldorf will aid in coaching the Blue team, to be made up of northern players, with Frank Thomas, head coach at the University of Alabama, coaching the players from the south.

Boxer's Death Caused by Cerebral Hemorrhage

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Coroner T. B. W. Leland reported tonight a cerebral hemorrhage caused the death of Andre Shelaeff, 18, Russian welterweight, a few hours after he lost an eight round decision to George Salvadore last night.

Girl, 12, Will Lead Hoosier Swim Team

Patty Aspinall, new American 200 yard breast stroke record holder, will lead the Indianapolis A. C. team against the Medinah club girls Saturday night in the Medinah pool.

Patty, who is 12 years old, startled swimming experts last month when she broke the record which has stood since 1932. This performance offers a strong threat to the Medinah team, which is crippled through the loss of Dorothy Schiller, Olympic star, and Crystal Diete, former national title holder who suffered a broken arm recently. However, the Medinah team, former national champions and led by Arlite Smith, the National A. A. U. lowboard diving champion, has discovered an ace breast stroker in Mickey Wischser, 14 year old sprint star.

Johns-Manville Wins in Table Tennis Play

Johns-Manville defeated the Aetna Insurance team, 11 to 9, for its third straight victory in the Loop Table Tennis league at the Stay and Play courts last night. Cadillac Motors beat Devoe & Raynolds, 11 to 9, and Berg & Wassell defeated the Junior Chamber of Commerce, 20 to 0,

Petrones Beat Harmons for 3d Windy City Victory

The Petrones, undefeated leaders in the Windy City Basketball league, last night scored their third straight victory, defeating the Harmons, 21 to 18, on the Park Casino court. In another league contest the Uptons won from the Kokots, 28 to 26. In a girls' preliminary game the Rands triumphed over the Queen Annes, 22-21.

KANSAS INVITES 500 SCHOOLS TO RELAY CARNIVAL

Lawrence, Kas., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Invitations to the seventeenth annual Kansas relays, which will be held in Lawrence, April 21 and 22, are being mailed to some 500 colleges and universities. First of the large meets next spring will be the twelfth annual Texas relays at Austin, scheduled for April 1.

April 28 and 29 are the dates of the two oldest relays carnivals. On that day the forty-ninth annual Penn relays will be held in Philadelphia, while the thirtieth annual Drake relays is being run in Des Moines.

RETRIEVER DOGS OF CHICAGOLAND BEST IN COUNTRY

Nigger of Barrington Is Ranked No. 1.

BY BOB BECKER.

A Chicagoland hunting dog has just been awarded the highest retriever honor of the year. Nigger of Barrington, a black Labrador retriever owned by Gordon Kelley of Lake Forest, is the recipient of this award which carries with it the Field and Stream challenge cup. It's the first time that a midwestern retriever ever has won this honor.

As forecast in this department about three weeks ago, there wasn't a chance for any retriever to beat Nigger of Barrington for the title of the best field trial retriever for 1938. His victories have been so numerous that he was way ahead when the last eastern trial of the season was held on Nov. 20 and 21.

Totals 20 Points.

The scoring and points given to dogs eligible for the big cup and national honors was received yesterday from Eltinge Warner of New York. The big sheet which lists the trials and the victories by various retrievers shows that Nigger of Barrington had a total of 20 points. The second place dog, Freehaven Jay, owned by James Free of Barrington, scored 13 points.

Nigger of Barrington's ranking as the best retriever of 1938 and Freehaven Jay's second place rating reflect great credit to the Midwest Field Trial club, the first organization to hold a retriever trial in the middle west. The owners of both of these dogs are active members of this Chicagoland club and have become interested in retrievers through the year round program of the organization.

More Honors for Chicago.

As if the supremacy of midwestern dogs were not complete by placing dogs first and second in national ratings, another Chicagoland dog, Glenairlie Rocket, tied for fourth place among trial retrievers. Rocket, a litter brother of Jay, is owned by F. Fletcher Garlock, president of the Midwest Field Trial club.

Nigger of Barrington was bred by Thomas Howell, received his early training from Martin Hogan, and was finished and handled in trials by Francis Hogan, his son. Both Glenairlie Rocket and Freehaven Jay [black Labradors] were bred by Martin Hogan and trained and handled by Francis and James Hogan of Barrington. These two dogs have been rated the outstanding young retrievers of the year. Both are sired by Glenairlie Rover, the first Chicagoland retriever to win his field trail championship.

CLASSIC LEAGUE BOWLS TONIGHT; HONOR PRAGERS

The Classic league will bowl this evening in the Archer-35th recreation, 2055 West 35th street, at 9 o'clock. The schedule:

Prager vs. Baby Ruth.
Schlitz vs. Pabst Blue Ribbon.

SEC EASES RULE ON SECURITIES TO SPUR FINANCING

Sub-Underwriters Won't Be Held Liable.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—In an effort to increase the flow of new capital into business and industry, the Securities and Exchange commission today eased its restrictions on "sub-underwriters" of new securities.

Sub-underwriters are those who buy, for investment, securities unsold by underwriters after a public offering. In practice, they are mainly investment trusts, insurance companies, or individuals with large sums of ready cash.

William O. Douglas, SEC chairman, announced the commission had adopted a rule excluding these sub-underwriters from the classification of underwriters and thus relieving them of the liabilities of underwriters under the securities act.

Expect Financing to Quicken.

He added that proponents of the idea in financial circles have asserted such a rule would help very much to quicken the flow of common stock financing.

"That's their assumption, not mine," he said.

For many months, activity in the capital markets has been confined mainly to floating so-called "high grade" bond issues to refund outstanding obligations. Common stock financing has been stagnant and there has been very little financing of what Wall street terms "secondary" bond issues.

Backing of Bonds Varies.

These "secondary" issues are those less well secured than "high grade" issues and often are brought out by industrial companies wishing to spend money for new equipment.

Douglas explained that the new regulation precludes quick resale of securities by sub-underwriters, but enables them to avoid liabilities under the securities act of 1933 for omission of facts or misstatement of facts in registration statements. The securities act calls upon underwriters to file with the commission a full statement of material facts on securities issues.

Seaboard Air Line Plans Electric Service to Florida

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The Seaboard Air Line railway on Thursday will inaugurate the first all-electric rail service to be offered by any railroad between New York and Florida.

Checking Account Good?

Investors' Guide: Kindly advise me. I have a checking account with the Wiener Bank Verein, Vienna, which I have not used for some time. In fact the last statement I received from the bank was June 30, 1922. It showed that I had on deposit 217,200 kronen, which with interest might amount to quite a sum. Is there any chance to realize something or is this account a total loss?—A. R.

Answer: Your 217,200 kronen are not worth more than a few dollars. The year after your last statement was received Austria's post-war inflation reached its height and the krone dropped in value to next to nothing.

The krone was replaced by the schilling, but 10,000 kronen were required in exchange for 1 schilling. This inflation made your deposit account with the Wiener Bank Verein worth about 22 Austrian schillings. The annexation of Austria by Germany resulted in an exchange of the schilling for German marks at the rate of 3 schillings for 2 marks. So your bank account would now amount to about 15 marks.

Under the rigid Nazi restrictions on German money and particularly foreigners' claims, however, your claim is probably frozen in a blocked account which cannot be cashed. If there were no restrictions the claim would be worth about six American dollars. Before the Austrian post-war inflation it was worth about $45,000.

The Wiener Bank Verein, formerly one of the three largest commercial banks in Austria, was absorbed in 1934 by the Oesterreichische Credit-Anstalt, and the combined banks are now operating as the Oesterreichische Creditanstalt-Wiener Bank Verein. For first hand information on the exact status of your account we suggest that you write to the bank at its main office, Schottengasse 6, Vienna, Germany.

Tax on Called Bonds.

Investors' Guide: I had a $1,000 bond of the Commonwealth Edison company which was called for $1,100. I paid $1,020 for the bond four years ago. Must I include this $80 as a capital gain in figuring my income tax for this year? I did not want to sell my bond, but had no choice because it was redeemed.—E. A. L.

Answer: The $80 is considered a capital gain in figuring your income tax, even though you had no choice in selling the bond. Having held the bond for four years you are required to take 50 per cent of the gain, or $40, as taxable income.

LOANS INSURED BY FHA BOOSTED A BILLION MORE

Roosevelt Acts to Replenish Fund.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt greatly expanded the Federal Housing administration's scope today by making a billion dollar increase in the amount of home mortgages which it may insure.

[The FHA, set up to facilitate the building of new homes, partially insures mortgage holders against loss. The law says the total of such mortgages under insurance shall be limited to 2 billion dollars at any one time, but gives Mr. Roosevelt authority to raise this limit to 3 billion dollars. This he did today.]

In a letter to Stewart McDonald, FHA administrator, Mr. Roosevelt said it was obvious that the increase was necessary if the agency were to continue granting all eligible applications for insurance.

McDonald Asks Increase.

McDonald had recommended the increase in a letter to Mr. Roosevelt on Dec. 6. He said the unobligated balance of the original 2 billion dollars authorized stood at 415 million dollars on Dec. 1. In addition, he said, mortgages in process of appraisal on that date aggregated 115 million dollars and applications for mortgage insurance are being received at the rate of more than 100 million dollars monthly.

On Dec. 1, McDonald told Mr. Roosevelt, the FHA had insured or had made commitments to insure mortgages amounting to $1,585,000,000. He said net losses on this volume of business were about $153,000, but that reserves of 23 million dollars were available in the treasury to meet the losses. Income from insurance premiums and appraisal fees is approximately 1 million dollars monthly, the administrator reported.

MORE FARMERS' LOANS

BY AL CHASE.

Farmers may now use Federal Housing administration insured mortgages to build or repair houses and other farm structures, and to refinance existing loans. This was announced yesterday by Gael Sullivan, associate state director for Illinois, at a meeting of representatives of Chicago lending institutions at the Bismarck hotel yesterday.

Although provision for FHA insured mortgages for farmers was provided in the amended national housing act of last February, the actual machinery was not set up for actual operation until yesterday.

Aids "Part Time" Farmers.

The new farm branch of the FHA is primarily for "part time" farmers, Sullivan said. That is, he explained, the medium size farm operated by a family the head of which has another job and operates the farm as a side line.

Other farmers, however, may now use an FHA insured mortgage to build or repair farm structures or to refinance farm property.

The rules and regulations governing FHA farm mortgages are similar to those used in making city FHA mortgages. They allow a maximum mortgage of $16,000, representing 80 to 90 per cent of the appraised value of the farm. Interest rates, amortization provisions, charges, etc., are the same in both city and country. Repayment periods also are the same—twenty or twenty-five years. The maximum interest rate is 5 per cent.

Everyday Economics

"Free Riding."

"Free riding" is one of the newer developments in investment circles. It has been practiced mainly within the last six years, and has brought substantial returns to many persons interested in following and cashing in on bond financing operations of the federal government.

In investment jargon a "free rider" is a person who subscribes for a block of new government bonds when the offering is announced and then sells them at a profit before the date when full payment for the bonds is due.

Opportunity for thirty-four "free rides" in the government market has existed in the last six years. This reflects the sale of about $15,000,000,000 in new treasury securities. Another treasury offering was made this month and further borrowing is expected several times next year. Profit by "free riders" to date is estimated at around $80,000,000. Some are believed to have increased their capital as much as 480 per cent since 1933.

Successful government financing, essential to the administration in its "pump priming" and other programs, is a fundamental requirement for this new type of speculator. To insure the success of government financing the treasury employs its own funds to bolster the bond market. Thus the market is "dressed up" for future financing. At the same time the way is prepared for "free riding."

Politics Holds Back Industry, Says Harriman

America in the last century was limited in its expansion by the Pacific ocean, but it now has a new, unlimited frontier to conquer, W. A. Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific railroad, said last night. The new frontier, he said, is in the realm of industry. In its move forward, industry works through science, he said, but in its struggle against this broader frontier it has a new nandicap—that of dealing with political activities.

W. A. Harriman.

Harriman, a partner in the New York banking firm of Brown Brothers Harriman & Co., spoke before more than 2,000 members and guests of the Illinois Manufacturers' association at the Stevens hotel. In his address he touched on many phases of the nation's economic activities, including problems of industry, business, and agriculture.

"Future in Laboratories."

"The future of this country," he said, "is in the laboratories, on the drawing boards, and in the workshops. We are on the threshold of knowledge. Each new discovery leads to new lines of research."

He said he saw one hopeful sign in industry's conflict with the politicians—the effects produced by the defeat of numerous Roosevelt candidates in the recent elections.

"If I interpret the elections correctly," he declared, "people generally are tired of experiments and they believe in the traditional American system. They respect the progressive industrialist, large and small, and want him to be given a chance."

The railroad leader cited a number of recent developments which he said will create new employment and make more money available to the people by bringing about production of articles which will sell more cheaply than those for which they are substituting.

"Private enterprise has been responsible for scientific progress not only in industry but in medicine and pure research alike," he continued.

Urges Aid in Monopoly Quiz.

Touching on the present investigation of monopolies, Harriman said that whether business men agree with it or not they should take an active part in it. If they fail to do this, he said, there is a danger of new public misconceptions such as in the past were destructive of progress. He gave as an example the railroad industry.

"Some thirty years ago President Theodore Roosevelt was riding to political glory on its trust busting escapades," he said. "As a result of a personal difference with my father [the late E. H. Harriman] he turned his attention to the railroad field. Mergers in the railroad industry had been the means of progress in building effective transportation systems.

"As a result of sensational incidents, the public was led to accept the colorful story that mergers represented the personal empire building of powerful individuals. This caused some systems to be broken up.

"It was only a few years until people realized that a mistake was made, and we have been trying ever since to undo the economic crime that was committed."

Discussing agriculture, Harriman said thatp roblem can be lessened by more concentrated thought in the expansion of markets for agricultural products.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR REO MOTOR BY STOCK GROUP

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—A receivership for the Reo Motor Car company, pioneer automotive concern, was asked today in a suit filed in the Ingham County Circuit court by a group of stockholders, including several employés.

The bill of complaint was filed by E. C. Smith, former assistant attorney general, in the group's behalf. It charges Rowland Campbell, who gained control of the company July 16 after a proxy fight with the former management, has been himself displaced as board chairman and general manager by his brother, Thomas Campbell, New York financier.

The suit also charges that the company's affairs have been dangerously mismanaged and its assets wasted.

Stewart Elected to Head Bancamerica-Blair Corp.

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—A. O. Stewart of San Francisco, president of the Pacific Coast Mortgage company, today was elected a director and chairman of the board of the Bancamerica-Blair corporation at a meeting held here. Stewart, who recently resigned as chairman of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, was the purchaser of a large block of Bancamerica-Blair stock from the Transamerica corporation. The latter owned about 214,000 shares of Bancamerica-Blair stock which were sold to comply with the banking laws.

West. Electric Dividends to Be Resumed

Directors of the Western Electric company yesterday voted to resume dividend payments on the big corporation's capital stock. A disbursement of 25 cents was declared, payable Dec. 28 on stock of record Dec. 23.

The payment is the first since March 31, when a similar distribution was made. No dividend action was taken at the meeting June 30.

Hazeltine Votes Extra Dividend.

A Christmas extra of $1 a share was declared by the Hazeltine corporation, which controls or owns 400 radio patents. Previously this year the corporation paid four regular quarterly dividends of 75 cents. The year end extra disbursement was ordered because of the receipt of nonrecurring income, directors said.

Extra dividends also were declared by several other corporations.

Day's Dividend Actions.

Special Dividend.

State Street Investment corporation declared a special dividend of $5 a share, payable Dec. 20. Paid similar year-end special dividends of $1.50 a share in 1937 and $20 in 1936. Company also declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share payable next Jan. 16, compared with 25 cent payments three and six months ago. Company announced it will offer stockholders the right to subscribe to one additional share of stock for each ten shares held as of Dec. 15. Warants will expire Jan. 20, 1939.

Payment on Arrears.

Florida Light & Power. Will pay $1.31 on $7 preferred and $1.13 on $6 preferred Jan. 2, of record Dec. 20. Paid same on $7 and $1.12 on $6 Oct. 1. Arrears after payment will be $35.88 on $7 and $30.75 on $6.

The letter "q" in the table refers to regular quarterly dividends; "s" to regular semi-annual payments.

NATIONAL TEA, KROGER SALES IN LAST MONTH FALL BELOW YEAR AGO

The National Tea company and the Kroger Grocery and Baking company yesterday reported lower sales for the four weeks ended Dec. 3 as compared with those for the same period in 1937.

National Tea company's retail volume for the four weeks was $4,404,755, a decline of 8 per cent from that for the comparative 1937 period. For the forty-eight weeks ended Dec. 3 the sales totaled $50,861,954, a decline of 11.8 per cent from a year ago.

The National's chain of stores shrank from 1,222 a year ago during the same period to 1,105 stores in the four weeks ended Dec. 3.

Sales of the Kroger stores for the four-week period this year totaled $18,280,405, a drop of 3.1 per cent from those of the same period a year ago. Volume for the forty-eight weeks this year was $212,037,874, a decline of 7.6 per cent from that of the comparative 1937 period.

RULE CANADIAN ROAD MUST PAY BONDS IN GOLD

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The house of lords, highest court in England, upheld today a court of appeal decision requiring the New Brunswick Railway Company of Canada to redeem its bonds issued in 1884 at gold value. Interest payments were exempted.

The railway company held that by Canadian law its obligation was to pay in sterling, not gold. The court of appeal decided that English, not Canadian, law controled the performance of the bond contract. Consequently, it said, holders of the bonds were entitled to repayment on a gold basis. The judgment means the company must pay about 185 pounds sterling for each 100 pound bond.

The British and French Trust corporation brought the case against the railway company.

PHONE FIRM GETS LOAN TO EXPAND IN SO. AMERICA

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Export-Import bank announced today a loan of $10,000,000 to the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation to expand its South American facilities.

The bank also announced a group of private New York banks was lending an additional $5,000,000 to the corporation.

The Export-Import bank loan will be due serially in ten years. The notes will bear 4½ per cent interest, but the loans were arranged to yield approximately 5¼ per cent.

$731,445,700 of Treasury's Bonds and Notes Allotted

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—The treasury announced tonight that it had allotted an aggregate of $731,445,700 of its 2¾ per cent bonds and 1⅛ per cent notes in connection with its recent cash offering of about $700,000,000 of the bonds and notes. Both issues were many times oversubscribed. It also announced that holders of $929,084,200 of 1½ per cent notes, maturing March 15, had turned them in for exchange for either the 2¾ per cent bonds, the 1⅛ per cent notes, or 2 per cent bonds. This left only $12,529,550 of the old notes to be redeemed in cash when they mature.

Menges Tells of Monopolies in Truck Lines

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Senator Louis J. Menges [D., East St. Louis] this afternoon described the present and the possible future monopoly privileges granted to certain truck operators by the Illinois commerce commission under the public utility act of 1921. The senator is chairman of a legislative commission which will recommend to the general assembly next month the repeal of truck rules in the public utility law and the enactment of an entirely new set of regulations for trucking.

The Illinois commerce commission has issued certificates of convenience and necessity to twenty-one companies to operate as common carriers on specified routes aggregating 4,000 miles in fifty-four counties. A certificate of convenience and necessity is the technical name for a permit. A common carrier, as the expression is here used, means a truck line that offers its services to the general public.

Must Have Permits.

It is illegal to operate as a common carrier within the state without such a permit. After the permit has been issued the holder has the exclusive right to conduct such hauling business on the route specified, according to the public utility statute.

"This exclusion of competition," said Senator Menges, "has become particularly vicious in view of recent court decisions. For example, the Texas Supreme court sustained a theory that a lumber company could not make delivery with its own trucks because in so doing it was depriving a certified carrier of freight trafic.

"In Illinois the commerce commission, in a decision last March, held that a Chicago department store must cease furnishing free bus transportation to customers because in so doing it was depriving certified bus companies of possible business. A motion for a rehearing is pending.

Sees Threat to Farmers.

"Such a legal theory jeopardizes private operation of trucks of all classes, the farm and the factory owned vehicles, and the contract haulers. A certified common carrier might go into court to enjoin any truck operation doing hauling that might be done by the common carrier."

In addition to the twenty-one certificates which have been issued, covering 4,000 miles of highways, there are eight applications pending before the commerce commission for certificates to preëmpt 7,000 additional miles. With the issuance of these additional eight permits, exclusive privileges under the public utility act would be extended to 85 per cent of the 13,000 miles of hard roads in Illinois.

Present Holders of Permits.

Burlington Transportation company, 547 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago—Main highways south and east from Rock Island in eight counties.

T. L. Clark Truck company of Danville—From Hoopeston through Danville to Georgetown.

Issue Raised After Glass Inquiry.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Chairman O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] of the monopoly investigating committee said tonight that evidence received has raised the question whether the patent laws should be revised. He said the question was whether changes should be made to keep a single company from using patents to acquire control of an entire industry.

S. F. Parham denies deliberate patent delay

"The striking thing to me," he said, "was the demonstration that congress has, by the patent law, delegated to any group that chooses to use the patent law in the way that it can be used, the power to regulate commerce in any industry."

He made his statement to reporters after two days spent investigating the glass container industry. This inquiry had produced testimony that the Hartford-Empire company, by holding patents on essential processes, could say who should manufacture glass containers and could "stabilize" prices.

"Fencing In" Policy Charged.

Further testimony was received that the company's patent rights were defended by extensive litigation. Over the protests of company officials, documents were introduced to show that the company had a policy of "fencing in" competitors by finding out what improvements were possible in the latter's machinery and securing patents on the improvements.

Further, with S. F. Parham, patent attorney for Hartford-Empire, on the stand today, the committee learned that one "basic" patent was applied for in 1910, but was not issued until last year because of long litigation. The result is that the patent will not expire until 1954. Parham denied Hartford-Empire had been responsible for any of the legal delays.

Accused of "Suing Everybody."

Hugh Cox, a justice department lawyer, remarked that the company apparently had a policy of "suing everybody." Vice Chairman Sumners, Democratic house member from Texas, objected that such comment was "unnecessary."

Another disagreement arose later when William E. Levis, president of the Owens-Illinois Glass company, objected to introduction of a letter written to an uncle.

With Levis' testimony the committee temporarily left off its examination of Hartford-Empire and turned to the one other big influence in the industry. Owens-Illinois is the largest single manufacturer of glass containers. Last year it turned out 38 per cent of the country's output of bottles. It has patents of its own, but uses some of Hartford-Empire's under license.

Letter Discusses Directorship.

The letter to which Levis objected was written April 1, 1935, to R. H. Levis, his uncle, and said, in part:

"Because of the recent publicity given Owens-Illinois and our investment in Hazel-Atlas [glass company] in a letter read into the congressional record of March 8 by Mr. Borah, I advised Mr. McNash that it would probably be desirable for me to resign as a member of their board. We discussed having Mr. George Quay, secretary of the company, elected in my place, with the understanding that he would be representing us and that I would receive through him the same type of information I now receive as a director."

Republic Steel Reports Increase in Employment

Cleveland, O., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Republic Steel corporation said tonight it was employing nearly 48,000 persons on Dec. 1, in contrast to about 37,000 on June 1. Average weekly employment rose from 25 hours to 32.8 hours in the period, the corporation said, as steel operations in the same six months rose from 21 per cent of capacity to 67 per cent. C. M. White, vice president, said December probably would show a slight decline because of inventory periods, but added an expectation "that a satisfactory rate of operation will develop after the first of the year."

Stocks Rise; Motor, Steel Groups Lead

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Stocks advanced today for the third consecutive day. Prices rose during the morning, weakened at midday and then recovered.

Increased activity on the buying side swelled the total of transfers to 1,093,550 shares. This compared with 899,305 shares Monday. A total of 846 issues were traded, of which 405 advanced, 238 declined and 203 closed unchanged.

Quieting of the European situation and a handful of favorable domestic business reports were credited with inspiring the upturn.

Motors, Steels Strong.

Industrial issues led the upturn. Motors, aviations, and steels vied for leadership. General Motors and Chrysler added 1⅝ and 2 points respectively. United States Steel gained 1⅝ points, and Youngstown also gained more than a point.

Several new highs were made in the aviation division. United Aircraft, most active stock of the day, rose 1 point to 40¼. Douglas and Sperry corporation each advanced more than 2 points to new 1938 highs.

Coppers failed to hold all their gains, supposedly reacting to the further increase in stocks of copper metal reported for November. Fractional advances showed for American Smelting, Anaconda, Kennecott, and Phelps Dodge.

Rail Shares Improve.

A number of rail stocks shared in the advance. Gains of about 1 point were made by New York Central, Southern Pacific, and Illinois Central, while Santa Fe advanced 1¼ points. A long list of others added minor fractions.

Rubbers contributed good gains. Goodyear Tire and Rubber and United States Rubber both added 1¼ points on good buying. Montgomery Ward, up a fraction on good demand, featured the merchandising section.

Consolidated Edison was in demand in the utility group. It added a fraction in active turnover.

WHEAT RECEDES ON WEAKNESS IN FOREIGN MARTS

American grain markets were on the downgrade yesterday. Wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade closed ¼ to ⅜ cent lower. Corn was ½ to ⅞ cent a bushel lower. Oats showed independent strength and closed ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher. May oats sold early at a new high level for the season. Since trading in that delivery started the price had held within a range of 4 cents a bushel, the smallest spread in 38 years.

Weakness in wheat reflected a decline of ¾ to 2¼ cents in Liverpool and ⅞ to 1 cent a bushel in Winnipeg.

Large hedging sales, increased pressure from Argentine grain and fears that India would resell recent purchases of Australian wheat depressed the English market. The Indian parliament decreed yesterday an import duty of 28 cents a bushel on all wheat arriving after Dec. 7.

TOBACCO GROUP ATTACKS AAA'S QUOTA PENALTY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—A group of Georgia and Florida tobacco growers, attacking the constitutionality of marketing provisions of the 1938 Agricultural Adjustment act, appealed today to the Supreme court.

They appealed from a decision of a Georgia federal court which at the time had been hailed by agriculture department officials as a victory for the new farm program and affecting all its marketing provisions. The growers sought to enjoin warehousemen from paying over to the government as a penalty one-half the purchase price of tobacco marketed in excess of quotas fixed under the act.

Small Business Will Ask System of Credit Banks

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The American Federation of Little Business will ask congress to institute a system of credit banks to meet the credit needs of small business men. George Olmstead of Des Moines, Ia., chairman of the federation, said in a statement today that such a system was the "one feasible answer if this ever more pressing need of little business is to be adequately met."

SEC PROPOSES CUT IN ASSETS OF BIG UTILITY

North. States Power Group Involved.

A plan for recapitalization of the Northern States Power company of Delaware was made public yesterday by the Securities and Exchange commission for the consideration of the company's stockholders.

The plan provides for a writedown of assets by about $29,000,000. Assets of the company, which is exclusively a holding company, consists mostly of stocks of two other companies. These are Northern States Power of Minnesota and Northern States Power of Wisconsin. They are operating companies.

Such a writedown would reduce the assets of the Standard Gas and Electric company by about $7,000,000. This would result because of Standard Gas' ownership of about 99 per cent of the class B stock of Northern States Power of Delaware.

Hope for Dividend Resumption.

This situation would be avoided only by restoration of the Northern States Power group to high earning capacity. Standard Gas and Electric is a large Chicago holding company.

Recapitalization of Northern States Power [Delaware] under the plan proposed by the SEC would, it is held, make it possible for the company to resume dividend payments on its preferred stock. Such dividends have not been paid since last July.

The plan proposes:

1. That the class B common stockholders will lose all rights to share in the assets of the company on liquidation. Their voting rights will terminate on July 1, 1941, and the stock will be canceled Jan. 1, 1944, unless before that time it is shown that there are consolidated earnings applicable to the payment of dividends on the stock.
2. That the par value of the class A stock will be reduced from $100 to $25 a share.

Stocks to Be Revalued.

The $29,000,000 writedown of assets, it is stated, is obtained by an assignment of new values to the common and preferred stocks of the Wisconsin company and one subsidiary, the value of the common stock of the Minnesota company, and certain other items.

The common and preferred stocks of the Wisconsin company are treated as worthless. This results in a loss of $8,784,964 for the Delaware company, representing the value at which these securities are carried on its books.

The 4,000,000 shares of common stock of the Minnesota company, which represent on the books of the Minnesota company a value of $98,947,133, according to the plan, are carried on the books of the Delaware company at a value of $110,281,305. Recognition of this fact by the Delaware company, it is stated, necessitates a writedown of $11,334,172.

Another Big Item Eliminated.

The books of the Delaware company carry as an asset $9,383,058, representing discount and expense on the sale and issuance of its preferred and common stock. It is planned to eliminate this item "since it is not a real asset."

"The writing down of these three items and the creation of a reserve of $271,500, aggregating over $29,000,000, destroy no values," says the SEC. "They merely give recognition to the realities."

The SEC says that the class B stock, although possessing no real asset value, gives Standard Gas a 40 per cent voting power. This will be lost to Standard Gas unless earning power is restored.

Stockholders of Northern States Power of Delaware will vote on the proposal at a special meeting on Dec. 27 at Wilmington, Del.

Officials of Standard Gas were in Wilmington, Del., yesterday for a stockholders' meeting. Victor Emanuel, New York financier, was elected a director and chairman of the board.

Atlas Corporation Changes Fiscal Year to End Dec. 31

New York, Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Floyd B. Odlum, president of Atlas corporation, today notified stockholders that the board of directors "deems it advisable" to change the company's fiscal year to correspond with the calendar year. It now ends Oct. 31. The audited report for the year ended Oct. 31, 1938, which is due at this time, will be included in the full report as of Dec. 31.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Traders' hopes that the bond market was getting off to a year-end rise were strengthened today by another climb in corporate liens under the leadership of rails.

A lessening in the amount of tax selling, along with traders' buying in anticipation of good volume of reinvestment demand after Jan. 1, were regarded as the chief influences in the market's recent gains.

Some United States government issues slid off a little. In the treasury group losses ranged to 4-32ds of a point, but these were balanced by a fair number of gains running to 5-32ds.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks moved unevenly yesterday in a fairly active market. Forty-two of the 123 issues traded made moderate gains, while 43 lost ground. THE TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks finished at 10.96, up 0.07 from the preceding close.

Volume was 37,300 shares. Trade in Commonwealth Edison rights was heavy, 66,700 changing hands. The rights closed at 21 cents, a gain of 4 cents over Monday's final quotations. Commonwealth Edison stock closed ⅛ higher.

Gains and losses were about evenly divided among the volume leaders. Bendix Aviation and Bliss & Laughlin advanced fractionally. Jarvis company stock touched a new 1938 high of 25, then dropped back to close unchanged at 24.

General Motors and Peoples Gas lost ground. Chicago corporation common and Hupp Motors were unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Trading improved yesterday in leading Chicago bank stocks, dealers reported. Several stocks advanced $1 to $3. Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust shares gained $1 in a somewhat better turnover. First National stock lost $1 to $226 bid, $230 asked.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Pork and hog prices yesterday slumped to the lowest levels in more than four years under pressure of heavy selling by farmers. Hogs dipped 10 to 25 cents, heavy "lard hogs" showing the most loss. The average for the season at $7.10 stood lowest since August, 1934.

Consumers were benefited by the developments in the wholesale trade for pork. Loins sold off 50 cents to $1.00 a hundred pounds.

Liberal cattle receipts resulted in a sharp cut in steer prices. Losses of 25 to 35 cents were general, with the majority of stock 25 to 50 cents under last week's close. Slaughter lambs met slow demand at 25 cents lower prices.

Commodities

Copper prices turned lower yesterday, reflecting the trade's reaction to yesterday's report on Nov. 30 world stocks of the metal. Futures quotations were 0.06 to 0.08 cent a pound below Monday. Export copper dropped to around 10.25 cents a pound, compared with 10.27½ to 10.32 cents on the preceding day. Domestic copper was unchanged at 11.25 cents a pound.

World stocks of refined copper on Nov. 30 were 424,537 tons, almost unchanged from the 424,711 tons reported a month earlier. Stocks of raw copper, however, rose to a new 1938 high level of 198,628 tons.

Futures prices of other commodities were irregular. Domestic sugar was fairly steady despite scattered liquidation and hedge selling, and finished 0.01 cent a pound lower to 0.01 cent higher. World Sugar was unchanged to 0.00½ cent a pound higher.

On the cash market two refiners reduced the price of refined sugar to 4.40 and 4.45 cents a pound, but the others held steady at 4.55 cents a pound. Raw sugar was unchanged at 2.85 cents.

Small advances were made by tin, lead, silk, wool top, and hide futures. Coffee and cocoa dropped. Zinc futures were unchanged and rubber irregular.

TVA'S YARDSTICK HELD FUTILE FOR NATION-WIDE USE

Lawmaker Says Varying Costs Balk Comparison.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [R., O.] contended today that differing cost factors made it impossible to use TVA power rates as a yardstick for the rest of the country.

Rep. Jenkins.

Jenkins, a member of the congressional committee investigating the Tennessee Valley Authority, made his observation during questioning of J. A. Krug, a TVA power planning engineer.

Krug said the different cost factors did not invalidate the yardstick.

"Its only use," Krug said, " is to indicate the differences [in rates] and call attention to the need for explanation. We don't contend that because one city charges a certain rate every other city should charge the same rate."

"Unfair," Says Legislator.

Jenkins said the rest of the country would never be able to approach the TVA in cheap rates. He said the assumption that such rates could prevail everywhere was "unjust, dishonest and unfair."

He added that friends of TVA had "blatantly" asserted that "every town in the country can have TVA rates."

Krug disagreed, saying that while TVA rates might "embarrass" some private utilities, it was a "healthy embarrassment for the public to know about rates."

The witness estimated that TVA power revenue for the fiscal year of 1939 would be close to $5,000,000 compared with slightly more than $2,000,000 for the same 1938 period. He attributed the expected increase to "clearing up" of litigation which he said had tied the hands of municipalities wishing to purchase TVA energy.

Tells Views on Accounting.

Krug expressed the opinion that the authority should follow closely the uniform system of utility accounting laid down by the federal power commission. He was questioned by Representative Wolverton [R., N. J.] concerning a report of the power commission criticizing TVA accounting methods. The report said TVA had not conformed with the commission's rules, as required by law.

Asked by Wolverton if he considered the criticism justified, Krug replied:

"I wouldn't know without studying it."

Wolverton had complained that cost and revenue figures submitted by Krug differed from those submitted to congress in TVA annual reports.

Merger of Illinois Rail Properties Is Authorized

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—[Special.]—Merger of the properties of the Chicago, Lake Shore and Eastern Railway company and the Joliet and Blue Island Railway company with those of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railway company was authorized today by the interstate commerce commission. The Elgin, Joliet and Eastern will own, operate, and manage the combined properties.

Chesapeake & Ohio, Pere Marquette Order Rails

Cleveland, O., Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Chesapeake and Ohio railway placed orders today for 25,000 tons of steel rails and the Pere Marquette railroad ordered 3,250 tons for its own spring program. The orders were placed with Carnegie-Illinois, Bethlehem, and Inland Steel, the affiliated roads announced. The Chesapeake and Ohio also announced purchase of 6,400 tons of fabricated steel car parts to be used for repairs on cars at its Russell, Ky., car shop.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Cattle Feeding Program.

December 13, 1938.

CATTLE feeders at the Fox river farm are getting their winter steer fattening program under way. Since about the middle of November, four groups of yearling steers have been bought and put into the farm's feed lots. The new shipments of feeder steers total 175 head. Another group of 100 head was brought to the farm in July, making the total 275 head.

Sixty-five head of steers, averaging 542 pounds, were bought on the Chicago market Nov. 17 for $9.50 a hundredweight. Although the animals were all vaccinated to protect them from shipping fever, one died, leaving 64. They are being kept in a dry lot and fed a daily ration of corn silage, 12 pounds; new ground corn, 4 pounds; oats, 10 pounds; alfalfa hay, 6 pounds, and soy bean hay [without beans], 4 pounds. The steers are fed twice a day.

Bought at Kansas City.

The other three groups were bought at Kansas City on Nov. 29. Forty head averaged 673 pounds. Thirty-eight of them cost $8.65 a hundred and the other two $8 a hundred. For the first ten days they were given a daily ration of oats, 13 pounds, and alfalfa hay, 6 pounds. At the end of ten days the allowance of oats was reduced one-fourth, and 4¼ pounds of shelled corn was added to the daily ration for each steer.

A bunch of 27 head, averaging 898 pounds, cost $8.35 a hundred pounds. They were put in a dry lot as soon as they reached the farm, and started on the following daily ration: Oats, 10 pounds; new shelled corn, 6 pounds, and clover hay, 7 pounds. Monday they were started on a daily ration of silage, 10 pounds, and new shelled corn, 8 pounds.

Run in Stalk Field.

The fourth bunch of 42 head averaged 709 pounds and cost $8.25 a hundred. An extra 600 pound steer cost $7.25 a hundred. These steers are running in a stalk field and on clover pasture. They are fed oats night and morning. Each steer is getting about 6 2-3 pounds of oats daily.

Seventy-two head of steers fattened during the summer and fall at the Fox river farm were sold recently. Forty-two were sold direct to a Chicago packer at $10 a hundredweight on Dec. 2. They averaged 945 pounds. The steers were weighed when loaded at Montgomery, near the farm, and docked 1,190 pounds. There was no yardage or extra feed cost. An odd steer weighing 780 brought $8.85 a hundred.

Twenty-eight head, averaging slightly more than 965 pounds sold on the Chicago market for $9.85 on Nov. 17. An odd one, weighing 980 pounds, brought $8.85.

TAXES TO SPUR PROFIT SHARING CALLED UNSOUND

3 Business Men Oppose Principle; 2 Back It.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Three of five business men who testified before a senate committee today condemned incentive taxation as an "unsound" policy. They said it might lead eventually to punitive taxation of business.

Charles P. Cooper.

C. P. Cooper, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, added a general criticism of industrial profit sharing. He said sharing of profits with workers "would tend to exaggerate the peaks and valleys of industrial booms and depressions."

The other witnesses were Lothair Teetor, president of the Perfect Circle company, piston ring manufacturer of Hagerstown, Ind., and J. A. Gibson, vice president of the Simplex Wire and Cable company, Cambridge, Mass. They joined Cooper in criticizing the theory of giving federal tax deductions to encourage companies to share profits with workers.

Others Favor Sharing.

However, Teetor and Gibson advocated a sharing of profits to improve labor relations, as did C. S. Redding, vice president of Leeds and Northrup, Philadelphia, and Frederick E. Macy of the A. M. Collins Manufacturing company, Philadelphia. Redding and Macy said they believed incentive taxation was practical.

Cooper said he did not advocate the abolition of profit sharing systems which have worked satisfactorily for both employés and employers in individual business.

"Our view is that, for industry as a whole, profit sharing as a national policy would not be helpful," Cooper said.

Opposes Incentive Levies.

"Similarly, it is our belief that the principle of incentive taxation is unsound as a national policy."

He said the Bell system companies' pension and benefit plan paid employés about $25,000,000 yearly.

Teetor was caustic in his criticism of incentive taxation, which he said, "is a curse to any nation that adopts it as a principle."

Local Loan Gives You the Service You Want

Most of our loans are to employed men and women on their signatures only. LOCAL LOAN originated and perfected this service because the great body of employed people —young or old and regardless of occupation —are entitled to a simplified loan method.

Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. LOCAL LOAN makes liberal Furniture and Auto Loans but if you are steadily employed we prefer to make you a loan on your signature only. You may borrow

SALARY LOANS

On Your Signature Only
WITHOUT CO-MAKERS OR ENDORSERS.

You make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months] and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money. Service does not stop when the loan is made. If an extension is necessary just speak to the cashier or manager and your request will be promptly handled.

We cannot tell you all about our service in our advertisement. Just phone one of the following offices. Your loan request can be taken over the telephone so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

This gives the used car buyer a particularly good break, especially when every one of these extra good cars is given a thorough "going over" in our used car reconditioning plant – the largest of its kind in America.

We want to sell these fine used cars and sell them quick, and that is why you will find exceptionally low prices at any one of our neighborhood stores.
